BORAH ATTACKS NEW DEAL AS NATIONAL PERIL

Sees Bright Future if Policies Change.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Picture on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—In a sensational speech here tonight Senator William E. Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho] branded the Roosevelt recovery policies fallacious in principle and a failure in practice. The senator spoke on the radio under the auspices of the Foreign Policy association.

The President and his brain trust, according to the Idaho senator, have erred in attributing the depression to overproduction and have bungled the undertaking of restoring purchasing power.

The AAA policies of production curtailment are proving costly to producers and consumers alike, said Mr. Borah, and if persisted in will end "in a great detriment to the nation as a whole" and long retard recovery.

Says NRA Aids Monopolies.

The NRA he pictured in the clutches of the monopolists, who under cover of the codes are fixing prices and "sapping the very foundations upon which recovery rests." Purchasing power, he contended, is steadily diminishing instead of increasing.

"If we cannot raise purchasing power, build up consumption, then our system of economics and our capitalistic system as a whole are doomed," Senator Borah said. "I am not contemplating a revolution, but it may be well to remember that in France they taxed and taxed the producer and curtailed and curtailed the purchasing power of the people until they were driven from their homes into the cellars and hiding places of Paris, where the French revolution was born."

Opposes Defeatist Policy.

Instead of pursuing the defeatist policy of production curtailment the United States should be expanding its foreign markets, Mr. Borah contended, rehabilitating monetary and banking and credit systems, restoring the anti-trust laws and breaking "the strangle hold of monopoly which holds the purchasing power of the people down to the lowest point and consumption, in many respects to a starvation level." These, he admitted, are difficult problems, but in their proper solution is to be found our permanent recovery.

Senator Borah said he approaches our problems from the viewpoint that human nature does not change fundamentally and that "the same appetites and passions, the same hopes and aspirations, the same desire to own and possess, the same love of liberty, and, above all, the same instinctive determination to carry on," will continue to assert themselves.

Weary Accept New Burdens.

"You may," he added, "impose upon a tired, worried, and distressed people almost any policy for a time. But a permanent policy must conform to those deep seated impulses and desires of men and women everywhere as 30 centuries of struggle have revealed them to be.

"The reserve energy, the reserve power, the capacity of a people to recover and regain after great catastrophes is one of the marvels, as well as one of the mysteries, of history. To adopt a policy, therefore, based upon the theory that the height of production and advancement has been reached is to accept the gospel of pessimism and despair.

"There is still achievement and great advancement ahead. The world is not satiated. The human family is not in retreat, neither is it at a standstill. It will in time move up and onward. I venture to believe the advancement of the next 50 years will exceed the advancement of the last 50 years. If I did not entertain this view I would not be interested to discuss these questions. I never could become interested in a policy of retreat or restriction.

Demands Sounder Laws.

"Under sound policies, under just and equal laws, the people will come back, and when they do they will reassert that independence of judgment, that freedom of action, that love of liberty which in the past have made our country progressive and powerful."

Senator Borah could not accept the view that overproduction is one of the principal causes of the depression. He pronounced Secretary of State Hull's estimate that 1 billion 600 million people are living in poverty convincing evidence that the problem is one of "distribution rather than overproduction."

In this country, he said, there are

U. S. CUTS OFF INSULL FROM FOREIGN SHORES

BULLETIN.

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 23, Friday.—(AP)—The captain of the Greek steamer Attiki arrived here at 5 a. m. today (9 p. m. Thursday, Chicago time) and informed port police he had sighted Samuel Insull's chartered steamer, the Maiotis, yesterday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Soliciting the help of foreign powers in its effort to capture Samuel Insull, fugitive utilities magnate, the federal government has received assurances from most of them that they will seize Insull or refuse him entrance, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings said today.

In the department of justice, meanwhile, conferences to tighten the net which is being drawn around Insull continued. Officials were pleased with the prompt passage yesterday through congress of a bill giving the government the right to seize Insull in any country with which the United States has extraterritorial rights.

Attorney General Cummings said today that this bill will cut Insull off from any retreat in Ethiopia. The United States has rights in Ethiopia which would enable it to seize Insull there under this new law, according to Cummings.

The state department, the attorney general announced, has requested all countries with which the United States has extradition treaties to arrest Insull the moment he tries to land. Countries with which America has no extradition arrangements have been requested to deny Insull entrance.

Answers to the American requests generally have assured this government of foreign coöperation, according to the attorney general.

WIFE MAY LEAVE TODAY

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 22.—While Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, is still "somewhere at sea," as far as is known, it appeared possible tonight that the passport difficulties of his wife will be straightened out in time for her to leave Greece on tomorrow night's train.

Her application for permission to travel on the Simplon-Orient express to Paris, thence to London, is now under consideration by at least two governments. Visas undoubtedly will be issued as soon as possible, perhaps tomorrow morning.

The difficulties of Mrs. Insull, the former Gladys Wallis of the stage, were emblazoned in the Greek press today. Bitter attacks were launched against French authorities for yesterday's refusal to grant her a visa.

Mrs. Insull Weeps.

It was declared at the American legation today that, so far as is known, Mrs. Insull is an American citizen in good standing whose travels are of no interest to Washington. The statement served as a rejoinder to rumors she had either attempted or professed the intention to commit suicide.

What happened was that Mrs. Insull wept when she was informed yesterday that a French visa was refused. She then remarked to her lawyer, George Pop, that she had not the courage to commit suicide.

[Other dispatches from Athens yesterday said Mrs. Insull had suffered a nervous collapse and that attendants were guarding her to prevent any attempt to take her own life.]

French consular authorities today referred the question of a visa for Mrs. Insull to the foreign office in Paris. An answer is expected tomorrow. The Jugo-Slavs have refused to grant Mrs. Insull a visa until the French issue one.

Gibraltar May Be Goal.

Whether her 74 year old husband is nearing an unknown retreat in his flight from American justice is not known, but Lawyer Pop tonight said he expected "the whole affair" would be finished by Saturday. At 2 a. m. tomorrow [Friday] Insull will have been at sea five days. In that time he could have covered approximately 1,000 miles. The distance from Athens

Taxi Strikers in Wild Riot; N.Y. Police Act

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—After another day of wild rioting by striking taxicab drivers, the city authorities took a firm stand tonight, prohibited all parades by strikers and ordered the police to stop the disturbances.

The orders were issued by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia and Police Commissioner John P. O'Ryan. Mr. O'Ryan announced not only were unauthorized parades by taxi strikers to be forbidden but that no permits for parades would be granted. The police commissioner warned the strikers that there was to be no more violence.

Special Orders to Mobilize.

Chief Inspector Lewis J. Valentine issued special mobilization orders. Commissioner O'Ryan and Inspector Valentine then addressed 250 officials on a new policy in handling the strike. More than 200 detectives, motorcycle and mounted men, radio cars, emergency trucks, patrol wagons, and detective cars were ordered concentrated in the midtown area. The substance of the orders was "no more leniency—from now on there is to be action."

This action followed a day of violence which eclipsed any of the previous outbreaks in the strike. Thousands of strikers marched through the streets assaulting drivers, ripping doors, headlights, and meters from the cabs, yanking passengers out of the vehicles, engaging in frequent fights with the police.

No less than 40 cabs either were wrecked or damaged. Traffic was seriously interrupted at many points and pedestrians thrown into panic as the mobs, oblivious to all efforts of the police to restrain them, went about their work of assault and destruction.

Reform, Return to Assaults.

Apparently believing themselves free from danger of serious molestation, groups of strikers reformed again and again and returned to the assaults.

While a number of arrests were made, the police, acting under previous orders, did not attempt to use force against the mobs. Only at critical moments did mounted men and police radio cars interfere to disperse the attackers. Tonight, however, 34 men were arrested on charges of malicious mischief following an encounter with policemen and detectives at 241st street and Broadway, the Bronx. Those arrested had been riding in an open truck, from which they jumped to smash taxicabs on the street.

It was the many acts of violence which finally moved Mayor La Guardia to change his attitude of leniency to the strikers and to order the police department into action. Earlier the mayor had pleaded in vain with the strikers to desist from violen[ce]

MYSTERY BLAST AND FIRE WRECK CLOSED CABARET

A mysterious explosion, followed by fire, wrecked the closed Moulin Rouge night club at 511-19 Diversey parkway last night and damaged several shops and stores in the block. Property damage was estimated at $150,000 by Fire Marshal Corrigan. An unidentified woman was slightly injured.

The explosion blew out two walls of the Moulin Rouge, which occupied the second floor, and toppled a section of one wall on the roof of the adjoining one story Cut Rate Fruit market at 521 Diversey parkway. It was in this store that the woman was hurt.

Fire started immediately after the blast and gained such headway that a 4-11 alarm was sounded. Damage was done to five shops on the first floor of the Moulin Rouge building. The parkway was blocked by automobiles and thousands of spectators.

For a time the fire threatened the Embassy hotel, just east of the burning area. Hundreds of guests fled to the street.

Fire Attorney Thomas Sheehan announced he would question George Leiderman, one of the owners of the Moulin Rouge, today. The café was closed three weeks ago.

Miss Goldman Calls U.S. Land of the Freest

Emma Goldman, the anarchist, who spent thirty turbulent years trying to upset the United States government, told an audience in the new Masonic temple last night that America is the freest country in the world.

Emma is a woman without a country. Fifteen years ago she was deported from the United States to Russia, her birthplace, as an anarchist, after serving a prison term for obstructing the war draft. Six months after her arrival in Russia Lenin ousted her because her philosophical anarchism did not fit with the theories of the soviet dictatorship. Since then she has wandered from country to country, making her living by writing and lecturing on the vanishing philosophy of anarchy.

Given Permit to Enter U. S.

Recently the Washington government permitted her to enter this country under a pledge to engage in no activities against the government. Last night in her speech she lashed out against the Russian dictatorship and against the dictatorships of Italy and Germany. At the close of her address she told what she thought of the United States.

"I have been asked," she said, "whether there is danger of a Fascist dictatorship in America, whether the liberties of America are likely to be taken away by tyrannies such as those of Germany and Italy. I can only tell you that you are still free in America. You are free to come here and listen to me, with no army of police descending on you and driving you out for subversive activities. No spies will enter your home to search for incriminating documents. No legalized gangster will shoot you down in the street."

Contrasts to Old Days.

Miss Goldman's speech last night, her modified praise of America, her subdued, well dressed audience of about 1,500, were in sharp contrast to the old days. A younger Chicago remembers her as "Red Emma," a young firebrand, gathering the forces of discontent under the banner of anarchy and preaching the downfall of all organized authority.

Last night's audience saw an alert and active woman of 64, with a dumpy figure and a resonant contralto voice, preaching an idealistic doctrine of freedom. In the '80s and '90s an anarchist was depicted as a red haired desperado, with a dagger in his teeth and a sputtering bomb in either hand.

Last night there wasn't a set of red whiskers in the house. The former "Red Emma" addressed the crowd without fireworks. She was politely applauded when she denounced Mussolini and Hitler and when she delivered her mild praise for America. She might have been a leading clubwoman, trained in public speech, delivering her views on the European situat[ion].

MANUFACTURERS ASSAIL A. F. OF L. AS ONLY ISSUE

Unions Will Await Final Word from Roosevelt.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Despite two days of attempted mediation by President Roosevelt, the huge automobile industry appeared tonight to be slipping closer to a paralyzing strike and bitter industrial warfare.

After the President had spent all afternoon listening to the laborers' side of the controversy, the automobile manufacturers, who were at the White House yesterday, blasted peace making attempts with a statement denouncing William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and declaring that the issue at stake is union domination and the closed shop for all American industry.

Vote to Delay Action.

Nevertheless union representatives voted at 9:30 tonight to hold their threatened strike in abeyance until they get "final word" from President Roosevelt. The decision was reached despite the manufacturers' denunciation and was flashed to local unions throughout the country. Apparently all sides, including the White House itself, are sparring for time and waiting for concessions or more amenable dispositions.

"There should be no misunderstanding as to the issue in this strike," the manufacturers declared through their association, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. "Mr. Green seeks to make our employés believe that the government favors the American Federation of Labor as the spokesman for labor and through such deception to fasten the closed shop on American industry. The issue is union domination."

Makes Crisis More Acute.

Bursting like a bombshell after a day of progress in the White House conferences, the manufacturers' defiance of the union, coupled with a nervousness among local labor leaders, made the crisis which President Roosevelt is seeking to iron out more acute than ever.

Meanwhile the labor delegates, led by Mr. Green, who conferred with the President today, were meeting tonight to determine their line of action and to consider a secret compromise which President Roosevelt apparently had advanced to them.

Mr. Green, upon emerging from the President's conference, already had postponed indefinitly the strike which was scheduled for tomorrow, but local leaders attending the meeting were frankly nervous lest the delay and the defi of the manufacturers cause a spontaneous walkout tomorrow.

Keep Plan a Secret.

Labor leaders and White House secretaries were equally tight lipped after the four hour conference with the President this afternoon, confining their statements to expressions of pleasure and "progress." What the secret proposal which President Roosevelt apparently had held out to the laborers for their consideration tonight was no one would reveal.

Plans, laid before the manufacturers issued their bellicose statement, were that Mr. Green should report back the workers' decision tomorrow morning and that the President then would decide whether to call the union representatives or the manufacturers back to the White House for another meeting.

Opposed to Licensing.

President Roosevelt, it was learned today, is extremely opposed to using his drastic powers to license the automobile industry, as was suggested by labor officials yesterday in the event of a refusal by the manufacturers to accede to the labor demands. The President would not apply this radical weapon except in the most dire emergency, probably not even if the industry were actually tied up in a harmful strike.

But he has sent word to the automobile makers today that he may put screws on them in another fashion. He is reported to have notified the manufacturers that he will put heavy influence in congress behind the Wagner bill which would outlaw company unions, would greatly strengthen the powers of the national labor board, and put direct control of labor disputes in the hands of that board. This bill has been strenuously opposed by many industrial leaders, including those in the automobile trade.

Halts Longshoremen's Strike.

At the same time the President staved off temporarily another strike of major importance to the recovery progr[am], at least insofar as conc[er]ns

"Confronted with the plain truth that the threatened strike is for union domination of the automobile industry, Mr. Green has now shifted his ground. He says recognition of the American Federation of Labor is not an issue and has not been raised. That is camouflage.

"He knows the American people would not stand for an American Federation of Labor dictatorship if realized. That was his real purpose. Yet Mr. Green himself has said that there is room for only one labor organization in the United States, and that if organized labor has to strike for what it wants, strikes must come.

"Mr. Green now states that the workers have merely asked that the manufacturers deal with representatives of their own choosing—that the manufacturers permit the employés to enjoy the rights guaranteed them by the labor provisions of the law. He evidently wants to make people believe that the manufacturers have not done so.

Just "What We're Doing."

"What Mr. Green now says he wants is exactly what the manufacturers have done and are doing.

"Every right of the employés under the recovery act and the automobile manufacturing code they are free to exercise.

"Collective bargaining in the automobile plants represented by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce complies with the National Industrial Recovery act.

"The automobile industry has supported the NRA from the beginning. It was one of the first to present a code approved by the President of the United States, and, in response to the President's suggestion a few weeks ago, the industry again further shortened hours and raised wages.

"The facts are these:

"The employés of most companies, by heavy votes, have elected representatives of their own choosing to bargain collectively with the management. The companies neither coerced them nor intimidated them nor interfered with their choice.

"Working Satisfactorily."

"This collective bargaining is working satisfactorily and with practical results.

"Employés were not required to vote under the representation plans. If they did vote under them, that does not prevent their having any other accredited representative of their own choosing to bargain for them with the management.

"Groups may choose such representatives or an individual may deal on his own behalf.

"Employés may be represented by any one showing authority from those for whom they speak.

"What happened in the plants was this—under the labor provisions of the recovery act, employés were invited to elect representatives of their own choosing to bargain collectively. Plants were divided into voting districts in order to provide for adequate representation. Employés nominated their own candidates and then voted by secret ballot for the candidates so nominated.

"Counted Own Ballots."

"The ballots were counted by the employés. The plans themselves are simple and may be changed by the employés. Generally speaking, elec-

the west, when he persuaded Pacific coast longshoremen to put off a strike called for tomorrow until he could name an impartial board to arbitrate the dispute.

The President was warned of the impending longshoremen's walkout by George Creel, California chairman of the national emergency council, who wired him that 12,000 workers would strike at ports ranging from Vancouver to San Diego.

Auto Truce Chief Aim.

The President's chief aim, however, was directed toward averting the strike of the automobile workers which he believes may close up many plants in Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Missouri.

The union representatives, led by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and William Collins, the federation's organizer in the automobile industry, spent four hours in uninterrupted conference with the President this afternoon.

Among the other spokesmen for the unions present were Arthur Greer, representing workers in the Hudson plant; Paul Miley from the Fisher body plant at Cleveland, John A. Bailey from the Buick plant at Flint, Al Cook from the Fisher body plant at Flint, Richard Byrd from the Pontiac factory at Flint, David Lano, representing workers in the Chevrolet factory at Detroit, and Lionel Bentley, for workers in the Nash plants at Kenosha and Racine.

In addition to these union organizers and officials, a number of others appeared with them at the White House and were received briefly by the President. When they emerged, leaving their leaders in the executive office, they declared Mr. Roosevelt had promised to obtain justice for their cause.

Then for three hours the conference proceeded. The President was supported by his NRA administrator, Hugh S. Johnson, and for a time by Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, who had to leave early to start by airplane for Detroit, where she is to make a routine address tomorrow.

After all the issues had been fully discussed, and the President had asked many questions in his efforts to determine exactly what the unions wanted and what complaints they had, all the union officials except Green and Collins withdrew.

Told to Compromise.

It was learned that Mr. Roosevelt informed the labor officials that they would have to surrender some of their demands in the national interest of avoiding a strike which would not only cast a paralyzing effect over the Detroit and other manufacturing areas, but would seriously jeopardize his entire recovery effort.

Earlier in the day the union leaders had spent two hours in conference with Gen. Johnson, who asked them to present in detail all the complaints they had against the automobile manufacturers. The labor representatives told Johnson, it was learned, that many workers had been discharged by the auto companies because of their union activities.

The federation officers informed Johnson that the manufacturers had refused to deal with them as the representatives of the workers, and insisted this was in violation of the labor section, 7-A, of the national recovery act.

The union representatives informed President Roosevelt that they were forced to resort to strike action, rather than to follow the orderly and peaceful process prescribed by law, because by the time court orders could be obtained compelling the manufacturers to observe the law, the peak of production would have ended and the force of a strike would be lost entirely.

Most on 24 Hour Basis.

At the present time, and for at least several weeks ahead, all or nearly all of the automobile plants will be operating on a 24 hour basis. By the middle of April some of the plants will be at the end of peak production and will be ready to lay off thousands whose labor now is essential.

In an attempt to get the representatives of the railroad managements and employés to agree to extension of the present rail wage agreement as urged by President Roosevelt, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, held separate conferences today with the contending groups.

At a session in the morning he discussed the situation with the members of the conference committee of managers, of which W. F. Thiehoff is chairman, representing the railroads, and in the afternoon he met with the railway labor executives' association of which A. F. Whitney is chairman.

Auto Factories Speeded Up; Fear Strike Crippling Trade

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 22.—[Special.]—Automobile production seemed to speed up today as some 250,000 automotive workers, 200,000 of them in the Detroit area alone, and the heads of the big plants which have been leading the march towards recovery spent the day in watchful waiting for the outcome of President Roosevelt's conferences in Washington.

Prevailing opinion in the Michigan automotive towns seemed to be that the truce which was reached Tuesday at the President's behest may be extended for perhaps ten days, as suggested by the White House.

Meanwhile Detroit business men, merchants, industrialists and politicians declaimed vehemently that a walkout would stop national recovery in its tracks. The plants are now working overtime, night and day, some of them on three shifts, trying to catch up with their order books, and the threat if a strike has served to increase the speed still further.

Would Cripple Trade.

Trade figures in circulation today were interpreted as showing that a strike in the automobile factories would not only throw a wet blanket over the buying wave now starting in America, but also would cripple the export of American cars to foreign markets, one of the factors in business revival.

Late figures show an output of 73,500 units in the week reported March 17, as against 71,500 the week before and 26,250 last year. Ford, Chevrolet, and Plymouth are reported to be producing almost at capacity and Dodge, Chrysler and Studebaker all registered gains in output. Hudson, Nash, Buick and other plants are going full blast, and the industrialists are shouting that the 1934 models are towing prosperity around the curve and the industry has given revival its greatest propulsion.

Gains in export trade are being pointed to as of considerable significance, for the building up of the foreign market for American goods is accounted a basic element in sustained recovery.

Sales abroad in February showed marked improvement. General Motors sales in foreign markets last month were 11,195 units. This was an increase of 62 per cent over a year ago. For this year so far overseas sales have been 71 per cent greater than in the same period in 1933 and 58 per cent ahead of 1932.

Last month Chrysler Export corporation shipped 4,490 passenger cars and trucks abroad, the largest February shipment it has ever exported. It was two and a half times larger than in February last year.

Two Months Nearly Equal Year.

Nash Motors' foreign market has increased, and up to March 1 shipments this year were equal to 80 per cent of the entire export shipments last year. Studebaker-Pierce-Arrow corporation made great February gains, and its February shipments abroad were the largest for any February since the boom year 1929.

January shipments of automotive exports reached $11,239,000, the highest mark since August, 1931. The January figure was 16 per cent above December and 67 per cent higher than in January, 1933. These are only part of the full figures for the industry, but they indicate the growing strength of the export movement.

On the streets of Detroit the current talk is that all this would be wiped away if a walkout should be declared.

In the matter of buying power alone it is estimated that a strike would cut off in Detroit a pay roll of approximately one million dollars a day.

tions are held annually, but most of the plans provide also for recall of elected representatives by their constituents if their services are unsatisfactory to the employés.

"The purpose of these plans was to provide machinery for collective bargaining, there having been no collective bargaining arrangements in most of the plants prior to the recovery act.

"Mr. Green charges that these elections were unfair. The facts do not support his charge.

"Many of the elected representatives now serving under the employé representation plans are officers and members of local unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"These elections were held late last summer and last fall. If any employés regarded them as unfair, they could ignore the representation plans and ask authenticated outside representatives to act for them in dealing with the management.

"Most Cases Settled."

"Mr. Green knows that where the latter course has been taken the manufacturers have met and dealt with these outside spokesmen and that in most cases the questions at issue have been amicably settled.

"These facts clearly show that when Mr. Green says the issue is not union recognition he is misrepresenting the issue.

"There should be no misunderstanding as to the issue in this strike. Mr. Green seeks to make our employés believe that the government favors the American Federation of Labor as the spokesman for labor through such deception to fasten the closed shop on American industry.

SNOW PREDICTED FOR TODAY; COLD WAVE WILL STAY

Clouded skies, occasional snow and temperatures well below normal are forecast for Chicago today and tomorrow by the weather bureau.

Yesterday's thermometer readings varied between 20 and 28 degrees, with a mean of 24. A normal mean for March 22 is 37 degrees. Brisk winds added to the wintry aspect of the day. Huge waves were whipped up and caused the closing of the north side outer drive.

The cold was widespread in the central portion of the United States yesterday, most points reporting temperatures of 10 to 25 degrees below normal.

Second Budd Strike Fails to Materialize at Meeting

FORMER CAPONE AID CONVICTED IN TWO MINUTES

Judge Blocks 28th Stay; Forces Trial.

A jury in the Criminal court required only 2 minutes yesterday to find Harold Erlandson, 33 years old, a former Capone alcohol peddler, guilty of robbery with a gun. In less time than that Judge Walter P. Steffen, who presided, overruled a motion for a new trial and sentenced him to prison for a term of 1 year to life. Erlandson was charged with stealing $230 from Mrs. Jennie Wilk, 15 East 120th street, on Nov. 21, 1932.

The rapidity with which Erlandson's case was disposed of was in striking contrast to the time required to bring him to trial. Since his indictment more than a year ago he had received 27 continuances. Yesterday Judge Steffen forced him to trial.

Got 27 Continuances.

How Erlandson received the 27 continuances could not be determined yesterday because the original files in his case are mysteriously missing. In their place are substitute papers which Judge Steffen branded as falsifications. The judge, aroused over the case, will start a thorough investigation into the matter this morning.

When Erlandson's case was called yesterday Judge Steffen was about to grant a continuance because he already had a trial scheduled. Furthermore, the memorandum attached to the files indicated the matter had been up in court only once before. However, Erlandson's attorney demanded a trial, to which objection was made because the prosecution witnesses were not present. Judge Steffen became interested. He examined the indictment. He found it to be a copy and not an original.

Then Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle spoke up. He said that the case had been continued 27 times and that the Chicago crime commission had written the state's attorney a letter stating that they had information "that all is not right in this case."

Verdict in 2 Minutes.

Judge Steffen acted. He sent policemen to Mrs. Wilk's home to bring her to court. They brought her into court a few hours later. Judge Steffen ordered a jury selected. This was done. Mrs. Wilk testified.

The jury went out and returned with a guilty verdict 2 minutes later. Judge Steffen imposed sentence and fixed appeal bonds at $50,000.

When this was over Judge Steffen ready had a trial scheduled. Further-announced he would investigate to determine how Erlandson received so many continuances and how the original papers in the case have disappeared. The case, he said, has many unusual aspects, and the duplicate files, he charged, are obviously falsifications. He added he would look into reports that money was paid out.

TELL THE EFFECTS OF NAGGING ON CUDAHY AND SON

Two Physicians Testify in Divorce Trial.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 22.—[Special.]—Two physicians, one a child psychiatrist and mental specialist, the other a general practitioner and Cudahy family physician, today testified for Michael Cudahy in his mental cruelty divorce complaint against Mrs. Alice Dixon Pinto Cudahy. Upon completion of their testimony, trial was adjourned by Circuit Judge Charles Aarons until Monday at 9:30 a. m.

Dr. Roland A. Jefferson, the psychiatrist, in response to hypothetical questions, advised the court and an attentive audience about the effects of fault finding and irrational criticism on the mind and spirit of an eight year old boy. Richard, son of the Cudahys, is of that age.

Dr. Arthur J. Holbrook, Cudahy house physician and intimate friend of Mr. Cudahy, described the packer's general condition before and after the separation from his wife. He reported vast improvement in the post marital period.

Tries to Model Father.

Dr. Jefferson stressed the importance of paternal influence upon a child of Richard Cudahy's age. He contended, on the basis of his experience in more than 2,000 child cases, that a boy is normal only when he is having the benefit of his father's influence. This paramount influence of the father, the witness continued, is based on biological factors as well as social relationships. The normal boy, he said, accepts his father as the ideal man and tries to model his own life after his parents.

Turning to the problems of fault finding effects on a child's mind, the expert stated that continued criticism by parents leads to resentment and antagonism by the child toward the parent and that the general effect is bound to be deleterious.

Forcing a child to simulate affection for a parent has a similarly detrimental effect, particularly so when the child is in fear of his parent, the witness said. There has been testimony that Mrs. Cudahy criticized both Dicky and her daughter Peggy, by a former marriage, harshly, and that she compelled the boy to come to her over his protests.

Tells of Pleasant Relationship.

Dr. Jefferson, who came to Milwaukee from Colorado about two years ago, said he spent a day and a half last August with Mr. Cudahy and the boy at Deer Path lodge in northern Wisconsin and had occasion to observe the pleasant relationship between the elder and the younger Cudahy. This observation, the doctor said, should not be considered in the nature of professional expert testimony, but merely that of a friendly visitor.

Judge Aarons put the concluding question and that was on the effect of divided custody, each parent having a child for alternate periods. Dr. Jefferson said divided custody only could have an injurious effect on a child.

Dr. Holbrook with the expressed consent of his client and after overcoming objections by Mrs. Cudahy's lawyers, testified he examined Mr. Cudahy in the months preceding the Cudahy's separation late in 1929 and found him haggard and worn, with every indication of sleeplessness.

"Mr. Cudahy appeared depressed and highly nervous," the physician added. "After the separation he appeared much improved, the haggard look was gone and there were no evidences of nervousness until some time in February when the divorce case came on for trial."

J. I. CASE COMPANY STRIKE IS SETTLED; WAGES ARE INCREASED

Racine, Wis., March 22.—(AP)—The strike at the two J. I. Case company plants, makers of farm machinery, was settled tonight and 1,200 employés will return to work tomorrow morning.

A joint announcement by Leon Clausen, company president, and the Racine County Workers' Committee brought to an end a strike which started more than three weeks ago.

Wages of day laborers will be increased approximately 15 per cent and the minimum for piece workers will be 45 cents an hour, compared with the 38 cent minimum in effect when the strike began.

The company agreed to recognize the workers' committee as the collective bargaining representative of its employés. The workmen earlier this week indorsed the committee by a large majority at an election supervised by officials of the federal labor board.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

RECEIVERSHIP SECRECY DRAWS FIRE IN U. S. QUIZ

Reinsurance of Security Life Studied.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Secrecy which surrounded the reinsurance of policyholders in the insolvent Security Life Insurance Company of America drew the fire of the congressional committee investigating federal court receiverships last evening.

In a night session Ald. John A. Massen [48th], who was appointed receiver of the insurance company by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, spent two hours on the witness stand before the committee at the United States courthouse. It was the liveliest session the committee has held during its present series of hearings.

The chairman, Congressman Tom D. McKeown [Dem., Okla.], and the other congressmen joined their counsel, George Lavin, and their investigator, George F. Cummerow, in shooting questions at the witness.

Ald Massen's testimony disclosed that Judge Lindley ordered that the bids of various companies for reinsurance of the Security Life business be kept secret, and that the contract by which the Central Life Insurance Company of Illinois got that business was ordered drawn, entered, and later amended, at hearings in chambers.

It was also brought out that Cornelius J. Doyle, then Republican state chairman, appeared in the proceedings as an attorney in a dual capacity, representing both the Central Life and the receiver for the Security Life.

Judge Orders Secrecy.

The Security Life went into receivership on April 18, 1932, two days after the Inter-Southern Life Insurance company of Louisville, in which the Security had invested about $3,000,000, had been placed in receivership. Ald. Massen was appointed receiver for the Security, advertised for proposals for reinsurance of the policyholders, and Judge Lindley ordered the proposals, when received, kept secret.

Ald. Massen testified that in seeking analyses of the proposals from his attorneys and actuary, he had them rewritten in blind form, concealing the name of the proposing companies. The secrecy, he said, was a suggestion of Arthur S. Lytton, one of his counsel.

"If the proposals had come out," explained Ald. Massen, "there would have been so many brickbats thrown in court that the successful bidder would have come out of it all scarred up."

"Would that have been any worse than the brickbats which were thrown after it did come out?" asked Congressman McKeown.

All of the first proposals were adjudged unsatisfactory in some details, and each of the bidders was asked to make a supplementary proposal, which was done. On Aug. 5, 1932, Ald. Massen went to Danville, where Judge Lindley lives and usually holds court [he sits in Chicago as a visiting judge], and an order was entered there authorizing the receiver to negotiate a contract with the Central Life company.

Announces Reinsurance Plan.

Ten days later Ald. Massen announced to newspapers that the Central Life had taken over the Security Life business.

"Did any stockholder or policyholder in the Security Life have a chance to compare the proposals for reinsurance?" asked Congressman Randolph Perkins [Rep., N. J.]. "Were they never consulted by the court?"

"As a legal proposition," replied Ald. Massen, "the receiver and the insurance department of Illinois were presumed to represent th stockholders and policyholders."

On Armistice day of 1932, Attorney Lavin next brought out, Ald. Massen, Attorney Follett W. Bull of Bull, Lytton, and Olson, his counsel; Alfred McArthur, president of the Central Life, and Attorney Doyle, his counsel, met in a Danville hotel. The next day, in chambers, Judge Lindley entered an amendment to the reinsurance contract.

Discussion of this amendment brought the fireworks of the session. Originally the Central Life had agreed to reinsure all Security Life policyholders. The amendment exempted the company from reinsuring paid up and term insurance, which paid no premiums after the receivership, and which, Attorney Lavin said, amounted to about 25 per cent of the total business.

Begin Firing Questions.

It was at this point that the whole committee began firing questions at Ald. Massen, and the discussion, in part, was as follows:

MR. LAVIN — Didn't an attorney named McCormick file a petition on behalf of those policyholders asking that that amendment be set aside, and didn't Judge Lindley practically have him thrown out on his ear?

MR. MASSEN—Colloquially speaking, yes.

MR. LAVIN — And didn't Judge Lindley threaten to hold him in contempt if he filed the petition?

MR. MASSEN—I believe he did.

MR. PERKINS—Did you file an answer objecting to the court allowing the intervening petition?

MR. MASSEN—Yes. That matter is now pending in the Circuit Court of Appeals.

MR. M'KEOWN [chuckling] — Sounds like a fellow who started playing poker and found he'd left the joker in the deck.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN C. LEHR [Dem., Mich.] — Did you give the policyholders any notice of the amendment?

MR. MASSEN — My contention is that the amendment merely clarified matters. It did not affect the rights of the policyholders.

MR. LAVIN—It left those policyholders out in the cold, didn't it?

MR. LEHR — If the amendment didn't mean anything, why did the Central Life ask for it?

Sticks to His Point.

Ald. Massen, however, stuck to his contention that the amendment had not actually impaired any rights of the policyholders affected.

He was also questioned as to why he had chosen Bull, Lytton and Olson as his attorneys. They had been attorneys for the Security Life before receivership, when the company was controled by a group headed by Machir J. Dorsey. Dorsey and three others were recently convicted in the Criminal court of conspiracy. They were charged with putting into the company treasury some second mortgages on industrial property which they or their associates owned at Waukegan, and representing the obligations as first mortgages.

"I asked Mr. Bull if there was any reason why it would be an impropriety for his firm to represent me, and he assured me that there was none," said Ald. Massen.

Bull, Lytton and Olson were never asked by the company to pass on the title of the mortgaged Waukegan property, he added.

"If it was as represented here, that deal was probably made in the nighttime," commented Congressman McKeown.

Earlier in the day the committee questioned Abel Davis, receiver of the Illinois Life Insurance company, Ernest Palmer, state superintendent of insurance, and others regarding the receivership of the Illinois Life Insurance company. Reinsurance proposals were made public in that case, and court combats between different bidders were so spirited that the first two companies which attempted the reinsurance task withdrew their proposals.

Diamond Dealer Kills Self; Named in Stavisky Scandal

PARIS, March 22.—(AP)—Another suicide in the $60,000,000 Stavisky scandal was reported by the police tonight.

Jean Brunschvick, a diamond merchant, was found dead in a hotel bathroom. He apparently had swallowed poison. His name, police officials said, appears on the check stubs of the late Serge Stavisky.

Meanwhile, violent criticism of French justice as the result of the collapse of the Bayonne Municipal pawnshop hit present and former ministers of the government.

Former Minister Assaulted.

Henri Cheron, minister of justice in the Doumergue cabinet, was accused by members of parliament with permitting a delay of action in the case, while Rene Renoult, former justice minister, was assaulted by a group of lawyers in a courtroom, after deputies had dragged his name into the investigation.

Renoult, prominent in the ranks of the Radical Socialists, faces an inquiry for the part he is alleged to have played in at least three postponements of the trial of Stavisky, head of the pawnshop, who was found dead in Chamonix as police hunted him shortly after the institution's crash.

Police had to rush the courtroom to rescue Renoult from the wrath of his colleagues who, more than once, have upset the dignity of the courts since the Stavisky case first broke.

Link Stavisky to Murder.

Revelations were made today in the six year old mystery of the poisoning of Deputy Jean Galmont who died in Cayenne, French Guiana, a month after he was elected mayor.

An anonymous letter to the parliamentary investigating commission enclosed clippings of Stavisky's signature, to show that certain information came from sources close to Stavisky, and linked Galmont with the dead financier and his wife.

Galmont was supposed to have been an admirer of Arlette Simon, Stavisky's widow. A partly burned letter signed "Stavisky" said "I think Galmont understood what it can cost him to put himself across my path."

May Summon Cheron.

The commission heard the testimony of Deputy Philippe Henriot regarding the Galmont mystery, and later announced that Minister Cheron may be summoned before it because of the revelations of Galmont's death and the indication that Stavisky headed a terrorist gang that may have slain its enemies.

Cheron must give "satisfaction" for the reasons for the delay in the case or else he will be summoned, the commission said.

BOY, 4, DIES OF SCALDS.

Joseph Keenan, 4 years old, died in the county hospital yesterday of scalds suffered when he fell into a tub of water in the kitchen of the family home at 4706 5th avenue.

BRITAIN TO LAUNCH NEW AIR MAIL SERVICE TO CANADA, FAR EAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 22.—A greatly speeded air mail service to Canada and Newfoundland is planned for this summer, according to the Daily Telegraph. It will also offer the quickest service from Europe to the far east, and will reduce the time from London to Montreal from six and a half days to four.

Ship to shore mail exchanges will be be used by Canadian Pacific railway boats as during the Ottawa conference two years ago. Exchanges will be made west of Ireland and at Belle Isle, at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. This will be linked with the west coast by a trans-Canadian airline from Montreal to Vancouver. From Vancouver to Japan and China mail will be carried by steamship in the usual manner.

In winter when the St. Lawrence is icebound planes will take off near Cape Race, Newfoundland, and fly to Shediac, New Brunswick. From Shediac there is both rail and air service to Montreal.

Find Necklace Owned by Dewey Widow to Be Paste

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—A pearl and diamond necklace, once owned by Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, widow of Admiral Dewey, was disclosed in the Supreme court of the District of Columbia today to be merely a paste imitation, so realistic it deceived the court's appraiser, who placed a $15,000 value on the choker. Today the court ordered the choker sold for $1,000 to Frederick McLean Bugher, a great-nephew of Mrs. Dewey.

THIRD LIFE OF GOETZ REVEALED; 'WIFE' IS HUNTED

Find So. Shore Home of College Gangster.

Fred Goetz, the college bred gangster, whose "second life" as the desperado, J. George Zeigler, was brought to light following his murder on Tuesday, was revealed yesterday in still a third rôle.

In his first character he was army officer and University of Illinois graduate "gone wrong"; in his second character, he was the outlaw Zeigler, wanted for attempted rape, bank robbery and murder.

Expensive South Shore Home.

Yesterday, it was learned, in an expensively furnished lakeside apartment at 7827 South Shore drive, his neighbors and landlady knew him as "George B. Seibert," a cultured gentleman and a loving husband, with studious tastes and a professional bent for landscape gardening.

There he had lived with "Mrs. Seibert" in apparent tranquility, and his neighbors were amazed to learn that the gentle "Mr. Seibert" was a desperado and killer.

"Mrs. Seibert," however, had vanished when police reached the apartment. She was being sought last night.

The new phase of Goetz's life was revealed after the inquest into his death had been opened, his true identity established, and the session then adjourned until March 29 to allow time for further police investigation.

Reveal Income Source.

Coincident with the discovery of "Seibert," American Express company officials came forward with an explanation of his source of income. At the county morgue, investigators identified the body as that of a man calling himself "George A. Rhodes."

In May of 1932 Rhodes stole $5,380 in blank American Express checks from a New York bank, and, before the alarm was spread, cashed $3,000 of them at several Chicago banks, and $2,000 more at a Detroit bank.

The discovery of "Seibert" and his apartment came by tracing papers found in the pockets of the dead man. With them, Sergt. Frank Donahue of the coroner's office and Chief of Police Michael Solar of Cicero, went to the South Shore drive apartment building.

'Fine People,' Says Landlady.

The owner, Mrs. Leonora Smith, revealed that "Seibert" had lived there for slightly more than a month, with "Mrs. Irene Seibert," presumably his wife.

"They were fine people," she said, "Mr. Seibert seemed to me to be a very brilliant and handsome man. His wife was beautiful. She was tall, very blonde, and had gray-blue eyes. They always seemed to have plenty of money."

There was evidence that Mrs. Seibert had been in the apartment either that morning or the night before, and had taken away most of her clothing and personal effects. The closet still contained a few dresses and several suits of men's clothing, but that was all.

Discover Landscape Prints.

The desk in the room yielded a number of blue prints of landscape gardening projects, and when it was recalled that Goetz had taken up that line of study in college, the theory was advanced that perhaps the life of "Seibert" as a landscape gardener actually was legitimate.

There was one story that "Seibert" had done the landscaping for a farm "Zeigler" purchased in Wisconsin some years ago.

The apartment also contained a number of books which denoted an educated taste in literature, but no guns or indications of a gangster's home.

Back at the Cicero police station other angles of the murder were being probed and four persons who were in the restaurant at 4811 West Cermak road, in front of which Goetz was killed, were taken into custody for questioning.

One was Fenton M. Mangan, owner of the place. All were released last night, however, with the stipulation that they reappear when the inquest convenes again March 29.

CANAL TRUSTEES O.K. PLAN TO SELL CHANNELS TO U.S.

Bill Held Solution to Lake Diversion Problem.

Approval was given yesterday by the sanitary district board to the final draft of a bill to be submitted to congress offering the sale of the main drainage channel and the Calumet-Sag channel to the government for $90,607,173. Acceptance of the offer by the government would solve the lake diversion problem, according to President Thomas J. Bowler of the sanitary board, and give the government title to a needed section of the lakes to the gulf waterway.

The matter has been under consideration by the sanitary trustees for some time and the action of yesterday put up to the government the project of taking ownership of a section of navigable water. Mr. Bowler said the people of Chicago paid the expense of creating this connecting link between the Chicago and Des Plaines rivers for sewage disposal purposes, and if the government now wants it for navigation purposes the government ought to buy it.

Alternative Toll Plan.

An alternative, the board president said, would be for the sanitary district to collect toll from all shipping through the sanitary canal. That possibility, however, has not been under consideration, he said.

By resolution, the board sent the bill, as drafted, to Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, senior member of the Illinois delegation in congress. It is in the form of an enactment appropriating $90,607,173 for the acquisition of the following canal properties and improvements:

Improvements made by the sanitary district of Chicago in the Chicago river and the south branch of the Chicago river.

The main channel of the sanitary district.

The Calumet-Sag channel.

Improvements made by the sanitary district in the Calumet and Little Calumet rivers, including tracts of land, described in the bill, and all rights and titles that the sanitary district has in the bed of the Illinois waterway in certain described sections.

Reserves Operating Control.

The bill, as sent to Washington, would reserve the sanitary district's control over the maintenance and operation of those structures necessary to regulate the flow in the Chicago river and the two channels.

After years of litigation, the United States Supreme court ordered a reduction in the amount of water diverted from Lake Michigan for sewage disposal purposes, Mr. Bowler explained, and put the district under the necessity of an immense expenditure for construction of sewage disposal stations. If the government now takes ownership of the canal the district will be relieved of a great burden, Mr. Bowler said.

The sanitary board also voted yesterday to award a contract for the resumption of work on a sewer system by the Ryan Contracting company which, it was said, would result in the reëmployment of 1,500 CWA workers within the next two weeks. Trustee Ross A. Woodhull announced that the board had paid off all small debts of $200 or under and would soon be ready to pay salaries for the first half of March.

CAR COMPANY GIVEN EXTENSION ON TAKING UP LAKE SHORE LINE

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday granted the Chicago Surface lines nine more months in which to remove their tracks from Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street. The additional time was allowed as a matter of convenience for west side car riders going to the Navy pier to take boats to A Century of Progress this summer. The tracks were laid under a temporary order ten years ago.

JUDGE FINNEGAN TO DECIDE RACKET CASE PLEA TODAY

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court will give a decision at 10 o'clock this morning on the motions made in behalf of the eighteen defendants in the racket conspiracy trial for a directed verdict of not guilty, automatically taking the case out of the hands of the jury. A secondary motion asks the judge to direct not guilty verdicts on certain of the twenty-three counts in the indictment, wherein the defense contends they have not been involved in the evidence.

The motions for a complete directed verdict on all counts are being made particularly in behalf of Ald. Oscar Nelson, vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, and Attorney Aaron Sapiro, nationally known trade organizer.

Judge Finnegan, who on Wednesday evening said he wanted to ask Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber certain questions regarding the indictment and evidence produced by the state, failed to do so when court opened yesterday. However, the judge heard further arguments from both the state and defense attorneys and then announced that he would give his decision this morning.

Daniel Godfrey, 19 years old, 622 West 47th street, who was captured by police after being chased in a stolen automobile some days ago, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $3,500 yesterday.

ALDERMEN BEGIN WORK ON A NEW TRACTION PLAN

Wilkerson Prepares for Foreclosure Sale.

The city council having definitly discarded on Wednesday any further attempt to have the 1930 transit unity ordinance carried out, yesterday began, with the assistance of Mayor Kelly, to outline policies for the drafting of a new ordinance under which Chicago's local transportation agencies may function.

Council leaders said they hoped it would be possible to have the new legislation ready for submission to a referendum of the city's voters in November.

At a meeting of the council subcommittee on local transportation Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] suggested several principles to be followed in the drafting of the new ordinance. These included the limiting of franchises to a period of not more than twenty-five years; the use of data previously gathered instead of the rehiring of experts to give advice on the measure, and the forcing of a merger of all the interests in the transportation field for the benefit of the public.

Plan Universal Transfer Plea.

The mayor, before the meeting, had announced his belief in the validity of these principles. He also stated that on April 4 the Illinois commerce commission will be formally asked to order universal transfers, good on the elevated and surface lines and the Chicago Motor coach routes. He added that the commission will be requested to investigate the valuations placed on the surface and elevated properties, the formerly accepted figure of $260,000,000 being regarded as excessive.

Another important step in the transit problem was taken in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who ordered attorneys to prepare for actual foreclosure sales of the various transportation companies, which are all now in receivership.

Ald. Bowler and Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairmen respectively of the council committee on local transportation and the subcommittee, both asserted positively that the employment of high fee experts would not be necessary in drawing up the ordinance. They pointed out that the committee appropriations for 1934 were small and there was no possibility of a "million dollar" measure being brought forward.

Fisher Deplores Council Action.

According to Ald. Quinn, no public hearings are planned at present, the previously gathered information being regarded as ample. Instead there will be a series of informal subcommittee meetings looking to the consolidation of the lines.

In the court of Judge Wilkerson, Attorney Walter L. Fisher, who has worked for months to bring the transit interests together to accept the 1930 plan, deplored the council action of Wednesday, asserting it undid all that had been accomplished in many years. He declared there was no feasible substitute for it, adding that without an indeterminate franchise and provisions for bond interest and sinking funds it would be impossible to refinance the companies. He was more than doubtful about universal transfers without a merger of all agencies.

"All the mayor's aims could be accomplished under the 1930 unification plan," he declared, "but it would take time and patience."

Mr. Fisher announced his desire to withdraw from any further connection with the transit situation.

Next Step in Foreclosure.

The next action in the receivership-foreclosure proceedings would be the advertising of the sale of the properties and an auction of them by federal court order. It is regarded as probable that the first mortgage holders would be the logical bidders. Should they bid in the properties and operate them the junior security holders, with a nominal $200,000,000 equity, would be wiped out.

Francis X. Busch, attorney for the first mortgage holders of the Rapid Transit lines, said that some reorganization would have to be made regardless of whether the properties are sold under foreclosure. There are four surface lines companies, it was pointed out by Attorney Harry P. Weber of the surface line receivership council, and if they are sold separately it might come about that even universal surface transfers could not be maintained.

Former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, who was an earnest opponent of the 1930 ordinance, congratulated Mayor Kelly yesterday on discarding "the most rapacious and scandalous ordinance the city council ever passed." He said that it would have set up a perpetual franchise and turned over to the trustee of the now impossible new unified company the city's $63,000,000 traction fund, with no guarantee that fares would be kept even as low as they now are.

MYSTERY BOMB DAMAGES HOTEL ON PISTAKEE BAY

Damage estimated at $5,000 was caused about 2 a. m. yesterday by the explosion of a dynamite bomb at the Oak Park hotel on Pistakee Bay, in McHenry county. A second bomb, of twelve dynamite sticks, failed to go off, and was discovered later by Sherif Lester Edinger.

The blast damaged the annex, a two story wooden building, tearing away the porch and wrecking the interior. It was being prepared for opening March 31. The second bomb was placed on the porch of the main building, which has thirty-five rooms.

In the main structure were William Mertes, proprietor, his wife, Lorraine, and one guest, William Ahrens. All were shaken. Mertes told the sherif he had conducted the hotel for eight years without trouble and his father had been in possession of it for thirty-five years previous.

3 KILLED AS AIR LINER CRASHES FROM 100 FEET

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, March 22.—Three persons were killed today when the Pan-American-Grace airways plane San Pedro crashed at Las Palmas airdrome here. On board the plane, and seriously injured in the crash was Manuel Trucco, Chilean ambassador to the United States. All three members of the air liner's crew were killed. They were:

Pilot Homer V. Farris, 38, Berea, Ky.

Radio Operator Lawrence Wagner, 26, Baltimore, Md.

Twelve Passengers on Plane.

The plane carried twelve passengers. Among the passengers were Capt. Harris, John D. MacGregor, another vice president of Pan-American-Grace, with headquarters in New York; Allan Ellis, representative of General Motors company on the west coast of South America, and two daughters of Ambassador Trucco.

The ambassador suffered fractures of the hip and pelvis bones. One daughter, Senorita Grace Trucco, sustained a broken collar bone. One other woman passenger suffered a broken leg. The others escaped with minor injuries.

The tri-motored plane was bound for Chile. Ambassador Trucco was returning to Chile from a hurried trip to Washington following the death of his wife March 17 at Santiago.

Plane Dives to Earth.

Upon taking off the left and center engines of the craft failed to reach their required revolutions and Farris turned back to land. The plane went into a dive on the turn from about 100 feet. The impact drove the engine into the pilot's cabin. Farris' cut the switch off just before the crash to prevent a fire. The plane was completely wrecked.

A checkup showed the plane was well under the load limit on leaving the airport. The motors had been run through the usual tests.

Pilot Farris served in the United States army aviation corps from 1917 to 1919. He received his training at Rockwell field, California. He was an honorary Kentucky colonel. He joined Pan-American-Grace in 1929 after service with the Colonial air transport. He had over 6,000 flying hours to his credit.

Find Wrecked Plane, Nine Bodies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 22.—Two mountain herdsmen on muleback today discovered the wreckage of a Pan-American-Grace air liner and the bodies of nine men who left Santiago July 16, 1932, on a flight to Mendoza, airport in Argentina.

The discovery solved the mysterious disappearance of the tri-motored plane, the San Jose—a disappearance which led scores of searching expeditions into Andean mountain passes.

Scrape Away Snow and Ice.

The wreckage was almost due east of Santiago and 20 miles south of the fashionable mountain spa, Puente del Inca.

The herdsmen said they were crossing a mountain trail when they saw iron rods protruding from the ice and snow. They scraped away four feet of snow and uncovered the plane.

There were eight bodies within the plane. They were in a state of almost perfect preservation. A head was found almost 60 feet from the plane.

Charles J. Robinson of Chicago was the plane's pilot. Other occupants of the airliner were C. W. Myers, radio operator; A. Woods, steward; F. E. Camus, division trafic manager for the air line; J. C. Sabate, O. S. Pezet, E. E. Raffo, Pinkus Rotszyld, and F. L. America.

Robinson's wife and two children, one of whom was born after his death, live at 9021 South Justine street, Chicago.

Pilot Robinson apparently bucked the blizzard until the plane's fuel supply was exhausted and was attempting to land when the ship crashed into the mountainside. The plane was only a few miles from safety in the foothills.

AIR LINER CRASHES

Arrow No. 1 on map shows where wrecked air liner and nine bodies were found yesterday by mountaineers. The plane crashed 20 months ago in the Andes. The pilot of the plane was Charles Robinson of Chicago. Arrow No. 2 points to Lima, Peru, where a passenger plane crashed yesterday. The crew of three was killed. Twelve passengers were aboard.

ROOSEVELT MAY ACT ON AIR MAIL WITHOUT A LAW

Seeks to Push Return to Private Flyers.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—The possibility arose today that the administration might do something about returning air mail to private lines without waiting for congress to say how this should be accomplished.

President Roosevelt surveyed the entire air mail situation at a conference with officials of the postoffice and commerce departments and Attorney General Cummings.

As he left the White House Cummings told reporters there was a possibility of action by the government before enactment of permanent air mail legislation. He said this was not certain, however.

Hearings Completed.

Hearings have been concluded by senate and house committees on the administration bill outlining a permanent basis for mail flying by private lines. The measure now is up for study by the committees with a number of changes in prospect.

Another proposal for permanent air mail legislation has been advanced by Senator O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.] which would authorize the postmaster general to put mail sacks back in private planes under a system similar to the railway mail setup.

Whatever plan wins congressional favor, the postoffice department is counted upon to insist that companies obtaining future contracts be divorced from holding companies and interlocking directorates.

Seek Action on Pay.

Efforts are being made to conclude action on temporary legislation permitting the postoffice department to compensate the war department for carrying the mail.

Air corps officials today said officers and men flying the army mail planes along present skeleton routes were not receiving the full $5 a day allowances that would be available when this temporary bill becomes law. The army flyers are receiving their regular pay, it was stated, but some of their pay checks may have been delayed for several days because of the transfer of the officers or men from their regular stations to detached duty.

Hitler Lays Down Law to German State Governors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 22. — Chancellor Adolf Hitler today told governors of German states that henceforth they must not consider themselves representatives of the states they govern, but administrators of the central government. They will no longer issue orders independently, but must take their orders from the reich's minister of interior, Wilhelm Frick, he informed them.

U. S. NAMES TWO GANGSTERS IN BREMER CASE

Seeks Alvin Karpis and Arthur Barker.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Federal agents definitly have identified Alvin Karpis and Arthur R. Barker, leaders of a gang of criminals, as the persons who kidnaped Edward G. Bremer, son of a wealthy St. Paul brewer, on Jan. 17, Attorney General Homer St. Cummings announced today.

Mr. Cummings said the department of justice will continue to push its search for Karpis and Barker and members of their gang. Their descriptions and prison records were made public in an effort to speed up their capture.

At the same time the attorney general said that the department of justice is working now in "perfect harmony" with Adolph Bremer, father of Edward G. Bremer.

Father Pays $200,000.

The father paid a $200,000 ransom to obtain his son's release on Feb. 7. The attorney general previously had criticized the Bremer family for failure to coöperate with federal agents.

Mr. Cummings said he was not able to disclose how the department of justice had identified Karpis and Barker as Bremer's kidnapers, but added that they had been linked to the crime several weeks ago.

Arthur Barker was described as 34 years old, five feet 3¾ inches high, with black hair and brown eyes. Under four aliases, he had been jailed in Missouri and Oklahoma for larceny, murder, jail breaks, and attempted bank robbery.

Alvin Karpis is 25 years old, 5 feet 9¾ inches tall, slender build, with brown hair and blue eyes. Under five assumed names, he had been jailed six times in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma for burglary, larceny or prison breaks.

Karpis Wanted as Killer.

St. Paul, March 22.—(AP)—Melvin C. Passolt, superintendent of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension, today said that Alvin Karpis and Freddie Barker, a brother of Arthur Barker, are wanted for two murders.

Karpis and Freddie Barker are sought for the killing of Sherif C. R. Kelly of West Plains, Mo., and A. W. Dunlap of West St. Paul, Passolt said. Sherif Kelly, Passolt said, was shot and killed as he attempted to question several suspicious looking characters.

Father-in-law Shot.

Dunlop, Freddie Barker's father-in-law, was shot near Webster, Wis., and his body thrown in a lake.

Passolt said Karpis, who used several aliases, including George Dunn, R. E. Hamilton, Ray Karpis and George Haller, served terms in prisons at Hutchinson and Lansing, Kas.

The dispatch from Washington said Karpis and Arthur Barker were identified from fingerprints found on gasoline cans said to have been thrown from the car from which Bremer was released.

Held Bremer Kidnaper

Alvin Karpis, alias Ray Karpis, who, with Arthur Barker, fugitive leaders of a band of criminals, have been identified by federal agents in Washington as the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul.

HUNT DILLINGER IN FLORIDA AFTER HOLDUP OF BANK

Added to the many reports concerning the whereabouts of John Dillinger, outlaw who escaped from the Crown Point, Ind., jail twenty days ago, was a statement in dispatches from St. Cloud, Fla., yesterday that Dillinger had been positively identified as the leader of three bandits who held up the Citizens State bank there Wednesday and escaped with $10,500.

Florida law officials immediately ordered a search throughout the state for the robbers. The identification was given more credence than many other similar reports. These rumors last placed Dillinger in northern Michigan.

The investigation of Dillinger's escape by Indiana authorities was marked yesterday by a search for a mysterious visitor to Dillinger before the jail break. This man, according to Attorney General Philip Lutz Jr., at Indianapolis, represented himself as an insurance adjuster.

The man, whose name was not disclosed. talked to Dillinger, asking him about some nonnegotiable securities which Dillinger was supposed to have stolen. During this conversation, the man gave the numbers of the bonds in a manner that suggested a code, it was said.

EFTAX SUBPENAED HERE.

A subpena returnable tomorrow was issued yesterday for the appearance before the federal grand jury of Constantine Eftax, former Chicago druggist, whose account in the Harris Trust and Savings bank was once believed to represent a cash reserve for Samuel Insull. He will be asked, it is said, to tell what he knows of Samuel Insull and the Insull financial dealings. Eftax announced on his return to Chicago this week from Athens, Greece, that he was considering legal action against persons who, he asserted, had injured him by tying up his bank account.

Three Are Burned to Death in Freight Train Crash

Norristown, Pa., March 22.—(AP)—Three trainmen were crushed and burned to death in a freight caboose tonight in a collision on the Pennsylvania railroad near Norristown. The caboose was on the rear of a freight proceeding eastward on what is known as the Paoli-Trenton cutoff. Coming up from the rear two freight cars, pushed by a locomotive, telescoped the caboose.

CANADA FAILS TO ISSUE WARANT FOR RETURN OF MARTIN J. INSULL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 22.—The warant of surrender for Martin J. Insull's extradition to Chicago, which had been expected here today from Ottawa, failed to arrive. Furthermore, there was no word from the dominion authorities indicating when it would be sent.

J. C. McRuer, lawyer for Insull, said he still hoped the writ would arrive by tomorrow. He was confident his client would be released from the Don jail and surrendered to Cook county officers within 48 hours. Officials at Ottawa, however, refused to say whether the warant was issued today or when it would be.

Officials of the state and justice departments at first announced that the warant would have to be held up two weeks to permit Insull to conclude proceedings on a writ of habeas corpus, but McRuer informed them he had already taken this action. To eliminate any further uncertainty the lawyer waived the two weeks' provision. For that reason he said he has hopes the warant would be issued today.

NAZI ORGAN TELLS OF NEW BRITISH AIR DEFENSE GUN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23 [Friday].—The naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph discloses this morning that a most jealously guarded secret of British naval armament has been revealed by a German paper, the official organ of the Berlin admiralty.

It tells of a new anti-aircraft gun, the existence of which hitherto was highly confidential. The German organ refers to the weapon as a "multiple pom pom" and asserts that with eight barrels in action it fires 800 to 1,000 rounds a minute.

SCHOOL TAXES MAY BE LEFT FOR GOV. HORNER

Several Revenue Bills Likely to Pass.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—The movement on foot to pass all pending school legislation and leave it up to Gov. Horner to decide what is good and bad gained strength in the general assembly today.

A last minute effort to put across the school bills, whether supported by Democrats or Republicans, will be made next week. Both houses adjourned this noon, to resume work next Tuesday. The members were eager to get home for the campaigns before the April 10 primaries.

Republican leaders tried again this forenoon to pass the Schnackenberg-Swanson bill to pour the state liquor revenues into the common school fund. The attempt netted 30 favorable and 3 unfavorable votes. Passage of the measure, with the emergency clause would require 34 votes. The bill already has passed the house.

Graham Makes Speech.

After the roll call had ended with the four votes lacking Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], president pro tem., rose to his feet and addressed the colleagues.

"Some of the members who opposed diverting a third of the gasoline tax for the schools are now willing to vote favorably on that and the two school bills," Senator Graham said. "We have been assured of enough votes to pass them Tuesday."

The gas tax diversion bill is supported by Gov. Horner. Senator Graham referred to this bill, the liquor revenue diversion bill and another Republican supported measure that would place all above $2,500,000 monthly from sales tax receipts in the school fund as the three bills that could be passed simultaneously.

Would Tax Natural Gas.

Senator Charles W. Baker [Rep., Monroe Center] asked why his bill providing for a tax of 15 cents on each 1,000 feet of natural gas piped into the state, the money to go to the schools, could not be included in the program. Senator Graham said that bill could be passed with the others.

According to the theory of the agreement plan, the four bills could be passed by both houses next week. The senate would pass them Tuesday and they would be taken immediately to the house to be placed on second reading. The third reading in the house would come Wednesday and passage on Thursday. Thence they would go to the governor for signature or veto.

To Take Responsibility.

There was little besides Senator Graham's statement to indicate that the bills would have clear sailing into port.

In a press conference after the adjournment Gov. Horner said that he knew nothing about the agreement, but that he would not dodge responsibility.

"I am naturally disappointed that the senate did not pass the gas tax diversion bill," Gov. Horner said. "It is an honest bill and would give concrete aid to the schools."

It was pointed out that the Schnackenberg-Swanson bill had passed the house and if carried in the senate would reach the governor's desk ahead of the other three. The governor would not say whether he would sign or veto that bill, although in former public statements he has opposed it.

Gov. Horner said he planned to discuss the school legislative situation over the radio Sunday night.

Mrs. Kub, Former Police Informer, Loses Will Fight

Circuit Court Judge Joseph Burke yesterday denied a motion filed by Mrs. Shirley Kub, former police informer, to set aside the will of her uncle, William McLean Young, who died on Aug. 19, 1932, leaving an estate estimated at $50,000. Under the terms of the will Mrs. Kub was left $500 and the balance of the estate divided among other relatives and charities. In her petition Mrs. Kub had alleged that Young was under the influence of narcotics when he executed the will. Judge Burke overruled her contention.

WIDOW CHARGES KIN KEPT MATE ALIVE SO HE COULD SIGN WILL

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—Contending that her husband, George Campbell Carson, prospector and inventor, had been kept alive by oxygen and other artificial means only long enough to permit him to sign a new will, Mrs. Horsee M. Carson has filed a contest of the will in Probate court.

Carson, who died March 3, had recently won judgments exceeding a million dollars from mining companies for the use of refining devices. He had been divorced from the suing widow during the last year, but inasmuch as the decree was interlocutory and does not become final until the end of the year, Mrs. Carson contends that she is eligible for a widow's share of the estate.

She charges that Homer Carson, a nephew, and other relatives were responsible for keeping her husband alive artificially while he was mentally incompetent, long enough to have him sign the new will which splits the estate among many kinfolk. Mrs. Carson has offered a legal will made out March 27, 1927.

Walks at Night to Escape Day Traffic; Killed by Auto

Davenport, Ia., March 22.—[Special.]—Struck by a hit and run driver, Dr. August G. L. Rindler, 83, Davenport physician, who usually walked for exercise on the streets at night because he feared automobile traffic in daylight hours, was fatally injured at midnight yesterday. His body was found about forty feet from the intersection where he had been struck.

TEACHERS TO GET $4,040,000 PAY IN CHECKS TODAY

17,000 to Receive Salaries for Month of May.

Pay checks totaling $4,040,000 for Chicago's 17,000 teachers and school employés will be distributed to the schools at 11 o'clock this morning and released to teachers and workers a short time later, probably by noon. The pay is for the month of May, 1933.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, yesterday ordered the checks delivered to school principals despite the fact that $3,000,000 to finance most of the pay roll will not be in the hands of the school treasurer until today. The money will be provided by five banks in exchange for 1933 school tax warants. The principals are ordered to hold the checks until the money is received from the banks.

Act to Avoid Week-end Delay.

The unusual action was taken to prevent possible delay of pay disbursement until Monday. Automobiles this morning will carry bundles of checks to the four elementary school district supervisors. Principals will call for the checks at 11 o'clock and will be notified when the cash for payment is ready. High school principals will get their check parcels at the office of Charles D. Lowry, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools.

A special meeting of the board of education was held yesterday to pass a resolution, required by the banks financing the pay roll, prohibiting further issuance of 1933 tax warants. Board members then turned to individual study of the 1934 budget.

Harry H. Brackett, school auditor, announced that the tentative budget, as revised by the board committee, would probably be ready Tuesday. The committee members will continue their individual study of various funds until Monday when a formal meeting of the committee will be held. Final changes are expected to be drafted in time for board action Wednesday, three days before the budget deadline set by law.

Forego Expansion Moves.

A poll of the committee members yesterday indicated that there will be no recommendation that Crane junior college be restored to the school system this year or that the staf of high school deans and elementary school principals be expanded to its status before the economy budget reductions of last year.

The members declared themselves favorable to the eventual establishment of one or more city colleges, but pointed out that there are not sufficient funds for such a move this year. Possibility of the reinstatement of 48 deans and 196 principals demoted last July was vetoed by the determination of the committee to adhere to the economy program launched last July.

Search Asked for Missing Marine Reserve Sergeant

Police were asked last night to search for Samuel J. Crombie, 26 years old, 1243 Lawrence avenue, whose wife reported him missing. "He left home yesterday, saying he was to travel for a publishing firm. Police said that Crombie is a supply sergeant in a local unit of the U. S. marine reserves and that they wish to question him about shoe sales made to the reserve unit.

NEW DEAL ISSUE IS CREEPING INTO CONGRESS RACES

State G. O. P. Candidates Report Gains.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Correspondents of THE TRIBUNE in many parts of Illinois reported yesterday that the issue of the New Deal is creeping into some of the battles over congressional nominations.

This is a recent development. The primaries are only two weeks from next Tuesday, but for months most of the congressional aspirants of both parties have moved softly in approaching the question of indorsing or condemning the operations of the national administration. They were uncertain about the swing of public opinion.

Many conceded that the federal issue is the biggest thing in the campaign. But Democrats hesitated to ask a Roosevelt vote of confidence. Republicans feared to raise the question of the President's popularity. Only as the windup is approached have any substantial number begun to take definite positions.

More Outspoken Criticism.

This eleventh hour tendency was ascribed in reports from some districts to a growing belief that the popularity of the administration has been slipping during the last month. Republicans have become outspoken in criticism in several instances and, although these are only primary contests, Democrats have been led to adopt the "stand by the President" slogan.

Much of the downstate lethargy has been charged to a derth of warm intraparty fights. In the fifteen downstate districts, there are thirteen candidates for renomination, ten of them Democrats and three of them Republicans. But six of the Democratic incumbents have no primary contests and only two of the Republicans face primary battles. It also has been pointed out that the incumbents have been in Washington all winter and have not been forced to defend their voting records.

Where there are contests there are a number of candidates, some of them new in this field, whom their neighbors hold in good opinion. There are also the usual number of hopeless entries.

Contest for Reid's Place.

In the 11th district, covering four counties adjoining Cook, Congressman Frank R. Reid, Republican, is not trying for renomination. As the district is normally Republican there is a stiff fight for Reid's old place on the election ballot. By coincidence the strongest entry is said to be a man of the same name although he spells it differently, Chauncey W. Reed, three times state's attorney of Du Page county.

The Frank Reid influence is said to be with James E. Harley, former postmaster and former mayor of Aurora. Second place, in general opinion, goes to James C. Bell of Joliet, who may have the heavy Will county vote behind him.

The 11th district Democrats are said to be led by Arthur L. Hellyer of Hinsdale, a Chicago lawyer, and Attorney James A. Howell of Elgin, a Loyola law school instructor, who was beaten by Frank Reid in 1932 by only 1,333 votes. Howell is said to be a New Deal candidate.

"Roosevelt very popular in Will county but not so much as a month ago," read one of the telegrams from this district.

"Wave of popular sentiment for NRA subsiding somewhat," read another message. "Also insecurity of CWA jobs affecting situation together with recent developments in Washington. It appears Republicans have gained ground."

Buckbee Faces Contest.

In the 12th or Rockford district, Congressman John T. Buckbee, Republican, has three opponents for the nomination. He escaped the landslide two years ago. Unpopularity of the Horner state administration more than the national is said to have boosted Republican stock here, but it is said that "bitterness over selection of men for CWA jobs" is having a similar effect.

Local opinion places C. P. Trowbridge, Marseilles druggist, as Buckbee's chief opponent, with County Judge George T. Liddell of Winnebago county also in the race. Buckbee has lost his former newspaper support.

This district is strongly Rpublican but three are contesting for the Democratic nomination, the most popular, according to the wires, being Dr. D. O. Thompson of Sycamore. All three are said to be "rather silent on Roosevelt policies."

The 13th is another Republican district now represented in congress by Leo E. Allen, Galena lawyer. He is opposed by his three term predecessor, William R. Johnson of Freeport, whom he defeated by only 581 votes in 1932. The Democratic choice probably will be Orestes H. Wright of Freeport, the nominee two years ago, who is opposed only by Harry E. Coleman, a state factory inspector.

Race in 14th District.

The Rock Island district, the 14th, is now represented by a Democrat, Chester Thompson, who has no primary opposition but is believed certain of a stiff fight in November. State Senator Martin R. Carlson of Moline, a seasoned campaigner, with the advantage of the big county of the district behind him, is believed to have the call on the Republican nomination over John C. Allen of Monmouth, who served four terms from this district.

A similar situation exists in the 15th district where J. Leroy Adair of Quincy, is the unopposed Democratic incumbent as the result of a 1932 landslide victory over Burnett M. Chiperfield of Canton by 13,484. Chiperfield again is a Republican candidate but he is said to lack some of his former support and he has an extremely active opponent in Julius Kespohl, Quincy business man.

"There is some unfavorable reaction toward national administration being shown by taxpayers who want to know who is going to pay the CWA and federal tax increase program," reads a message from this district. "Many feel charity is being overdone."

Republican Congressman Everett M. Dirksen [Rep.] of Pekin, who beat William E. Hull in the primary of '32, will be unopposed on April 10 in the Peoria district and reports are that neither of the Democratic entries, Harry A. Egolf of Peoria, and Rayburn L. Russell, Pekin, is putting up much of a campaign. In spite of the landslide two years ago, this district, the 16th, elected Dirksen by 23,000 plurality. His supporters boast that he is a sure winner.

Three Sitting Judges Fail to Win Bar Indorsement

Three sitting judges of the Municipal court failed to receive the indorsement of the Chicago Bar association in its primary on candidates seeking nominations for judicial offices at the primary election of April 10. The results of the balloting by members of the association were made public last night.

According to the rules of the bar primary candidates must receive at least a third of all votes cast in order to merit the association's recommendation. Since 1,987 ballots were cast the candidates who polled less than 662 votes failed of indorsement. The incumbent judges who fell below this figure are Francis Borrelli, Democrat, and Frederick W. Elliott and Alfred O. Erickson, Republicans.

Indorse Eight Democrats.

Of the 12 candidates named by the regular Democratic organization for judges of the Municipal court eight won the bar indorsement. Five of the 12 candidates named by the regular Republican organization were indorsed.

In the balloting on Republican candidates for judge of the County court only Judge Samuel Heller, now sitting in the Municipal court, was indorsed. He polled 1,249 votes. Wiley W. Mills, the Newton Jenkins faction candidate, received 201 votes. The other three candidates and the votes they received are: William J. Grace, 128; George A. Schmitt, 104, and Judge John H. Lyle of the Municipal court, 67.

Complete Vote Listed.

In the following list, showing the full vote in the bar association primary, the names of those receiving the bar indorsement appear in black faced type. Asterisks precede the names of the sitting judges. The names of those candidates nominated by the Republican and Democratic organizations are followed by the initial O in parenthesis.

WANDERING CAT GETS A HOME, BUT FORFEITS LIBERTY

A week's effort to rescue a gray and white cat whose taste for adventure had led her to a precarious position on top of the iron structure underneath the elevated railway platform at California avenue and Lake street ended yesterday when a worker for the Anti-Cruelty society dislodged the animal.

It was taken to the society's headquarters at 155 West Grand avenue, and after devouring a bowl of milk and some kitty ration retired peacefully for the night, content with her loss of liberty.

Riders of the elevated, small boys of the neighborhood and other volunteers previously had tried to catch the cat. A boy had succeeded in climbing to the ledge of the trestle and setting out some raw hamburger steak for her, but she warily evaded him, running nimbly down the iron ledge. Not until Ben Maringer of the Anti-Cruelty society, armed with a long pole on which was a loop or large collar, appeared yesterday was the cat reached, however. She finally jumped to the ground and was caught.

AUSTRIA WEEDS OUT JEWS FROM ALL PROFESSIONS

Word "Republic" Left Out of New Constitution.

VIENNA, March 22.—(AP)—The Jewish question came sharply to the fore today as the new Austrian constitution neared completion.

The Welt Blatt, organ of the government Christian Social party, gave prominence to articles on the problem and emphasized particularly the "predominance of Jews" in the learned professions.

It reported "with satisfaction" that the process of weeding out Jewish surgeons from the Vienna hospital had already started.

Admits Republic Is Dead.

The official government gazette, meanwhile, said the cabinet, which is still considering details of the constitution, had decided that the word "republic" will not appear in it and that Austria henceforth will be referred to as "the federal state of Austria" or "Austria."

This was the first definite admission that the Austrian republic is dead.

The Welt Blatt pointed out that physicians and surgeons employed in the city of Vienna—"the capital of the new Christian Austria"—are only one-fifth Catholic.

Fourth-fifths, it added, are "either Jews or Free Thinkers" and "more than half of these did not become Austrian citizens until after the Socialist revolution in 1918."

New Medical Body Created.

This afternoon the "christian German Medical association" was founded with the announced purpose of representing the profession in the new state.

Speakers at a meeting of the new organization said Christian German physicians "will not tolerate the domination of alien doctors in the Austrian profession."

Also in preparation for the new state, the government began taking a census regarding, particularly, military service of Austrians, whether in the old imperial army forces or the militia and Fascist home guard groups.

Male citizens between 14 and 50 are asked by census takers regarding sports training and physical handicaps.

These data, it was explained, could be used to make new recruiting lists replacing those destroyed when Austria was disarmed by peace treaties.

May Free 2,000 Socialists.

Meanwhile hope for political amnesty was held out to nearly 2,000 Socialists, held in jail since the bloody February revolt by Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, government leader.

Asserting the Socialists were not "morally guilty," Von Starhemberg, leader of the home guard, told English and American newspaper men that it was logical to expect amnesty for the imprisoned members of the opposition.

It would, perhaps, he said, be dangerous to free them now.

BEAT CANDIDATE FOR SHERIF IN A MYSTERY ATTACK

Harry Dunn, 49 years old, 370 North Hamlin avenue, an independent Democratic candidate for sherif, was in St. Mary's hospital yesterday suffering from a concussion of the brain and injuries to the face and body as the result of a beating by two men.

According to the story told police, Dunn was beaten by the men as he passed an alley near his home at midnight Wednesday. He was kicked and beaten and only escaped more severe injuries, it is believed, because he reached into his back pocket to protect his eyeglasses from injury and the men apparently believed he was reaching for a revolver and fled.

Dunn is superintendent of the Cook County School of Rehabilitation of the Civil Works administration. An investigation is being made.

STUDENT FINED FOR PEEPING.

Reeve Luxmore, 20 years old, 518 Addison street, a junior at the University of Chicago, was fined $1 by Judge Lambert K. Hayes yesterday, after confessing that he had peeped into the windows of apartment houses in the neighborhood of 524 Stratford place.

"ROB" GARAGE OF WRONG AUTO; 2 SLEUTHS JAILED

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Gunning, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Robert Harris, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Frank Landers, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary—by Judge Harry B. Miller.

After breaking a window and picking the lock of a garage in order to repossess an automobile on which payments had not been kept up two "investigators" for an automobile finance company discovered yesterday that they had seized the wrong car.

As a result the two—Harry Snyder, 1324 Hood avenue, and Andrew Clark 4464 Broadway, employed by the Chicago Discount corporation, 231 South La Salle street—were arraigned on charges of automobile larceny.

The charge was preferred by James B. Jornabone, 3530 West 63d street. Judge Graber indicated he would dismiss the defendants if they returned articles Jornabone said were stolen from his car.

RELIEF CHEATING LAID TO FATHER AND DAUGHTER

Beneficiaries of $12,000 Estate Face Trial.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday recommended the prosecution of Joseph Hugh and his daughter, Frieda of 6340 South Maplewood avenue, as cheaters. Investigation disclosed that they have been receiving aid although they are the sole beneficiaries of the $12,000 estate left by Hugh's wife, Pauline, who died two years ago.

Both Hugh and his daughter, in applying for aid last Nov. 10, informed social workers that they were penniless and without income or investments. The following day they signed affidavits to this effect, although Hugh related in his sworn statement that his daughter was beneficiary of a $5,000 trust from which she received no income.

$12,000 Estate Discovered.

The two began receiving food, some clothing, coal, and cash, on Dec. 10. Soon afterward investigators discovered that Hugh was executor of his wife's estate which, even at the low market levels, has a value of $12,000. They also learned that last July 12 Probate Judge Harold F. O'Connell had authorized Hugh to sell stocks or bonds from the estate in order to provide funds for the maintenance of himself and his daughter.

Members of the commission were told yesterday that when confronted with this evidence Hugh said he had wished to avoid the sale of any of the estate's assets because in the present market he would be able to obtain only a small fraction of their full value.

Miss Hugh admitted that she and her father possessed her mother's estate, but said that she had handled most of the matters pertaining to its probation and had not wished to sell stocks at low market prices.

The commission was informed that aid for the couple had been halted on March 6. Hugh offered to make partial restitution, the investigators said, and has signed a judgment note for $45.20. Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, said the members had recommended that the evidence be placed in the hands of the state's attorney's office with instructions to prosecute.

Three Freed in Fraud.

Before Municipal Judge J. William Brooks yesterday two men and a woman charged with accepting aid while receiving incomes from other sources were freed. Mrs. Bernice Conley, 28 years old, 2954 Belle Plaine avenue, and George Kelch, 3818 North Kenneth avenue, both of whom were charged with fraudulently accepting relief, were freed when officials stated that they had made full restitution. Charles Batz, 4404 Drexel boulevard, who operates an optical shop in his home, was freed when commission workers said that the total income from the business amounted to less than $15 a month and that aid was necessary.

Indian Deer on Exhibit at Field Museum

COURT CONTINUES MRS. WILLETT'S ALIENATION SUIT

Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett yesterday asked for a continuance of her $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, wealthy widow, and Judge Paul McWilliams of the Superior court put the case over until April 6. At that time it will be dismissed, it is expected, if the divorce settlement between Mrs. Willett and Howard L. Willett, trucking company head, is completed.

Mrs. Willett, Attorney Richard Welsh, and Attorney Robert R. Mix, who appeared as a friend, were in court. Judge McWilliams the previous day had refused to dismiss the action on Mrs. Willett's request because Attorney David D. Stansbury, Mrs. Willett's attorney of record in the case, was absent.

It was explained to the court yesterday that Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court, who heard Mrs. Willett's plea for temporary alimony, had advised her that she did not have to dismiss the alienation suit until the proposed divorce and property settlement was completed. According to an agreement reached March 10 Mrs. Willett is to obtain an absolute divorce and drop the alienation suit in return for a trust fund and stock which would yield her $17,500 a year. She has not yet filed suit for divorce.

Attorney Alice Greenacre, counsel for Mrs. Hall, objected to the continuance.

OPEN ILLINOIS WATERWAY TO TRAFFIC TODAY

The 1934 season of navigation on the Illinois waterway will open without ceremony today. The towboat William T. Warner, which can pass under the old bridge at Morris, Ill., is expected here to take care of any towing jobs necessary during the first few days. The Morris bridge will hamper navigation on a large scale until August when a new bridge, now being constructed, will be finished.

Shot by Roosevelts

A habitat group of swamp deer, or barasinga, of India is shown in a new exhibit opened to the public in Field museum yesterday. The group is composed of specimens obtained by Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt during the course of the James Simpson-Roosevelt Asiatic expedition.

"Old Doc" Tilton Is Jailed for Failure to Pay Fine

Davenport, Ia., March 22.—[Special.]—Lester J. [Old Doc] Tilton of Clinton, today started serving a 30 day term in the Scott county jail for nonpayment of a $1,000 fine levied in federal court at Des Moines last winter. Tilton, convicted on charges of violating the food and drug act in the practice of medicine, was arrested at Clinton. He must sign a pauper's oath to gain his freedom at the end of a month.

"I'LL HAVE TO STAY IN JAIL," WEEPS MYRTLE

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue in Chicago, tried to smile through her tears as she was interviewed in her cell in the county jail yesterday. She was taken to the jail Wednesday night to start serving a six months' sentence in lieu of paying a judgment of $7,500 granted by a jury to Mrs. Susanne Nottingham for alienation of the affections of her husband, Norman, a policeman.

"I will have to stay in jail for the full six months," Mrs. Blacklidge declared. "I haven't a penny to pay the judgment."

Attorney Murphy O. Tate, representing Mrs. Nottingham, said his client would pay the fifty cents a day necessary for Mrs. Blacklidge's board for the entire period, if necessary. The first week's payment was made yesterday after jail officials said prison rules forbade accepting a month's pay in advance.

"But we'll let Mrs. Blacklidge out of jail if she makes a reasonable settlement on the judgment," the attorney added.

BOY'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict stating that the death of Joseph Karaskiewicz, 14 years old, 1073 North Hermitage avenue, was due to accident. The boy was crushed when an unoccupied building at 1067 North Hermitage avenue collapsed on him.

WOMAN HELPS ROB WOMAN OF $1,500 FUR COAT

Forced by a man to enter an automobile driven by a woman accomplice, Mrs. Josephine Steffens, 3650 Lake Shore drive, was robbed of a fur coat valued at $1,500, her purse containing $33, and a watch valued at $150 late last night. Mrs. Steffens told the Town Hall police she was on her way to Lake View hospital to visit a sick friend when the robber approached her from behind in Galt avenue, between Hazel avenue and Sheridan road. After the robbers had driven to Hazel and Fair Oaks avenues, a distance of about two blocks, Mrs. Steffens was robbed and ordered from the car. Mrs. Steffens is the wife of C. W. Steffens, an advertising solicitor for THE TRIBUNE.

WOMAN SLUGGED AND ROBBED.

Miss Delma Hinton, 4423 Sheridan road, a supervisor for the Dutch Mill Candy company, was slugged and robbed of $44 yesterday in front of her home.

CRITICIZE ICKES' DISTRIBUTION OF PWA PATRONAGE

See Attempt to Build Up Political Fences.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes' methods of disposing of federal patronage in his home territory were subjected to another attack yesterday. It came from Howard W. Elmore, sanitary district trustee, who questioned appointments to high salaried positions in connection with the public works administration program for the drainage canal.

Although he is a member of a Democratic presidential cabinet, Secretary Ickes has been charged repeatedly during recent months with attempting to build up his own political fences, chiefly in the Republican field in Chicago and its suburbs. It has been asserted that he is working on the Roosocratic party idea.

This criticism has become more frequent in the last week—ever since last Saturday night when, at a reunion of alumni of the University of Chicago, Ickes urged that cities select their own "brain trusts" from among scientifically trained men, particularly college graduates.

Plans for Mayoralty Race.

This talk was taken as an entering wedge for a definite Ickes movement to bring either Prof. Charles E. Merriam or President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago into the limelight as timber for the Republican mayoralty race next year.

Even before the alumni reunion, there were reports that the secretary of the interior, talking with influential Chicagoans, had argued for a movement in support of one of the two university men. It is believed that his Saturday night address was designed to spread the thought of such a movement among University of Chicago alumni.

The latest protest against Ickes' appointments came at a meeting of the Sanitary district board yesterday when a resolution introduced by Elmore calling for information about the federal engineering board which is to supervise the expenditure of federal loans on sanitary district projects was adopted unanimously—that is, without protest from the Democratic majority.

Explaining that he had been unable to get any facts about the personnel of the federal supervising board's employés, Elmore pointed out that under the contract with the PWA the trustees are compelled to pay the salaries fixed by that administration for engineers, lawyers, stenographers, and clerks in whose selection they have no voice.

Experts at $50 a Day.

"Who are these people?" Elmore asked. "Where do they come from? How are they selected? Who selects them? I have been unable to obtain answers to any of these questions and yet we are told that some of them are being put to work as experts at $50 a day.

"The only information we have comes from a letter signed by Daniel W. Mead as chairman of the federal engineering board. So far as I know, the district was never notified of his appointment or told what his salary would be. There are two engineering assistants, G. Gale Dixon and S. W. Freese, listed as employed at $50 a day. Who are they?"

The Elmore resolution provided for the following:

"That it be requested of the United States government by the president of the sanitary district of Chicago that a detailed monthly report be made by the United States government to the board of trustees of the sanitary district in which report shall be set forth names, titles, and addresses of the employés and the amount of money paid to any such employé . . . and that the said report also contain in itemized form any expenditure made by the government for salaries, fees, and expenses of any kind and nature provided the same are chargeable against the sanitary district projects."

SWISS FINANCE CHIEF QUITS IN CRISIS OVER GOLD

BERNE, Switzerland, March 22.—(AP)—Jean Musy, minister of finance and leader of the gold standard faction, resigned today in the face of a demand for the devaluation of the Swiss franc.

He precipitated a showdown by a strong speech in favor of gold before the federal council, demanding that the railways and the government cut their expenses in order to hold the franc at its present parity.

Managers of hotels, Switzerland's third largest industry, and railway organizations — both concerned with the tourist trade, are demanding a cut in the franc in order to meet world competition.

CONTROL OF CROPS TAKES FARM JOBS; PWA PROVIDES FEWER

Bloomington, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Fear that jobs created by the PWA projects will not offset unemployment caused among farm laborers by the government crop restriction program was expressed here today.

It was pointed out by Mayor Harold W. Kinsey of McLean that farm laborers, estimated by others as approximately 100, will be thrown out of work by the government crop limitation. That program calls for reduction by 15 per cent of the wheat under cultivation and by 20 to 30 per cent of the corn.

Part of this unemployment will be absorbed by the PWA water works project in the village, which has been given government approval. This project, which is to cost $45,000, will employ from 40 to 60 laborers.

The farm of Attorney W. P. Leach, situated near McLean, was cited as an example of the problem created by the crop program. There, it was pointed out, two families have been supported for four months during the growing season. This year they are thrown out of work through the ground withheld from production in keeping with the government program.

A vicious circle has been created by the crop limitation and PWA projects, it was pointed out, as farm workers once forced to PWA employment cannot be lured back to the farm at lower wages.

The belief was expressed that the same conditions would obtain in other agricultural communities throughout the middle west as a result of the conflicting programs of the New Deal.

JACOBS REVEALS PLAN FOR FAIR TAX ESTIMATES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $764,360, making a total of $119,943,379 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 22	$ 9,735	$ 24,450
Uncollected	14,868,301	39,955,511
	1930.	1931.
March 22	$ 41,149	$ 111,171
Uncollected	63,408,902	59,807,102

The day's collections of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $577,855; of 1931 personal property taxes $588; and of $1932 personal property taxes $138,370.

An equitable property assessment system and continued readjustment and reduction in public expenditures are the only means of restoring public confidence and the credit of local governments, Assessor J. L. Jacobs asserted last night in an address to a meeting of the City club. With progress being made toward these objectives, the fair minded taxpayer will be willing and morally bound to bear his share of the tax burden, the assessor said.

"We are living under the revenue provisions of the state constitution which are more than 100 years old," Mr. Jacobs said, "and the revenue article has not been revised in a single particular to meet the far reaching changes which have taken place in economic and social conditions, or in the new forms in which real and personal property appear, or in the relations of the taxpayer to the governments or the ability of the property owner to support the new and extended governmental services and activities."

Mr. Jacobs declared that he and his staf were developing standards and office procedure "to the end that guessing, caprice, and speculation regarding property values shall make room for equitable, uniform, and honest estimates."

BORAH ATTACKS NEW DEAL AS NATIONAL PERIL

Ses Bright Future if Policies Change.

"Is it sound," he demanded, "to say there are millions and millions of people in our country and in the world in want of food and illy clad, so let's destroy food, let's destroy the stuff of which clothes are made?

"The less able the people are to buy the more difficult we will make it for them to buy. We know the purchasing power of the people is at a very low level, perhaps the lowest in history, and shall we reduce acreage, destroy food, thus compelling less and less consumption because purchasing power is not there to take care of the higher prices? Shall we freeze production at a point which leaves out of consideration the proper clothing and adequate sustenance of one-third of our own people and 80 per cent of the people of the world? Finding the world hungry and distressed, shall we set about to conform our economic system to a people thus hungry and distressed, a system which, if successful, would stabilize production on the basis of starvation?

"It is not over production, it is under consumption. Our task is not that of destruction, but of distribution. Even in normal times we had in this country over seventy-five million people living on an income of less than $600 a year. Like creeping paralysis, this fall of purchasing power has long indicated an economic cataclysm.

Hits Consumers, Producers.

"It was believed that this policy of reduction would aid the producers. In practice it strikes first at the consumer and his purchasing power being such that the consumer cannot take care of the raise, it falls upon the producer. Take our experience with hogs.

"Pigs were destroyed, the farmer was induced to curtail production, a processing tax was laid. But in the effort of the process or to compel the consumer to take care of this tax, it was found that the consumer did not, and could not do so. He bought less meat.

"Therefore, the packer passed the tax back to the producer in the form of lower prices for his hogs. There is just so much purchasing power in the country and when you increase the price prior to increasing the purchasing power, the consumer must deny himself and eat less or eat not at all. When you levy a tax, somebody must pay the tax. The inevitable tendency is to pass tax to the low man in the economic setup, and therefore, the incidence of the tax is at last with those who cannot pass it on. First, it is passed to the consumer, who refuses to buy, then it is passed to the producer, who cannot pass it on and must absorb the tax. He has nobody to whom he can transfer it.

Attacks Crop Reduction.

"It has been proposed in this plan of reduction to reduce the acreage of corn by twenty million acres; cotton, fifteen million acres; wheat, 7,500,000 acres, and tobacco, 500,000 acres. That is forty-three million acres, or about one-eighth of the crop-bearing lands of the United States. But it has been demonstrated lately that you cannot stop there.

"The reduction of cotton acreage is about to increase peanut acreage. Thus peanuts and flax and rye must all be considered, and logically, reduction will have to be had in these crops.

"A reduction of crop acreage to the extent of sixty million acres means a decrease of five million of farm population. A reduction of forty-three million acres means a decrease of about 3,250,000 of farm population. What are you going to do with these people? How are they going to make a living? Where are we going to place them? Industry is crowded. Indeed, at this very time, it is proposed to send some two million from the crowded industrial centers back to the farm.

Sees Further Tragedy.

"Thus the hegira from the farm going out will meet the hegira to the farm coming in. The people who understand these farms, know the land, who have made these farms are going away and those who know nothing of the tillage of the soil are going out to the farms.

"The plan will inevitably give us more idle and dependent people, more people to food and to clothe. It will inevitably lower the purchasing power of the people generally. My contention is we should leave these people on the lands and do everything we can to keep them on the land.

"They may have to endure great hardship, as must all, for a time. But they are better off, infinitely better off mentally, morally, physically, on the lands than they would be drifting here and there, either dependent upon charity or crowded into the congested centers to fight in strange surroundings for a miserable existence."

Half of Farms Marginal.

The Roosevelt policy of buying up marginal lands Senator Borah pronounced a mistake. He said half the farms of America are marginal, but the dwellers thereon are to be envied compared with those "who have no marginal lands upon which to live and no home to call their own." Better to spend money, he insisted, on assisting a better cultivation of marginal lands than on removal of the dwellers therefrom.

"A policy of expansion invites our thoughts first to the question of foreign markets. We should make every reasonable effort to build up our foreign trade. It cannot be a wise policy to forego intelligent effort in this direction. If we forego or abandon these markets, some one also will enjoy them to our great and permanent injury—for channels of trade once established are not easily changed.

"Instead of reducing acreage, we should enlarge our markets. I am not advocating the impairment or in any sense the abandonment in any respect to our domestic market—the most valuable market in the world. But after we have afforded all reasonable protection to our home market and to the preservation of our standard of living, there still is a large field in the way of foreign trade. Our mechanical skill or productive genius counts much in a contest for foreign trade. This field we should cultivate arduously."

Urges Silver Remonetization.

"When we come to search the world for our foreign trade," Senator Borah said, "we shall come face to face with another question, the solution which is indispensable to permament prosperity. That is the money question. The great potential markets of the world for the United States are in the Orient and in Russia. If we are to strive in sincerity to build up our foreign trade, as well as our domestic trade, we must restore purchasing power, and one of the great items in that effort is the restoration to one-half the world the money which they have been using for two thousand years, the only money they can use, the only money they can secure, the only medium of exchange it is possible for them to possess.

"This problem is stated better than I can possibly state it by the governor of the Imperial Bank of India, who has lately declared:

"'The economists throughout the world are agreed that maldistribution of gold and overproduction of goods are two of the fundamental causes of the depression. If we consider the fact that the great masses of the Orient are half-starved and less than half clad, one can not say that there is overproduction in terms of requirements, but rather that there is overproduction in terms of purchasing power. Our job, then, is to recreate purchasing power and we have the instrument at hand in silver, of which these masses are possessed. The remonetization of silver will furnish us with a needed purchasing power and will cause to disappear, through consumption, the world overproduction of goods.'"

WATERWAY TREATY IS SEEN AS ISSUE IN SENATE CAMPAIGNS

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—The St. Lawrence treaty, recently rejected by the senate, will be made an issue in the senatorial campaign this November. An organization favorable to ratification will inject it into the election by questionnaires. Some support is expected from the administration, as the President, according to Senator Pittman, plans to resubmit the pact early in the next session.

There is a probability that the treaty may be revised by negotiation with Canada so as to make it more acceptable to the east. That emphasis will be placed on New York's public power program in the future consideration of the treaty was indicated by the President in his interview with Chairman Walsh of the New York power authority, who conferred yesterday on renewed efforts to complete the St. Lawrence project.

The new plan to win greater support, it is understood, contemplates an arrangement with Canada by which the province of Ontario would agree to sell power to New England states at the same rate as New York consumers would obtain it.

Mystery Killing Probe Is Ordered by Coroner's Jury

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that the police continue the search for the killers of Kay Jesperson, 26 years old, 1732 Farragat avenue, who was shot to death at 26th and Federal streets early Sunday. Testimony at the inquest failed to throw any light on the identity of the slayers. One of the witnesses was James Zehrol, alias Enright, alias James, 1260 North La Salle street, who was with Jesperson and was wounded. He was carried from the Bridewell hospital on a stretcher to the Cottage Grove avenue police station to testify. Zehrol admitted he was an ex-convict. He avered that he did not know who shot him and his friend.

FIND CRIMINALS' CAVE HIDEAWAY NEAR CENTRALIA

Centralia, Ill., March 22.—(AP)—An underground hide-out which members of Gov. Horner's "crime squad" said had been used by a well organized band of criminals, was discovered and wrecked near here late today.

J. G. Schrader of St. Clair county, a member of the squad which uncovered the large electric lighted, steam heated cave near the home of Ira Kingsley, said the raid resulted from a tip that the hide-out was to be used as a prison in kidnap operations.

Esther Brichler, daughter of an East St. Louis, Ill., undertaker, and another wealthy unidentified East St. Louis man were named by Schrader as the intended victims. A well equipped liquor making plant was found in the cave.

Kingsley is serving a term in the Leavenworth federal prison. Other men said to have been associated with Kingsley are Pat Murray, James Sullivan, and William Pevy.

Authorities said the men have been linked with bank robberies at Irvington, Ill., and Sandoval, Ill., as well as with a large Western Union office holdup in Chicago.

Convict Former Insurance Commissioner of Fraud

Nashville, Tenn., March 22.—(AP)—A Criminal court jury late today convicted Joseph I. Reece, 50 year old former Tennessee insurance commissioner, on a charge of stealing $100,000 of bonds from the insurance department and fixed his punishment at not more than 10 years' imprisonment.

ASKS RAILROADS TO HELP CHECK CROSSING DEATHS

I. C. C. Chief Calls Series of Conferences.

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, yesterday ordered that all the principal railroads in the state appear before the commission and show cause why a program for the elimination and improvement of thousands of grade crossings should not be inaugurated.

Mr. Lindheimer and other members of the commission said that they intend to see that hundreds of "death traps" over the state are done away with. While they expect the railroads to coöperate, it was added, carriers which fail to do so will feel the full weight of the commission's powers.

Demands Auto Protection.

"There are several thousand places in Illinois where a highway and a railway intersect," said Mr. Lindheimer. "Approximately 1,400 of these crossings involve bond issue highways. It is imperative that at these places the motorist be protected by devices that give him a chance for his life."

He pointed out that 147 persons were killed in Illinois grade crossing automobile accidents in 1933, with 394 injured. These figures, he said, applied only to steam railroads. A total of 394 persons also were injured in collisions of interurban trains and automobiles.

Going further with his statistics, Mr. Lindheimer asserted that from 1928 to 1932 a total of 1,702 persons had been killed on steam railroad grade crossings and 10,034 hurt.

Protection Devices Asked.

It is not the commission plan to promote the building of subways, such improvements being cared for by the state highway department, which is preparing to carry out sixty projects in 1934.

In regard to the crossings involved in the citations, the commission will demand protective devices ranging from modern flasher and bell ringing device and automatic gates to the conventional type of cross bar warning signs. Mr. Lindheimer explained that the simpler devices would be permitted only where hazards are regarded as slight.

He declared the commission has already conducted an intensive survey of grade crossing accidents on its own authority and had come to the conclusion that many lives could be saved with better safety devices. Some 300 crossings, he said, were regarded as extremely hazardous.

Hearings on the citations will begin April 14 and will continue through April 12, a certain number of railroads being scheduled to appear each day.

BYRD TRACTORS PENETRATE TO NEW POLAR BASE

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 22.—(AP)—[By Mackay radio.]—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd said today that the first mass surface-machine expedition in polar history—the sending of a group of four tractors to a base south of Little America—was highly successful.

The four machines, in command of Chief Pilot Harold I. June, set out last Friday. Two of the tractors have forced their way through to the advance bases. A third was still making headway and the fourth was temporarily broken down.

Two airplanes of the expedition, which had been grounded on flights below the main base, were safe in Little America today. The return of the planes and the success of the tractors raised the spirits of the personnel here sharply. One plane was forced down last Saturday, and Admiral Byrd flew to its aid in an autogyro. Later the autogyro became disabled.

$50,000 U. S. Warehouse to Be Built at Rockford

Rockford, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—It was announced today that construction of a new $50,000 warehouse at Camp Grant will start immediately. Workers are busy on a new pumping station and a divisional headquarters building.

MAYOR SUPPORTS PLAN TO REDUCE STATE AUTO FEES

Illinois Cost Higher than 12 Other States.

Mayor Kelly yesterday expressed himself in agreement with Secretary of State Hughes in moving for a reduction in the state automobile license fee. The mayor was not so certain, however, that a reduction in the city vehicle tax fee is equally feasible. He said such action would result in too heavy a special assessment burden on property owners for the improvement and maintenance of city streets.

"It seems to take all the money we can get to keep up our streets now," Mayor Kelly explained. "The city fee is not out of line with our needs and financial requirements, and I think it would be unfair to raise all of the money for street construction and repair by special assessment."

12 States Less Than Illinois.

A survey completed yesterday by the Chicago Motor club revealed that twelve states have a lower average license fee than Illinois. The average paid in Illinois during 1934 was $11.09. The twelve states whose averages are less and the amounts follow: Arizona, $7.47; California, $4.76; Colorado, $6.81; Indiana, $7.64; Kansas, $10.78; Maryland, $10.74; Massachusetts, $8.19; Nebraska, $8.91; New Mexico, $10.03; Texas, $11.04, and Washington, $4.89.

With an average of $4.76 Californians pay the lowest average state automobile license fee in the union. Autoists in Vermont pay the highest average, $28.59. The average for the United States, according to the motor club, is $13.43.

According to Motor club statistics, Chicago motorists pay approximately $64.72 each a year in taxes for the privilege of owning an automobile. Of this amount $19.13 is paid in state gasoline taxes and $6.38 represents federal gasoline taxes. The average city vehicle tax is $12.50, the Motor club estimates. Other taxes, including the state license fee, bring the total to $64.72.

In 1932, according to the American Automobile association, car owners in Illinois paid a total in state and federal taxes of 65 million dollars, or 23 per cent of the aggregate value of all vehicles in the state.

State Fee $12.50.

The owner of a standard make of car with 25 to 30 horse power motor in Illinois pays a state license fee of $12.50. In California and Nebraska the state fee on cars of this class is $3, in Arizona it is $3.50, and in Oregon and Colorado it is $5.

One official of the Motor club yesterday charged that the cost of mere ownership of an automobile in Illinois is too high. He said it is unfair to assess high city and state licenses when many car owners use their automobiles only for week-end pleasure trips.

Secretary of State Hughes has undertaken a study of state license fees charged in Illinois, with a view to making recommendations for reductions to the next general assembly. He said owners of passenger automobiles are overburdened with taxation. He added that fifteen states have already cut their fees and predicted that a reduction in Illinois would result in a greater number of automobile registrations.

CANVASS OF PRIVATE GARAGES IN HUNT FOR STOLEN CARS ORDERED

Orders to investigate all private garages, to determine if stolen cars are being stored there, were issued by Police Commissioner Allman yesterday to captains of all districts.

The commissioner declared that investigation of car thefts disclosed that individual garages were being used for storage purposes. He directed that all captains make thorough canvasses of their districts, submitting daily reports of progress.

In each case, the order read, they were to determine if the cars in any garage were in daily use, or being stored. If the latter, the captains were ordered to ascertain the name of the owner, the occupation, and any other pertinent data.

POLICEMAN GETS $45,000 AWARD IN ACCIDENT SUIT

A jury before Judge Paul McWilliams of Litchfield, sitting in the Superior court here, yesterday awarded damages of $45,000 to Anthony Kunes, 2817 North Karlov avenue, a former county highway motorcycle policeman, for injuries he suffered Aug. 7, 1931, in a collision between his motorcycle and an automobile. The verdict was directed against Jose Garcia, cigar manufacturer, driver of the car.

The accident occurred at Rand and Golf roads near Des Plaines, when Garcia made a left turn into the path of Kunes, who was riding in the opposite direction. The policeman suffered injuries to his left leg which will necessitate amputation, according to his attorneys, Eugene L. McGarry and Herbert Patterson.

Kunes' attorneys argued that under the new motor vehicle act a motorist making a left turn must give right of way to traffic coming in the opposite direction before completing the turn. A motion for a new trial will be heard March 31. Garcia is a resident at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

FACTOR IN EAST HELPING U. S. IN HUNT FOR DILLON

John Factor, wealthy speculator, is in New York, it was learned yesterday, helping federal authorities in their effort to arrest Frank [Porky] Dillon, last important member of the Touhy gang still at large. Dillon has been indicted by the state as one of the kidnapers of Factor. Factor already has traveled thousands of miles in coöperation with the government and state against the Touhy mob. Four of the gang are now in prison for kidnaping him.

In a post-incident of the Factor kidnaping Isaac Costner, one time Touhy gangster, appeared yesterday before Commissioner Walker and waived extradition to Asheville, N. C. Costner, who participated in the kidnaping, testified against the four Touhy gangsters now in prison for kidnaping Factor.

Costner will go to Asheville on charges that he figured in the $105,000 robbery of a mail truck at Charlotte last December. It is said he may testify for the government. Basil Banghart, one of the convicted kidnapers, is also to be removed to North Carolina on the mail robbery charge.

Thorn Taken from His Knee After 20 Years

Canton, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Twenty years ago E. O. Beckett ran a thorn in his left knee. Bothered for a few days, he forgot the incident until today when an inflammation developed. Dr. T. C. Hayes, who was called to attend him, discovered the thorn imbedded in the flesh. It was removed and the pain relieved.

SEARCY ASKS QUIZ ON RECEIVERSHIPS IN COURTS OF ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—A legislative inquiry into mortgage foreclosure and real estate receivership fees was asked today by Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield]. His bill was advanced to second reading in the senate. It calls for appointment of five senators and five representatives to report on the matter next January.

The commission would be given $2,500 and empowered to subpena witnesses and books. It would "study the present procedure followed by the courts of this state in mortgage foreclosures and receiverships of mortgaged real estate resulting from defaulted loans and fees, the cost and expenses of such foreclosures and receivership proceedings."

Mrs. Walker, Former Betty Compton, in Auto Accident

DORKING, England, March 22.—(AP)—Mrs. James J. Walker, wife of the former mayor of New York, had a narrow escape in a motor accident last week, it was revealed today. The car in which Mrs. Walker, the former Betty Compton, was riding hit an obstacle at the side of the road and she was thrown to the ground. She suffered only a slight shock and a run in her stocking.

PROSECUTOR'S AID ON STAND IN GAS TAX EVASION CASE

Assistant Attorney General George Lavin was called as a defense witness yesterday for Max and Al Johnson and Sam Levin, officials of the Consumers Gas and Oil company, who are on trial before a jury in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's Criminal court on charges of conspiracy to evade the state gasoline tax law. Lavin admitted that while an assistant state's attorney he had dismissed the charges against the defendants when they paid $21,160 back tax and promised to pay $1,000 a month until the state claim was satisfied. He said, however, the defendants paid only three installments and that the case was then reinstated.

SENATORS VOTE 500 MILLION FOR NAVAL PROGRAM

Bill Sent to President for His Approval.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's signature was all that was needed tonight to embark the United States on the initial stages of a huge building program to lift the navy to treaty strength.

Congressional action on the Vinson-Trammell bill authorizing construction of approximately 100 new destroyers and submarines, an aircraft carrier and more than 1,000 airplanes was completed when the senate approved the conference report a few hours after the house had done so.

"Little navy" senators made a final gesture of protest—claiming it was the start of a "mad naval race" and another big opportunity for profit-making "racketeers"—but the legislation was approved without a roll call and made ready for transmission to the White House.

Hinges on Budget Bureau.

President Roosevelt is ready to approve the bill, but the extent to which funds will be made available in the seven years the program is expected to cover will depend on the generosity of the budget bureau.

There has been no definite assurance from that quarter that all the money needed—the estimates range from 500 million dollars to 750 million—will be forthcoming for insertion in the annual naval appropriation bills.

The measure takes the first major step in years to extract some of the profits out of the building of armaments by private manufacturers. Profits on all ships to be constructed in private yards would be limited to not more than 10 per cent if the contracts involve more than $10,000.

The contracts would be awarded alternately—ship by ship—to government and private yards.

Another provision looking to more economical war equipment would require the government, if it could be done with existing facilities, to build in its own plants at least one-tenth of the 1,118 airplanes authorized.

Word has reached congress that the budget bureau may soon ask for $4,000,000 for expansion of the Philadelphia naval aircraft factory to build planes for the government.

Britten Asks Quiz of Pacifists.

After the house and senate had acted Representative Britten [Rep., Ill.], ranking minority member of the naval committee, in a statement urged a congressional investigation into activities of organizations against the Vinson bill.

Members of congress were asked, Britten said, by the "Women's International League for Peace and Freedom to vote against the Vinson bill upon the theory that it will provoke war and that its sole interest lies in profits to the munition makers."

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the International Council of Women, the League of Nations associations, the World Alliance for International Friendship, Britten said, were among those carrying on a campaign against the bill.

"I am also sure that a congressional investigation will disclose British, French, and Russian propaganda in the United States, not only for our participation in the league of nations but also for American disarmament while the balance of the world's most powerful nations are arming to the teeth."

BORN DESPITE DOCTOR'S HOLDUP, BABY IS "WELL"

Mrs. Marcella Melloan, 723 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, wife of a railroad foreman, and her newly born daughter were reported to be "doing well" at St. Anne's hospital last night. The baby was born early yesterday a few minutes after the attending physician, Dr. Charles E. Pugh, was held up and robbed of his automobile and, most important of all, his instrument kit, while en route to the hospital.

Dr. Pugh received a call at his home, 3530 Lake Shore drive, shortly after 2 a. m. to hurry to the hospital. At Diversey and Kimball avenues a bandit stepped onto the running board of the doctor's car. The physician explained his mission. Thereupon the bandit consented to drive him to the hospital. There the doctor left the automobile and forgot his instrument case. After the birth of the baby Dr. Pugh notified police that his car and case were missing.

Sergt. John Gapinski and his squad from the Shakespeare avenue police station were cruising west side streets. A few minutes after receiving the police radio call they sighted the stolen car at Troy street and North avenue. After a pursuit of half a mile the driver crashed into a railroad abutment. He was arrested and identified as Jerry Grigware of 2633 North Fairfield avenue.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C.M.Co.

THEY WANTED IT, TOO.

Mr. Eastman's second report as coördinator of transportation to the interstate commerce commission and the President will be read with distinct disappointment by those who saw, or hoped they saw, in the coördinator act an effort to improve transportation and the financial condition of our systems of transportation. The document submitted by Mr. Eastman is a thinly veiled attempt to formulate an excuse for extension of government control of industry. It is very obvious that this conclusion was first determined and the facts developed in the investigation warped to support an alleged necessity for government intervention. Perhaps we should have expected this result, as Mr. Eastman has been an advocate of state guidance and eventual public ownership of all transportation facilities for years, and his years of public office as a member of the interstate commerce commission would tend to develop government-mindedness.

Mr. Eastman starts with the premise that all of the acts of the interstate commerce commission for the past forty-four years have promoted the welfare of railway transportation, and ascribes their deplorable financial condition to the depression, the slowing down in the growth of population, and various other causes. Next he concludes that the water carrier industry must be financially unhealthy, as indicated by the age of the ships, and the automotive industry because of its rapid growth, finally recommending parallel regulation of all three, entirely overlooking the paradox.

That the public has encouraged the growth of the automotive industry and fostered the rehabilitation of water transportation because railway charges had been regulated to a level where rail transportation had become a luxury is too well known to be ignored. Right at the present moment and in spite of efforts to advance commodity prices the general level is below that in existence before the war. In sharp contrast, railway freight levels are still at their wartime peak. Such dislocation has resulted in a public protest that has manifested itself in patronage of trucks, waterways, buses, and the increased use of the private automobile.

The slow moving railways finally turned on their competitors, and now we hear from uneconomical units that have been brought into the picture through the harnessing of the railways the cry of "Regulate us." They mean "Protect us." But the history of transportation shows that Mr. Eastman had many predecessors. When the steam ferries in New York harbor threatened the life of the sailing vessels we first heard the cry of "Regulate them." An Eastman appeared to father a law that required the steam vessels to charge higher fares than the sailing craft. When railway service commenced to play hob with stage coach service we again heard the demand for regulation of the fearsome things. A second Eastman appeared to sponsor a legal requirement that each locomotive should be preceded by a railway employé mounted on a white horse and carrying a red flag. Public safety was the fetish, but speed reduction was the objective. When the box car commenced to show its superiority over barge service on our various waterways a third Eastman came to the rescue with a system of maximum tolls and recapture, whereby a substantial share of railway earnings found its way into the pockets of the barge operators.

All of these laws, appearing silly in the light of later experience, have been forgotten, and apparently the experience, as burocracy never fails to find a scheme for the regulation of aggressiveness and progress for the benefit of the unfit. Irrespective of what action congress may take on Mr. Eastman's recommendation, competition will sooner or later make over our only common carrier system, the railways. An era of attempted regulation will be merely a repetition of the sailboat and white horse experiments. If not, a period of bootleg transportation.

A SERVICE TO THE VOTER.

The Legislative Voters' league, like other agencies maintained by private contributions, has had hard sledding during the depression years and is now quietly appealing for more adequate support. The league deserves a substantial response from the public. It has managed to keep functioning in spite of a depleted income which has not sufficed to keep up on rent or salary payments, but it should not be expected to carry on indefinitly under these restrictions.

The league was established in 1902 after the Chicago Municipal Voters' league had conspicuously demonstrated the value of such an agency for the information of voters. Representative government implies a public that knows how it is being represented, and as both our private lives and the processes of government have become more complicated it has become increasingly more difficult for the voter to keep track of what is going on in the routine conduct of public affairs. The daily press reports from day to day, but covers the world of events with necessary emphasis upon those which are most striking or significant. Readers cannot be expected to follow and retain in memory all the acts of their representatives in the complex machinery of national, state and local legislation and administration.

The need of a nonpartisan and disinterested record and analysis of each legislator's voting so that when he offers himself for reëlection the voters may have information available for judgment is obvious, and this service the Legislative Voters' league was organized to gather day by day and has faithfully offered the voters of the state for over thirty years. This has been an important contribution to responsible government and it should be adequately maintained.

MUNICIPAL DEBTS.

Congress is again considering legislation to enable municipalities to scale down their debts and postpone maturities. As originally drafted, the bill provided that an arrangement agreed to by the owners of two-thirds of the bonds would become binding on the owners of the other third whether they approved the modified terms or not. In response to objections raised by insurance companies and others, the bill may be amended to provide that a scaling down of debts must be approved by 80 per cent of the lenders instead of only 66 per cent.

Even as amended the bill is a bad one because it invites excessive borrowing and future repudiation. It is to be hoped that even if this bill is enacted into law none of the Cook county governments, however serious its financial difficulties, will seek to use it as a cover for what will, in fact, be a thoroughly dishonorable act. Those who bought the bonds lent their money in good faith and they ought to receive every penny of it back.

None of the principal governments of Cook county and, so far as we are aware, none of the smaller ones either, is so heavily burdened with long term debts that it cannot pay them in full and still have substantial sums left with which to maintain current operations. In part because of the delay in tax collections some of the governments have not met their obligations as they fell due, but that does not and will not justify the scaling down of the debts. The governments of this county can pay all the principal and all the interest which they have contracted to pay and the most that any of them by any stretch of the imagination is entitled to ask for is a refunding to postpone maturities.

Needless to say, if our local governments refuse to take advantage of the opportunities which may be presented to them if this bill is enacted, they will be rewarded in future with a superior credit rating and lower interest charges.

THE FULL CUP OF LIFE.

Silver senators think that Mr. Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury, is stalling and sparring for wind and time when he says he is sending Prof. James Harvey Rogers of Yale and the treasury professoriat to China to study silver and its relation to American foreign trade.

It is entirely possible that the silver senators would prefer to assume the inherent magic of their measures rather than have any information, and it is also possible that they think Dr. Rogers might as well condemn their ideas without a sea voyage, but in the end Dr. Rogers' assignment can be commended. It will take him to an Elysium to which all Americans, if they but knew its pleasures, would want to go before they die and after they're dead. Distressed and trouble-stricken and harried as China may seem, it is the one paradise on earth for an American intrusted with a mission or endowed with a slight competence. Its perils, uncertainties and distress are for the more distracted or impoverished of its natives. For the American within the fold of a foundation activities, in the foreign section and the diplomatic spheres of influence, it is life at its highest.

With a competent number one boy, satisfied with his "squeeze," with a Chinese cook, the American soon realizes that life nowhere else can be anything like this. In a pleasant excitement of rumors promising uncertainties, the like of which have not been known since the fall of the Roman empire, he lives in a round of sheer delights, meeting charming people, eating delicious food, caressed by exotic luxuries procurable at small cost, with everything enhanced for his appreciation by the distant beating of tom-toms which of recent years have never been followed up by spears directed at his chest. Wars rage but the wines flow. A profound philosophy lulls his more reflective moments to broad and quieting views of human life. The Rockefeller and other foundations give the scene a touch of altruistic usefulness and the gunboats and the bayonets of American soldiers convince him that a bit of home is always present. The Parisian are tinseled joys by comparison with this deep sense of imperishable well-being, serenely flowing from a never ending good. China may be a torment for many of its myriads, but it is heaven for a foreigner, and why should not Dr. Rogers taste of this cup?

Editorial of the Day

THE SIXTE LETTER.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The death of Prince Sixte of Bourbon-Parma, who had been a brother-in-law to former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, recalls an intensely interesting and still somewhat obscure episode of the world war. Charles ascended the throne at Vienna in the winter of 1916, upon the death of the aged Franz Josef. In the spring of 1917 he wrote a letter to his wife's brother outlining a basis for peace which included the restoration of Belgium and Serbia, and mentioned the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France.

Sixte carried copies of this letter to President Poincare and Premier Clemenceau of France, to King George and Prime Minister Lloyd George of England, and, apparently, to the authorities in Italy also. This was in March or early April, 1917, just at the time the United States was entering the conflict.

What effect the fact that a powerful nation was coming to help them had on the reception of the Austrian overture by the allies is hard to say, but the upshot was that they disregarded Emperor Charles' suggestion.

The fact that such an offer had been made came to light a year later, when Premier Clemenceau published a French version of the note in reply to a speech the Austrian premier had made in Vienna accepting President Wilson's four-point proposal for discussing peace.

Emperor Charles repudiated this version, which represented the dual monarchy as seeking a separate peace at the expense of Germany. The very fact that an individual secret proposal had been made, however, infuriated the Germans and occasioned the downfall of the Austrian ministry. It put Charles in a very bad light with his friends and brought him no comfort from his enemies. As a diplomatic stroke it was a disastrous boomerang.

"Now this, sir," said the antique dealer, proudly, "is a very interesting piece. It is a William and Mary chair."

"It's a bit small, isn't it?" asked the customer, unimpressed. "It looks as though Mary must have sat on William's knee."—Everybody's Weekly, London.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE IS A LITTLE, oh, a nice mild interest expressed in the student at the University of Chicago who, under the new plan in operation there, received his degree of B. A. as soon as he had completed the course which he had done in two and a half instead of four years. But suppose he did, what of it? Was he a humdinger at pole vaulting? What did he score in the hundred yard dash and the broad jump? Huh! What position did he play on the football team, if any? Did he sling a nasty basketball? Was he editor of any of the student publications and how many? Did he blow a mean tuba in the band? Could he turn himself inside out as a cheer leader? Did he act in any college play? What frats and how many debating, dancing, and glee clubs did he belong to? How was he in boxing and in swimming? How many class and school jobs did he get elected to? Was he a demon at bridge? Did he raise the biggest mustache in the mustache race? Could he walk around the streets on the coldest day in winter without a hat? Could he tango and name all the movie stars backwards? Graduating in two and a half instead of taking four years for the course is all very well. But what everybody wants to know is where he stood in CAMPUS ACTIVITIES. That's what really matters.

Come, hearty pals, Falstaffian chaps,
Good lads, cosmopolitanions,
My friends and dear companions;

Let's pluck the chance whilst yet we may
And pluck occasion from the day
While still our knees creak not, Hey, Hey!

From out of Thrace the north wind blows;
The dreadful storm totes rains and snows
And Jove alone, I fancy, knows
What's 't all about.

You, son, was Thetis not thy ma?
(Not mine to mention thine papa)
Well, classic these phenomena
Of lofty birth and station.

The point is, gentle drink and song
Will move the whole dull scene along!

SIXTEEN military spies have been arrested in Paris for peddling secrets of the French, German, and United States armies. Maybe they told some foreign government the answer to the big question now staring the U. S. army in the face—if the army has to deliver the mail, will it be asked to deliver groceries and milk?

Dierdre is gone, and Helen's soft white arm
No more grows numb beneath a sleeping head;
A little earth has quenched Isolde's pain.

And dead these many nights are Usna's three tall sons;
The winds of Troy blow over Paris' bones;
No woman weeps for Tristram, ghost or warm,
Beneath this moon. Here on these wave-beat stones

We live and watch the stars that watched their love.
What ecstasies were theirs to equal this
And eager, quickly severed, unsung kiss?

If you are mine but for this little while
And I am yours until tomorrow rise,
Then let death be upon us with the dawn

GENETICS IN AMERICA.

THE term genetics is the name given all methods for changing the physical and mental qualities of a population by means of breeding or inheritance. The term eugenics is given those genetic influences that improve a people. Dysgenics is the term used for those that deteriorate a stock. All improvements in the stock which result from better food supplies, clothing, housing, sanitation and more work or exercise are said to be environmental—improvement by means of better living conditions. Those which result from better inheritance are, by contrast, called eugenics procedures.

Man, in his long and difficult struggle upwards from savagery, has had occasion to learn much about the laws of sanitation and hygiene. He learned how to clothe and house himself so as to live in all climates from the equator to the poles. He learned which foods were good for him, how to conquer insects, how to work and to rest, how to spend and to save, how to protect the children and the old, how to combat his enemies.

The science of genetics has crawled along hundreds or thousand of years behind the science of hygiene and sanitation. Man's knowledge of the science of human genetics is at least decades and maybe centuries behind his practice of genetics of the domestic animals—horses, dogs, and cows.

But the stress and strain through which the civilization of the western world has been passing in this twentieth century is forcing most of the peoples of North America and of western Europe to turn their attention to human genetics in order to save what they have gained since the birth of Christ. Twenty-three states in the Union have eugenics laws, and some have been in operation for a quarter of a century. Some of these laws have been declared valid by the higher courts. Over twelve thousand people have been directly affected by them. Mr. Harry McLaughlin and Chief Justice Olson have written a book about these procedures and the laws relating to them.

These are negative eugenic laws, but positive eugenic procedures will follow. Abroad we find that Italy, Germany, Russia, and some other nations have gone farther than we have.

WOOING SLEEP.

A. H. writes: I am a girl of 19. I find it very hard to fall asleep. Could you tell me what this is from? No matter how early or how late it is that I retire it is always the same.

REPLY.

If you will go to bed thoroughly relaxed physically, mentally, and emotionally you will go to sleep. Physical fatigue promotes sleep. Going to the movies, excitement, and emotionalism prevent it.

COLITIS.

E. S. writes: I have been advised that I am suffering from a chronic mucous colitis condition.

1. What is the cause?
2. Can it be cured by dieting?
3. Is it serious?

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are a neurotic temperament, spastic colitis, chronic constipation, the use of enemas and purgatives.
2. Some cases are cured by proper living patiently observed. This includes avoidance of the cause, developing calm, overcoming constipation by diet and habits.
3. It does not threaten life. It does cause colicky pain, discomfort, and inconvenience.

SMALL HEMORRHAGE.

Constant Reader writes: What would cause the skin on the calf of the leg to turn black and blue for an era of several inches around from the accidental sticking of a needle point into the same? I am a woman 35 years old and in good health otherwise.

REPLY.

In all probability the needle went into a small blood vessel and there was a small hemorrhage into the tissues.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, March 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What can be done to a person who, in 1930, filed bankruptcy to protect herself from an unjust judgment? 1. She did not list any debts. In 1933 she received several hundred dollars in tax warants from a friend, giving a receipt for them and stating the dates she would make the payments. She did not keep all of her promises and [2] there is still some money due me. Her husband has a steady job. 3. Is he liable for her debts? 4. Can I garnishee his wages? 5. Can she or both of them file bankruptcy again to get out of paying? 6. How long can an estate stay in Probate court? My mother died in 1930. There are four years' taxes and specials against the place, and no income. 7. Can the town take it from the rightful heirs for debts while it is still in Probate court?

J. P.

1. In general, debts that are not scheduled are not barred. Apparently there must be some mistake about your statement of facts since if she did not list any debts the proceedings would be a complete nullity.
2. You do not state whether you are the creditor under the so-called unjust judgment or had some other claim against her before bankruptcy or are the creditor on the tax warant transaction. A 1930 bankruptcy would be no defense to a 1933 transaction if that is what you mean to ask.
3. In general a husband is not liable for his wife's debts except those for necessities or family expenses.
4. See preceding answers.
5. He can if he is insolvent. A person who has recently gone through bankruptcy is barred.
6. We would not undertake to name a maximum limit. If you wish to bring pressure to bear on the executor or administrator to close the estate you should take the matter up with the clerk of the court.
7. In case of nonpayment of taxes the property is sold at tax sale and two years later a tax deed issues which is a serious cloud on the title.

COMPENSATION AWARD.

Chicago, March 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a friend who won an award for compensation before the arbitrators of the industrial board, also in the Circuit court. The insurance company appealed it to the Supreme court. 1. Is my friend supposed to get a notification from the court or insurance company to show that it has been appealed? Should he get the award in the Supreme court, [2] how long would it be before the insurance company would start payment? 3. Would it be possible to collect interest on the past due payments? 4. Is the Supreme court likely to uphold the decisions of the Circuit court and the industrial board? 5. Is it possible to get information when the hearing will come up?

A. C.

1. Section 90 of the new practice act provides that notice of appeal shall be given to the appellee or his attorney in such manner as may be provided by rule. Rule 34 of the Supreme court authorizes service on a party personally or on his attorney. Under these provisions the party himself would not necessarily be served.
2. It seems probable that they would start at once.
3. Yes.
4. Roughly, there are more affirmances than reversals.
5. You can try writing to the clerk of the Supreme court, Springfield.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON. — Important development in British air transport, both at home and abroad, will take place in the course of the next few months.

In England negotiations are already in progress between Imperial Airways, Ltd., and the four railway companies for the early establishment of a number of air services. The object of these will be to link up the chief industrial centers in England with the London terminal airport at Croydon and so provide direct air communication with the empire air services. The new routes will be run by Imperial Airways in conjunction with the railway interests and are in addition to about twenty other inland air lines which are to be operated this year by independent air transport concerns.

Faster and more frequent services are also to be introduced on the cross-channel air services to European capitals. On the London-Paris route in particular, competition between the rival British and French lines is likely to be particularly keen this year unless, as is possible, a coöperative arrangement is reached for "pooling" of services and receipts.

Meanwhile, the Imperial Airways have ordered for early delivery a number of fast new aircraft comparable in speed to the latest types of French machines.

Developments in empire services will be equally great. London will soon be brought within 3½ days of Montreal by the establishment of a flying boat service between Canada and Newfoundland and the equipment of mail steamers with seaplanes and catapult launching devices.

From London the mails will be flown to the south of Ireland, transferred to the mail boat, and will be catapulted by seaplane off the ship when it is still some distance from the Newfoundland coast. From Newfoundland the mails will be carried by air to Montreal, where airline connections will be available to the United States and the principal cities in Canada.

In Africa more frequent services are to be introduced on the Salisbury-Johannesburg section of the London-Cape Town air route. From April 1 two services weekly in each direction will be run over this section instead of one, as at present.

A further general speeding up of the empire air service to Africa, India, and Egypt will also take place on June 2, when the present train section of the route between Paris and Brindisi will be superseded by an air connection between Paris and Naples, via Marseilles. Passengers from England to India and Africa, and vice versa, will then be able to complete the whole journey by air instead of having to spend a day and a night traversing the continent by train, as is now the case.

Yet another air transport development of 1934, and perhaps the most important of all, will be the extension of the present England-Singapore service to Port Darwin, giving direct air communication between England and Australia. Tenders for the operation of this section of the route and for the necessary extensions to Australian cities have already been submitted to the government of Australia, and the announcement of the award of the contract is expected early in April.

ANOTHER LEGAL RACKET.

Chicago, March 20.—A recent article in THE TRIBUNE described an attempt to curtail some of the evil practices of lawyers in the Criminal court. I should like to call attention to another racket, which, if I may judge from my personal experience, is gaining popularity with a certain class of lawyers. This practice consists in taking advantage of individuals who are mentally deranged, the most popular victims being those who fulfill two requirements: that of being possessed of some wealth and of laboring under delusions of persecution. In some such instances the lawyer will limit his activity to the collection of a sizable retainer and the filing of a suit, which never comes to trial. In another instance, a case, utterly hopeless from the beginning, may drag through the courts for years, the lawyer in all probability collecting such fees as he may be able to extort from his demented client for each court action.

I know of at least one instance of a suit for very heavy damages, in which, even if it were successful, there will not be the remotest possibility of collecting enough from a poverty stricken defendant to cover the court costs. It is needless to say that in this instance the plaintiff is well-to-do.

This practice, as I have already said, seems to be gaining in popularity. Can nothing be done to put a stop to it?

SYDNEY KUH, M. D.

AGAINST THE PARK CONSOLIDATION.

Chicago, March 15.—Why don't you print the true facts of the proposed consolidation of Chicago's twenty-two park districts?

In the referendum we are asked to approve of allowing our appointed mayor the opportunity of appointing five commissioners of the new park district.

Those five appointees are the final judges of the hiring and firing of park employés. Will a man be hired because of his ability to get votes for the Nash-Kelly organization or for his ability to perform his duties?

What will become of the present park employés?

Why should park districts that are up to date in their salaries [Irving park district] merge with park districts that are years behind in their salaries [west park district, northwest park district, etc.]?

We are being asked to vote for the referendum because it will reduce [so they say] taxes. But will it? It will not for the small park districts, but perhaps it may for the large park districts.

J. F. L.

INTERESTING IF TRUE DEPARTMENT.

Bridgewater, S. D., March 17.—What would you suggest be done to a mayor of a city who orders a diphtheria sign put on the jail in order to keep men seeking shelter from using the jail for a night's lodging? Such a thing has happened in Bridgewater.

GEORGE M. HIETLER.

THE CASE FOR UNION LABOR.

Chicago, March 20.—Why all the bunk by the Automobile Chamber of Commerce that the American Federation of Labor wants to run their factories? No union or organization does, or ever did, try to run any company. But the unions always will tell any corporation that a fair part of the profits do belong to the employés as wages. Nobody is against a company making profits, but any fair-minded person is against the present practice of huge bonuses and salaries to the officers and starvation wages to the worker.

The automobile makers are raising the question of advancement on merit. They, or any other corporation, do not practice this method today. It is advancement through relationship. This holds good in politics and business.

As for company unions, the employé is beat before he starts, because his representative is a boss and he knows he will be let out the first chance they get, but not so when there is a union to contend with.

The biggest business in the country is run by unions to a certain extent and they have the least labor trouble of any industry because they get together and draw up their working contracts. The unions protect their men against unfair practices and procure a wage that the industry can pay. The company knows they can pay this wage and still make a good profit, and the conditions are not a strangle hold on the company. This business is the railroad companies of the United States. If the railroad companies can get along with the unions, so can the automobile companies and all other business.

Unions were born because in years gone by the rotten methods of industry forced men to band together to protect themselves.

The time is soon at hand when the profits of all companies will have to be limited, so the balance can take care of the workers that industry can not or will not employ.

GEORGE SEARS.

AGAINST WAGE INCREASES.

Chicago, March 20.—I have read a good many articles denouncing the government for not restoring the federal employés' salaries. They have had steady work all these depression years while others have been out of work. The same should apply to union labor employés who have been working steady all the time. Until there are no idle men comparatively the wages should remain as they are.

LEOPOLD'S WAGES.

Chicago, March 20.—In THE TRIBUNE of March 20 J. S. complains that Belgium does not pay her war debts to the United States, but can pay $3,000,000 as salary to the new king, Leopold III. The salary of the king is 3,000,000 francs, not 3,000,000 dollars. That is the salary which King Albert was drawing and I do not think that any changes have been made. At the present rate of exchange, about 22 francs to a dollar, the salary of the king amounts to about $140,000 a year in American money.

TOKIO DENIES ANY MOVE MADE TO WIN U. S. FAVORS

Manchukuo Recognition Not Urged, Japan Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 22.—The foreign office today flatly denied reports that Hiroshi Saito, ambassador to Washington, in conjunction with Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, had been instructed to seek revision of the Japanese exclusion clause in the United States immigration law, American recognition of Manchukuo, and abandonment by the United States of its naval air bases in the Philippines.

A spokesman emphatically declared that Japan has not formulated any concrete proposals and has not sent instructions to Saito. Regarding the naval issue the spokesman said:

Points to Diet Statements.

"I need merely point out that both the foreign and navy ministers in statements in the diet declared Japan is not content with the present ratio There is also no truth in the Philippines report. There is no truth in the statement that Japan is endeavoring to obtain American recognition of Manchukuo. As a matter of fact the more we press for recognition the less chance there will be for it."

He declared that if Japan is certain Secretary of State Hull will accept, it will tender him an invitation to visit Japan.

Attach Naval Question Vital.

It is learned from informed quarters that Manchukuoan recognition is the least of Japan's worries. However, considerable importance is attached to the naval question owing to the fact that unless Japan's demand for naval equality is altered the breakup of the next conference with Great Britain and America is almost a certainty.

In some quarters it is expected that Yosuke Matsuoka, Japan's outspoken representative last year at the league of nations at Geneva, will head the delegation to the parley. It is hoped he will succeed in keeping the conference from breaking up. It is declared not unlikely that efforts will gradually be made to change the present attitude here to clear the way for the parley.

Indiana Auto Clubs Fight Diversion of Motor Taxes

Indianapolis, Ind., March 22.—[Special.]—A stand against diversion of any taxes collected from motorists to purposes other than building and maintenance of roads will be one of the principal points in the legislative program of Indiana motorist groups, it was decided at a meeting of motor club representatives with members of the state highway commission here today. Diversion by an act of the 1933 legislature of half of the net gasoline tax to local units of government with the reported result that much of the money has been wasted or spent without an eye to economy, was one of the chief centers of discussion.

DE VALERA BILL TO END SENATE PASSES IN DAIL

President Acts After Blue-shirt Victory.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 22.—A bill to abolish the Free State senate was introduced by President Eamon de Valera in the dail eireann tonight and passed on first reading, 79 votes to 43. The Laborites voted with the government.

This was the government's dramatic answer to the senate's rejection last night of the government's anti-Blue Shirt measure prohibiting the wearing of political uniforms and outlawing all nongovernmental military or semi-military organizations. The Blue Shirts, led by Gen. Owen O'Duffy, form the chief opposition to De Valera.

Delays Bill 18 Months.

The senate has no power to kill legislation, but may delay its passage for 18 months. If a general election is held in the meantime, however, and the same government is returned, the bill in question may be made law by the dail within 60 days.

It is believed possible that De Valera will call a general election in June or July, since the senate naturally will reject the bill decreeing its own extinction. By passing the bill through the dail and calling an election De Valera could achieve his object in 60 days if his government were returned.

"Piece of Bad Temper."

Frank MacDermot, a Blue Shirt, leader, branded De Valera's measure the outcome of "a discreditable piece of bad temper." He said the Blue Shirts are fighting "the methods of a bully."

De Valera, in presenting his measure, declared that the senate was an "absolute menace to this country." He added that the bill is designed to facilitate the carrying out of the wishes of the people.

BIG FAIR ATTENDANCE INCREASE IS INDICATED BY ADVANCE BOOKINGS

A survey of early bookings of travel bureaus, railroads, bus companies, and other agencies yesterday indicated an increase of 25 to 30 per cent in tours and organized parties to A Century of Progress this year.

Bert White, travel manager of the American Express company, which last year conducted 1,200 organized parties to the Fair, said that domestic bookings are 20 per cent greater than at this time last year.

Both the Western and Central Passenger associations have announced lower fares to Chicago this year, the rates to go into effect May 22.

Fair officials announced yesterday that the General Electric company and the Haeger Potteries, Inc., of Dundee, had signed contracts for exhibition space.

PREDICT ENTRY OF RUSSIA INTO LEAGUE IN FALL

PARIS, March 22.—(AP)—The entry of soviet Russia into the league of nations at the September assembly was predicted in diplomatic circles today. Since Turkey joined the league July 6, 1932, the Moscow government is reported to have shown a strong tendency in favor of following suit.

Germany's abrupt break from the league last Oct. 14, is regarded as having further contributed to an atmosphere favorable to Russia's admission. Today's reports said Soviet government leaders have been sounding out member powers and have received assurance that Russia would be welcomed to the league.

First she would have to obtain official recognition from some league members with whom she now has no diplomatic relations—such as Holland, Denmark and Finland.

Here's What Russia Says.

MOSCOW, March 22.—(AP)—In response to Paris reports that soviet Russia is about ready to join the league of nations, it was said officially today that there have been no developments here since Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov's speech last December indicating Moscow might consider coöperating with the league if she found that by so doing she could further the cause of world peace.

BARBER CHIEF SURGEON IN N. Y. HOME FOR AGED

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—A 70 year old inmate of the city home on Welfare iland, formerly a ship's cook, miner and lumberjack, testified today that for two years he had been in sole charge of the so-called "ulcer clinic" at the home.

There he treated advanced cases of ulcerated legs with the aid of an old jackknife, cotton swabs, which he changed but seldom, and solutions of his own concoction.

This barber surgeon, Charles Johnson, was the star witness at the final hearing of the investigation Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanchard has been conducting into the mismanagement of the city's refuge for the aged.

Louis J. McNally, fugitive superintendent of the home, was responsible for placing Johnson in charge of the clinic. With no other assistance than that of one "Pete," a confirmed alcoholic among the inmates, "who'd drink anything he could get hold of," "Dr." Johnson treated as many as 33 cases a day.

No physician, he said, ever entered the premises. His "patients" were sent to him, he said, by John J. Smith, men's overseer of the home.

"And why not?" proudly asked Johnson. "I was the best man on ulcers they ever had down there."

Deposit $48,000 in Eight Years.

Before the Welfare iland "ulcer specialists" took the stand, Irving Ben Cooper, the commissioner's special counsel in the investigation, placed in evidence records prepared by one of his assistants, Sidney Posner, showing that the missing McNally and his wife Margaret had deposited a total of $48,686.51 in the eight years between 1926 and 1934.

In that period the total received in salaries from the city by McNally, who is the head of a family of six, was $25,115. Mr. Cooper said the records showed that in addition McNally had purchased a total of $31,000 in mortgages since 1921.

Aid Is an Alcoholic Inmate.

Mr. Posner testified that Mrs. McNally in the period under investigation had made cash deposits totaling $11,252.12. On Jan. 12, 1933, he said, she deposited $3,000; on Jan. 6, 1930, $1,696.39; on Oct. 1, 1926, $2,740.

Other deposits made on single days by the wife of the fugitive superintendent were for such amounts as $752.54, $705, $700, $450, $278, $238, $250, $150, and $130.94.

With the terse comment, "This is the answer to politics," Commissioner Blanchard concluded the hearing this afternoon and ordered the entire record turned over to the district attorney for prosecution.

NAZIS LIMIT U. S. LARD TO PROMOTE GERMAN BUTTER

Seen as a Weapon to Get New Credits in America

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 22.—A surprising shortage of lard on the German market is due to a suddenly enforced partial and retroactive embargo on American exports of the product, it was learned today.

Little more than one-third of the average annual amount imported in the last three years is permitted to enter Germany. The reckoning started March 1, though Americans were not informed of the partial embargo until the middle of the month. Only 25,000 tons of American lard, costing less than 16,000,000 marks [about $640,000], may be imported into Germany comparing with the annual average of 64,000 tons worth 42,000,000 marks [$1,860,000] imported in previous years.

Applied to Other Nations.

German officials assert the same restrictions have been applied to other countries sending in lard. Bankers explain that the embargo is enforced to make it clear to America that unless Germany gets new credits to buy raw materials she will not buy from the United States.

An attempt may be made to use lard as a financial object lesson in bartering, but it is also true that the German government is determined to teach Germans to eat butter produced by Nazi farmers. If they cannot afford butter, they must be satisfied with fats made out of pigs' heads and feet or Chinese soy beans.

The measure evidently had been prepared for quite a while, since Chinese beans were the main reason for the increase of imports to Germany for the month of February.

Finances Need Attention.

In view of the tremendous public works program, Germany's finances are stretched to the highest tension. This will make it impossible for Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, to go to America to negotiate a raw materials credit. He will send some other official of the Reichsbank to make the same attempt.

Schacht is preparing a memorandum which he hopes will stagger foreign bankers when they arrive in Berlin next month to urge Germany to make arrangements to pay her debts. Well-informed circles declare Schacht is striving for cancelation of 50 per cent of Germany's foreign debts and a rate of interest far below the present rate.

POSTAL WORKERS WIN PROMISE OF KRUETGEN'S AID

Police yesterday dispersed a parade of 300 members of the National Association of Substitute Postoffice Employés as they were about to leave Grant park at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard to march into the loop. Ten men, among them Thomas McKenna, secretary of the Civil Liberties union, were arrested but later released. Following the parade dispersal 25 members of the association and their president, W. C. Lawrence, met with Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen. They were demonstrating, they said, because many had not received work in two years and were not eligible to CWA employment because they were still classified as federal employés. Mr. Kruetgen promised to plead for them before the CWA.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Tragedy in Brooder

March 22, 1934.

THE little Barred Rock chicks which have been growing so rapidly and getting along so nicely under their electric brooder [the "red hot mama" of the chicken yard] ran into trouble last night. For the first time since these little fellows were installed in their new home on THE TRIBUNE's experimental farm in Kendall county their mechanical mother failed them. Result: four dead chicks this morning.

During the night the brooder failed to function. It is controled automatically by a thermostat which keeps the heat under the brooder between 94 and 98 degrees. With this warmth always provided for the chicks they can huddle together at dark and sleep through the night without worrying about cold March weather. When the brooder failed to work, naturally the temperature of the chicken coop kept dropping lower and lower. And as this happened the poor chicks crowded closer and closer together until they were a solid mass. Four poor little fellows in the middle of the heap were smothered when Rawlings came out in the morning to make his usual early inspection. The brooder is working all right now, so the 146 Barred Rock chicks are carrying on as usual.

A number of visitors, including many children with their parents, have been dropping in to see the lambs on the auxiliary farm west of Wheaton. You don't have to strain your eyes to see plenty of lambs now. The last count was 182 and they are still coming. So far there have been 54 pairs of twins and 74 singles in this number. One little girl visitor who was quite intrigued by her first close-up view of a newly born lamb was both impressed and somewhat disillusioned. She took one look at some of the very small lambs with their short, yellowish fleece and wrinkled skin and said: "Say, mommy, they look as if they had union suits on 'em."

This is the big week for the five pet lambs which have been getting their rations from a nursing bottle. They are being weaned from their bottles. Rawlings is putting in a little feed rack for these pets so they can step right up to their cafeteria and help themselves to ground oats and bran.

A couple of noisy clucking hens didn't hesitate about telling the world yesterday that they wanted to sit on a clutch of eggs and raise a family. What a fuss they made around the chicken house! Both of them will be provided with a nest and eggs tomorrow so that they go to work at once.

Poor Ginger, the cocker spaniel, had a hard time yesterday. He begged to go along with Rawlings and his daughter, Evelyn, when they had to hike to the field beyond the sheepfold yesterday afternoon. No sooner had Ginger got into the sheepfold than two ewes went after him. Then the black ram that is here on the farm joined them in harassing the cocker. It was the same story when Ginger returned through the sheepfold. But he told those ewes what he thought of them. Just as soon as he was safely out of the sheep yard and the gate was locked he opened up in typical dog language and blessed 'em out for all he was worth. Then he dared 'em to come out in the open!

Add signs of spring on the farm: The geese couldn't stand it any longer in their winter quarters. Yesterday they broke out in order to get to the pond where they nest and spend the summer.

CHILD CONFERS WITH BRITISH CHIEFS ON U. S. ECONOMIC MISSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 22.—Richard Washburn Child, President Roosevelt's envoy to Europe on economic conditions, began his work today by interviewing Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Prime Minister MacDonald. He expects to spend two or three weeks in Great Britain before continuing his task on the continent.

Child said he is in no sense an ambassador and has no authority to initiate negotiations or even "conversations" with any European statesman. He declared his mission is to report economic conditions in Europe to the President so that he may act in connection with new economic powers which Child predicted will soon be conferred on him.

He expressed the opinion that the period marked by the world economic conference last summer in London is past. The President now feels the time has come to resumed the work, he he said. He explained that this does not mean that the world economic conference is likely or not likely to be reconvened.

It is quite as likely that some other method of discusion and negotiation among the powers for restoration of economic stability will be tried, he said.

LECTURER FILES $750,000 SUIT FOR PLAGIARISM

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—Carla Jenssen, lecturer, who said she had served ten years with the British seecret service, filed suit today against R. K. O. studios for $750,000, charging plagiarism.

The plaintif said she submitted last March a story, "She Spies," based on her work as a secret service operative, and the studio used her story material, producing a picture under the title "After Tonight," released last fall.

She alleged she was damaged $500,000 when the story was filmed and she was not reimbursed and that future showings would damage her $250,000.

JAPAN RUSHES DOCTORS, FOOD TO FIRE SWEPT CITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 23 [Friday].—One hundred and fifty thousand homeless from the Hakodate fire spent a bitterly cold night in 140 hastily built shacks and barracks and homes of friends as a hailstorm hit the stricken city last night. Most of the 2,000 injured are being cared for in hospitals.

Official figures recounting the toll of Wednesday night's fire which swept the largest seaport of northern Japan fanned by a 70 mile gale placed the deaths from the fire at 600, about 300 dying after being brought to hospitals and first aid stations. In addition, several hundred were drowned, forced into the sea by flames, but exact figures are not available. Seventy corpses were recovered floating at sea.

Twenty-three thousand houses in the city of 210,000 were destroyed and the property loss is variously estimated from 50 to 100 million yen [the yen is worth 30 cents]. Help poured in from all parts of the country and from abroad. All northbound trains were crowded with doctors, nurses, and food. Two destroyers arrived with provisions and clothing today.

FOREIGN TRADE EXPERT TO AID BUSINESS MEN

Clayton Lane, commercial attaché representing the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the United States department of commerce in Warsaw, Poland, is to be available for conferences with Chicago business men on March 26 and 27, it was announced yesterday. Robert Sevey, acting district manager of the bureau in Chicago, said that Mr. Lane, who has been commercial attaché in Warsaw for five years, would welcome a chance to discuss problems of local business men.

"This is the first time in a long period that it has been possible to have one of our foreign representatives in Chicago and we are hopeful that a large number of local and nearby firms interested in foreign trade will avail themselves of the opportunity of meeting Mr. Lane," Mr. Sevey said.

"Interested parties should telephone the Chicago office, 201 North Wells street, State 9640, for the purpose of arranging an appointment."

FRENCH FINANCE CHIEF BIDS FOR U. S. TRADE PACT

Announces Move to End Double Income Taxation.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 22.—Evidencing what American business circles here consider a real desire to cultivate Franco-American trade, Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin today delivered a significant speech on commercial relations before the American club.

The high spot of Germain-Martin's talk was the announcement that the government intends to prod the chamber of deputies into ratifying the Franco-American accord on double taxation. This agreement was concluded between the then premier Andre Tardieu and former American Ambassador Walter Edge in 1932 and subsequently was ratified by the United States congress. It provides for elimination of income taxes levied on companies from abroad operating in France.

May Pave Way to Trade Pact.

This measure will have little direct effect on trade, but psychologically is highly important as paving the way to a frank understanding between the two countries. The row over the double taxation problem has embittered Franco-American commercial relations for the last four years and has absorbed diplomatic energy which might otherwise have been devoted to trying to improve trade.

Considerable comment likewise was aroused by Germain-Martin's reference to monetary problems. The finance minister reiterated France's determination to stick to gold and ridiculed the belief current in America that world trade conditions will be improved as soon as France leaves gold.

There is no reason, Germain-Martin declared, why the two countries should not get along each with the kind of money which is best suited to its needs. While this was put as a slam against the more or less open hostility of some "new dealers" to France because she remains on the gold standard—a campaign which has done a lot of harm to American trade by the way—it is also a tacit admission that France has abandoned the attempt to force America to stabilize the dollar as a prelude to any commercial discussions.

Another Step Toward Accord.

If this new live and let live attitude suggested by Germain-Martin is confirmed by the government's official acts and not disturbed by ill timed demonstrations by American wild money fanatics, it is another very important step in paving the way for a trade accord.

Business men here hope that when President Roosevelt's special trade envoy, Richard Washburn Child, arrives here—he is expected in a few days—he will follow up the opening furnished by Germain-Martin. It is generally recognized here that this is a decisive moment.

The French trade situation is desperate and in efforts to right the commercial balance France is in difficulties with virtually all European customers. The Franco-British trade negotiations reached a deadlock over French insistence on scrapping the principle of the most favored nation for the frank policy of direct reciprocity and preferential bargaining.

It is a golden moment to make any propositions to the French and intervention by the United States in the battle over the most favored nation clause would probably be decisive now, business circles believe.

YOUTH IS FREED ON CHARGE OF SNATCHING PURSE

Tony Cordello, 20 years old, 3642 West 57th place, was discharged yesterday by Judge Lambert Hayes on a charge of larceny. Mrs. F. L. Small, 1636 West 68th street, whose purse containing $4 was stolen on March 3, as she walked near her home, identified Cordello as the thief in the South Chicago police station and in court.

The defense called ten alibi witnesses who testified that Cordello attended a birthday party on the evening of the theft from 8 o'clock until 3 the next morning. Several declared he had not left the party, and others said that he had gone out only once.

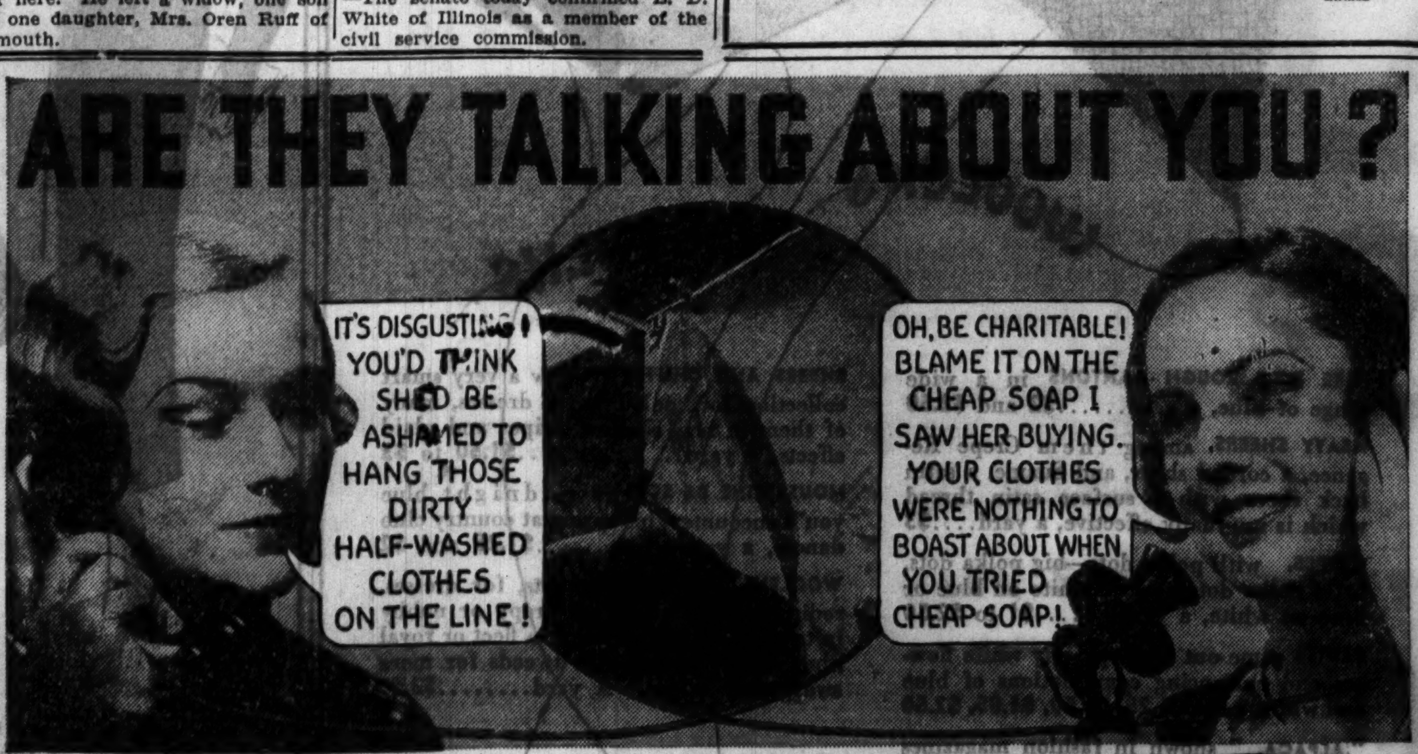
ARE THEY TALKING ABOUT YOU?



Cheap bars lack real soap, make weak suds and hard rubbing, which wears out clothes. The weak suds "die" in this hard water; form scummy, unrinsable curds which spot, speck and grey your clothing. Weak suds also mean that you use more soap . . . wasting it in a vain attempt to get things clean. Where's the saving? Right now, American Family Soap is selling at the lowest price in history. HOUSE REFUSES TO O. K. SENATE'S BUDGET INCREASE

Insists on Own Plan for Vet Aid, Pay Jump.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Standing pat on its so-called compromise amendments, the house of representatives today refused once again to accept the more drastic senate economy proposals adding some 343 millions to the budget in government pay and veterans' benefits.

By a vote of 164 to 228 the house insisted on its own plan for restoring five per cent of the 15 per cent federal pay cut now and five per cent on July 1 instead of the senate program for full restoration of the 15 per cent on the latter date.

And by a vote of 174 to 220 the house further insisted on its own Taber veterans' amendment involving some 90 million dollars in lieu of the senate Steiwer amendment calling for the expenditure of about 118 millions next year.

Puts Senate "On Spot."

The day's action virtually puts the senate on a legislative spot and it was this purpose, in part, which moved the house to remain adamant on the economy issue. The higher body must now either accept the house amendments to the independent offices appropriation bill or insist on its own more expensive proposals and thereby send the bill back to conference.

The impasse was one of the most serious any piece of legislation has reached on Capitol hill in recent years. There was no word from the administration today as to whether it will accept the house amendments, which add some 200 millions to the budget next year. But there were frequent and apparently authoritative assurances from house members that the President will certainly veto the measure if the more drastic senate proposals prevail.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, who is achieving a considerable reputation for wrong predictions, told newspaper men prior to the votes today that the house would agree with the senate amendments and let Mr. Roosevelt veto the bill. The membership of the house, however, insisted that the senate be forced to vote at least once on the compromise proposals which have now been reaffirmed by the lower body on three separate occasions.

Read Legion Telegrams.

Much of the support for the house amendments derived from the activity of the American Legion, which flooded congress with telegrams urging support of the veterans' program adopted in the lower body. Members after member took the floor today to read a telegraphic plea from his local Legion post in behalf of the house plan.

Though the amendments of the lower body dealing with veterans provide 28 millions less in benefits than the senate amendments, the Legion, it was made clear, believes that the 90 million dollar house program is the best it can get at this time.

PARAGUAY FIGHTS BOLIVIA FOR KEY FORT IN JUNGLE

ASUNCION, Paraguay, March 22.—(AP)—Official claims of victories in the Ballivian sector of the Chaco battlefront indicate that the troops of this country and Bolivia are now entering what is expected to be the decisive stage in the war between the two nations, and Paraguay today envisaged a victory.

The opposing armies face each other in the general area of Fort Ballivian, a major Bolivian base. Ballivian is the well fortified junction of the two Bolivian highways knitting the network of Chaco forts which Paraguay has occupied in the last four months. The Paraguayans are pressing toward it from the east and southeast over both roads.

De Priest Likely to Lose His Fight on Discrimination

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—With southern Democracy bossing the house, Representative Oscar De Priest, Chicago's Negro Republican, appeared likely today to lose his fight to halt discrimination against Negroes in the house restaurant.

His effort to force a vote on the issue through the medium of a discharge petition seemed headed for success late today, but the house leadership prepared at once to execute a parliamentary maneuver that will frustrate his plans. At the same time, the leadership deliberately took a weapon out of his hands when it approved an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill cutting off all funds for the restaurants in the capitol.

The latter stratagem was admittedly a subterfuge devised to prevent De Priest from offering a similar amendment. The senate is certain to kill the amendment approved by the house today and the restaurants will continue to receive federal funds to meet their inevitable deficits.

Reports Resolution Today.

De Priest lacked only 10 of the 145 names needed to make his discharge petition effective. The full quota of signatures would force the rules committee to relinquish his resolution challenging the authority of Chairman Lindsay Warren [Dem., N. C.] of the house accounts committee to make rules for the house restaurant.

But the rules committee, it was learned, intends to report the De Priest resolution tomorrow, which means that it will be placed on the house calendar. De Priest will find it virtually impossible to call up the measure for consideration should the committee report be favorable, and should it be adverse, his resolution will be killed automatically. In any event, the act of reporting it out of the committee frustrates the plan to force a vote on the issue by the discharge petition.

Earlier in the day De Priest was subjected to a verbal spanking on the floor of the house by no less prominent a Democrat than Majority Leader Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee. Byrns charged that "some one" in editing the transcript of the speech which De Priest delivered yesterday had inserted after a certain portion of words, "applause from southern members." The notation appeared in this morning's Congressional Record.

Byrns Is Angry.

"This is the first time in my long experience here," said the incensed leader of the Democrats, "that any man has sought to attribute applause to any one group of members in this house. I have seen, in the Record, 'applause from the Republican side' or 'applause from the Democratic side,' but never anything like this. I have talked with the official reporter and he informs me that he merely noted the word 'applause' in the transcript. Some one changed it."

The notation which aroused Byrns' anger followed that portion of the De Priest speech in which the Chicago Negro read a letter from Representative Terrell of Texas asserting that Terrell did not believe in "social equality" between the white and Negro races. The "applause from southern members" was provoked by Terrell's letter and not by De Priest's remarks, the notation indicated.

JAMES HANSON, U. OF C. LIBRARY HEAD, RETIRES

James C. M. Hanson, recognized as an international authority on library reorganization, will retire today after 24 years' service as librarian at the University of Chicago. He plans to live at his camp at Sister Bay, Wis.

Mr. Hanson, now 68 years old, was a star pitcher on the Cornell university baseball team before his graduation there in 1890. He worked on the staf of Newberry library for four years and then was employed to reorganize the library at the University of Wisconsin.

He was director of the library of congress for 13 years and came to the University of Chicago in 1910. He reorganized the library and was made professor of the newly organized graduate library school in 1928. In that year he was given leave to go to Rome and reorganize the Vatican library.

ESTATE OF AN OIL MAN $6,750,000; LEAVES NO WILL

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—James Amm, retired oil operator and refiner, who died on March 14, left an estate of $6,750,000 and no will, it became known today when his sister came known today when his sister, tioned Surrogate Foley to grant letters of administration on the estate to her son, Ralph G. Blodgett of Buffalo.

Mrs. Blodgett's petition said the heirs to the estate had consented to the appointment of Mr. Blodgett as administrator and asked that the bond be fixed at $5,000, or twice the amount of the debts of the estate. The surrogate signed an order of publication, notifying the creditors that the application had been received.

The estate is the largest to be distributed under the intestacy laws in this country in more than ten years.

NEW BILL TO FREE FILIPINOS SENT TO ROOSEVELT

Calls for Independence in 10 to 12 Years.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—A new plan by which the Philippines would be granted their independence in from 10 to 12 years was given final congressional approval today and sent to the White House.

The plan, described by Philippine leaders as acceptable to the ilands, was similar in many respects to that which the iland legislature refused last year to accept.

Senate approval of the measure by a vote of 68 to 8 followed rejection of four amendments designed to grant earlier independence and restrict Philippine entry into the free American market after a few years.

Will Give Up Military Rights.

The principal difference between this bill and that which expired Jan. 17 was that the new one provides for abandonment by the United States after independence of her military reservations in the ilands.

The United States, however, will retain her naval reservations and fueling stations, pending a conference within two years following independence.

Just before passage Senator Tydings [Dem., Md.] read to the senate a letter from President Quezon of the Philippine senate. The latter indorsed the new measure and expressed hope it would be promptly enacted.

Quezon is Satisfied.

"Allow me to say,' Quezon wrote, "that our main objection to the Hawes-Cutting law was in regard to the military and naval reservations that the United States, at the discretion of the President, could retain after independence shall have been granted."

Quezon said there were other provisions of the bill to which the Filipino people objected but that "we are willing to take it as it is now."

A congressional commission will go to the ilands this fall to investigate Philippine objections to the economic provisions of the law. These require a ten-year transition period of government.

PROMPT ACCEPTANCE SEEN.

MANILA, P. I., March 23.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Prompt acceptance of the second congressional proffer of Philippine independence was generally expected here today by political leaders after news was received that the Tydings-McDuffie bill was on its way to President Roosevelt's desk.

AUTO COLLISION FATAL TO GIRL; 2 DRIVERS HELD

4 Other Victims Die; 1934 Toll Now 277.

Mrs. Betty Surman, 19 years old, 2012 Raymond street, was fatally injured last night in a collision of two automobiles at Taylor street and Ashland avenue.

She was riding in a west bound car driven by Charles De Marco, 30, of 1015 Newberry avenue, when it was struck by a south bound machine operated by Elmer Knutson, 22, of 1738 Congress street. De Marco's car was spun around and hurled against a light pole. Mrs. Surman was thrown to the street. She died later in the county hospital. De Marco asserted the traffic lights were in his favor at the time of the accident. He and Knutson were held by the west park police.

A large sedan, traveling at an estimated speed of 70 miles an hour, struck and killed an unidentified man at Elston avenue and Logan boulevard last night and then sped away. Cards in the victim's pockets indicated he was Harold C. Rogers, 35 years old, 5002 West Madison street, a CWA foreman.

These deaths and three others boosted the 1934 motor toll in Cook county to 277. The other victims:

Mrs. Elizabeth Durst, 57 years old, 525 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park. Killed last night at Madison street and Scoville avenue, Oak Park, by a Yellow cab driven by Isadore Simon, 30, of 142 South 18th avenue, Maywood.

Sidney Grodsky, 14 years old, 3346 Crystal street. Killed yesterday when caught between the truck on which he was hitching a ride and a street car at Western and Austin avenues.

Mrs. Phyllis Howe, 34 years old, 1580 Washburne avenue. Died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries incurred Wednesday when she was struck by a hit and run car at Roosevelt road and Ashland avenue.

FREE CAPONE KIN ON BOND PENDING NEW TRIAL PLEA

Frank Diamond, a relative of Al Capone, was at liberty on bond of $3,500 yesterday pending a hearing April 4 on his motion for a new trial following his conviction Wednesday on a charge of vagrancy. Diamond was fined $100 and sentenced to six months in the Bridewell by Judge Jay A. Schiller.

"It was one of the most difficult cases I have ever heard," Judge Schiller said. "Here was a man who undoubtedly handled hundreds of thousands of dollars in legitimate business enterprises. Yet seven policemen, including Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, testified to his hoodlum reputation as a known associate of the Capones."

Testimony showed Diamond at present is head of a tire concern on Jackson boulevard. As head of the Diamond Construction company, witnesses said, he erected buildings valued at $500,000. The testimony of policemen showed Diamond had a record for arrests dating back 20 years, although he had never been convicted. Among charges on which he had been seized for questioning were those of murder, burglary, and carrying concealed weapons.

"BEST DRESSED WOMAN" VISITS YOUTH IN PRISON

Jean Nash Comforts Son Called Slayer.

New York, March 22.—[Special]—"The most envied woman in the world" visited her sickly son in jail today and wondered whether the United States would succeed in its avowed intention of having him executed. She tried hard not to cry.

Mme. Paul Dubonnet, better known as Jean Nash, or "the best dressed woman in Europe," or "the most extravagant woman in the world," stilled all talk as she swept into the federal detention house on West street. There her 23 year old son, Andrew Donaldson Kirwan, trembling and weeping, is held pending his trial Monday for murder on the high seas.

Kirwan, child of a Southampton society elopement, born when his mother was 16 and his father 18, afflicted with grave nervous disorders since birth, is accused of stabbing to death William Sessoms, middle aged Panama Canal Zone official.

The fatal attack took place in the smoking room of the Dollar liner President Garfield on the night of Feb. 10, 600 miles out of New York.

Sessoms, a former resident of Fayetteville, N. C., had chided the nervous, intoxicated youth—other passengers said—because he was a devout Catholic.

Sessoms was found following the quarrel with a stab wound in his abdomen, made by an antique Italian weapon owned by Kirwan. Sessoms died in Staten Iland hospital. Federal agents arrested Kirwan in a relative's uptown apartment on the federal charge of murder on the high seas.

Mme. Dubonnet arrived here last night with her husband, the millionaire member of a great French distilling family. She wore a $10,000 mink coat over her costly clothes as she went to the federal detention home today.

Kirwan, short, slight and pale, stared at his mother for a moment without speaking.

"Don! My dear," she said, and embraced him.

"Mother!" he said, "I didn't do it, mother. I'm innocent."

Mme. Dubonnet said, "Everything will come out all right."

J. STERRETT DIES; HELPED DEVELOP ACCOUNTANCY

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Joseph Edmund Sterrett, one of the senior partners of the firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., and a former member of the transfer committee under the Dawes plan, died today at his home in his sixty-fourth year.

Mr. Sterrett was one of the early leaders in the development of the modern profession of accountancy in America. Becoming associated with the late John W. Francis in Philadelphia, he entered into partnership with him in 1896, and after the death of Mr. Francis continued the practice until in 1907 he accepted an invitation to join the firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co.

From 1917 to 1919 he served on various tax advisory bodies created by the treasury or by congress. Later he served for a time in Paris with the reparations commission, returning to the treasury on the tax simplification board created by the revenue act of 1921. From 1924 to 1927 he was in Berlin as the American member of the transfer committee under the Dawes plan and as deputy for the agent-general. On his resignation he was made a commander of the Legion of Honor, of the Order of Leopold [Belgium], and was also decorated by the German government.

Switchman Injured in Train Accident Dies of Pneumonia

George Smith, 48 years old, 9401 Burnside avenue, father of seven children, died last night in the Illinois Central hospital of pneumonia which set in following an operation for injuries suffered in a freightyard accident. Smith, a switchman for the Illinois Central road, was caught between two cars in the Markham yards on Feb. 24 and his hand was crushed. The hand was amputated and pneumonia later developed.

H.E.Rowbottom, Evansville, Ex-Congressman, Is Dead

Evansville, Ind., March 22.—[Special.]—Harry Emmerson Rowbottom, 49, former Republican congressman from the old first district and a member of the state legislature from 1919 to 1923, died at his home here today of heart disease and diabetes. He left a widow and one son. He was defeated for congress in 1930 by John W. Boehne, Democrat, now in congress.

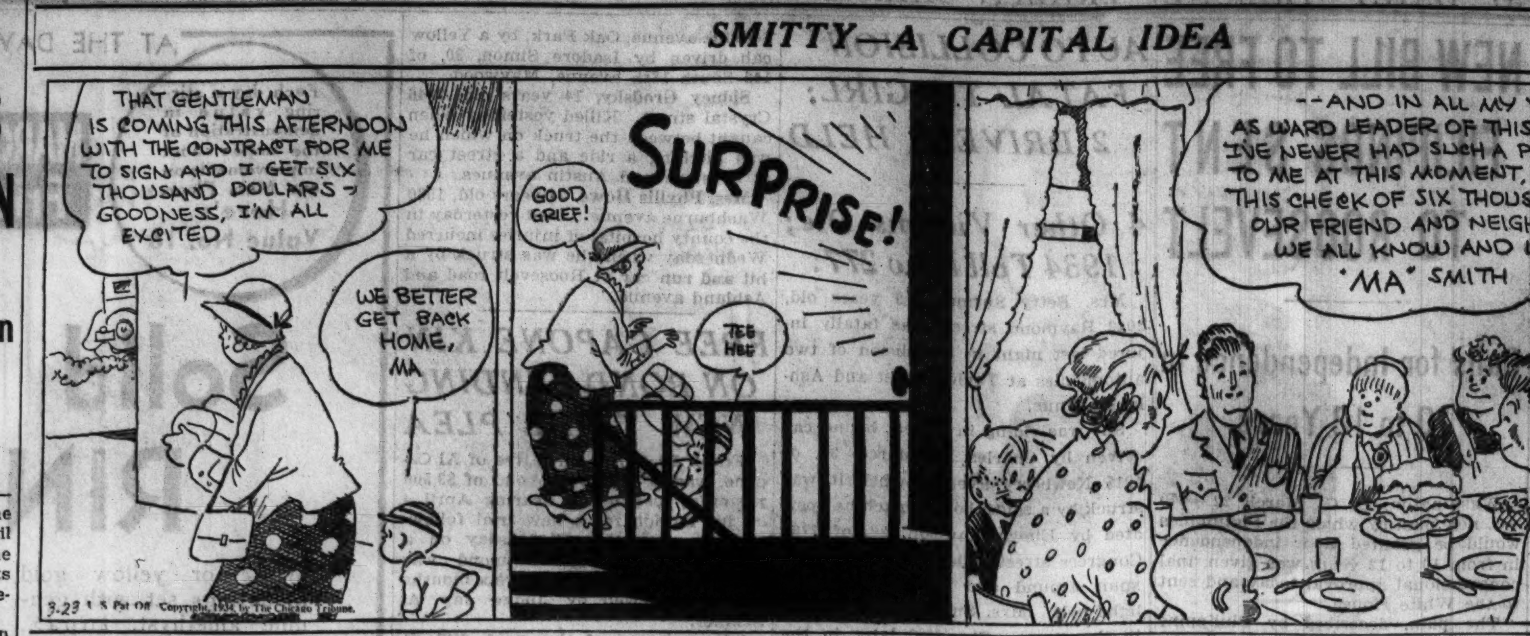
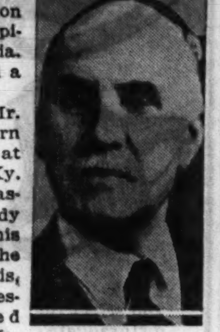
SMITTY—A CAPITAL IDEA



3-23 U S Pat Off Copyright, 1934, by The Chicago Tribune.

REV. J. B. ROGERS, PASTOR HERE FOR 20 YEARS, IS DEAD

The Rev. Joseph B. Rogers, 66 years old, for the last 20 years pastor of La Salle Avenue Baptist church, died yesterday in the Washington Boulevard hospital of pneumonia. He had been ill a short time.



THE REV. J. B. ROGERS.

The Rev. Mr. Rogers was born Sept. 6, 1867, at Cromwell, Ky. After filling pastorates at Slady Creek, near his birthplace, he came to Illinois, where he successively served churches at Moweaqua, Springfield, and Quincy.

He was called on July 14, 1914, to La Salle Avenue Baptist church, which at that time was attended by some of the city's leading families. But shifts in population caused a change in the character of the congregation, which induced Dr. Rogers to develop constructive schemes in the housing of downtown workers. This resulted in the erection of a hostel at 1219 North La Salle street, which was built in memory of his son, killed in the world war. Eleven missions were started by him.

Funeral services will be held in the church this afternoon at 4 o'clock with the Rev. Melbourne P. Boynton, pastor of Woodlawn Baptist church, officiating.

Dr. Rogers is survived by his wife, Algene; a son, Alexander, and two daughters, Catherine and Ruth.

The will of Henry W. Wales, member of the law firm of Miller, Gorham, Wales & Adams, leaving an estate of $32,000 to his widow, Mrs. Mabelle Wales, 480 Sheridan road, was admitted to probate and filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Mr. Wales died suddenly March 2. He was 57 years old. Five other wills were admitted to probate and filed with the clerk. The wills are those of:

EMIL ARTHUR FECHTER, died March 10. Estate, $6,500, to widow and daughter. Bertha Emma Fechter, widow, executrix.

SARAH LUDLOW, died Dec. 25, 1933. Estate $21,250, to son and three daughters. Franklin J. Ludlow, son, executor.

GARRETT T. SEELY, died Jan. 25. Estate $8,000, to widow and two daughters. Grace Morrow Seely, widow, executrix.

ALBERT W. MIELKE, died Feb. 7. Estate $7,500, to two daughters and three grandsons. Louise M. Full, daughter, executrix.

ANNA MISEK, died April 22, 1932. Estate $12,000, to four daughters and granddaughter. Frank Minarik, executor.

The will of Joseph R. Julin, 2512 Deere Park drive west, Highland park, late secretary of the First National bank, was admitted to probate in the Lake county Probate court at Waukegan yesterday. Mr. Julin died suddenly March 12. The will disposes of personal property valued at $10,000, and makes the widow, Adele, beneficiary and executrix.

FRANZ SCHREKER, COMPOSER, DIES IN BERLIN AT 55

BERLIN, March 22.—(AP)—Franz Schreker, one of the best known modernist German composers, died late last night at the age of 55. He had been ill for several months following a paralytic stroke.

Few contemporary composers have been the targets of greater criticisms on the one hand and enthusiastic demonstrations on the other than Schreker, who radically departed from the Wagnerian tradition in the opera and from the classicists in chorus, instrumental and orchestra music.

His last opera, "The Smithy of Ghent," produced in Berlin in 1932 was rejected by the public and the press. He resigned soon after from the Prussian Academy of Arts. He was born in Monaco and spent his youth in Vienna, where he studied music.

Willard H. Stewart Dies; Funeral Service Monday

Willard H. Stewart, who for the last fifty years was associated with the Union Stockyards and Transit company, died suddenly of a stroke yesterday in his home at 7637 Phillips avenue. The funeral will be held Monday from the residence to St. Bride's church, and burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Mr. Stewart is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

J. M. FITZGERALD, EX-COUNTY BOARD MEMBER, IS DEAD

Joseph M. Fitzgerald, 55 years old, former county commissioner and a candidate for that office on the Democratic ticket in the coming April 10 primary, died suddenly in his home at 4837 South Union avenue yesterday. A heart attack was the cause of death.

Mr. Fitzgerald served as a county commissioner from 1910 to 1924 and for eight years was Democratic ward committeeman of the old Thirtieth ward, now the Fourteenth. He had been a live stock broker, president of Fitzgerald & Co.

He is survived by his widow, Gertrude; a daughter, Anna, and son, Raymond. Funeral services will be held at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow at St. Gabriel's church, 45th street and Lowe avenue. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

FRANCE INVOLVES THIRD AMERICAN IN SPY RING CASE

Police Find One of Gang's "Nests" in Paris.

PARIS, March 22.—(AP)—The devious trail of an international spy ring led to the United States again today when police began to trace activities of an American woman whose identity they did not establish.

Authorities were inclined to believe she played a minor rôle, if at all, and told Investigating Magistrate Andre Benon they had not decided whether she would be sought for questioning in connection with what they called a trafic in American, British and French military secrets.

A belief that she had been implicated by two young Americans held with 14 others in connection with the espionage syndicate was neither confirmed nor denied in police circles.

Blames Interest in Communism.

The American couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of New Jersey and New York, were said by authorities to have made a full confession of their part in the spy ring.

Judge Benon indicated the belief today that Switz's interest in communism was responsible for his "getting involved in the spy gang."

The magistrate quoted the American as saying what he was doing was for "the welfare of humanity."

Meanwhile, the search for further evidence to supplement a mass of documents seized in two major raids last December and this week continued, and police found a "spies' nest" with secret panels, false furniture drawers, and closets with fake bottoms in the apartment of Mme. Baila Englart, a fugitive Bessarabian woman.

How Switz Entered Ring.

She is sought in connection with the developing and printing of secret code films which Switz confessed mailing to Switzerland for an acquaintance. The woman apparently fled as police were about to arrest her.

It was learned that Switz, 29 year old aviator, student, and salesman, told Benon he first started his connection with the syndicate through meeting a Russian at Roosevelt field, a Long Iland airport. The Russian, he said, wanted to learn acrobatic flying.

He took several lessons and became well acquainted with Switz, who finally consented to go to England, Judge Benon was informed by the prisoner.

Benon was told further that Mrs. Switz, the former Marjorie Tilley of New York, a Vassar graduate, showed others how to photograph documents.

German Girl Spy Gets Longer Term.

METZ, France, March 22.—(AP)—A longer prison term than that to which she was sentenced originally today faces the beautiful Fraulein Sophie Drotz of Germany—famous as "La Belle Sophie"—because she appealed from her sentence on spy charges.

Besides upholding the sentences against "La Belle Sophie" and the five men involved with her the Court of Appeals increased her term last night to four years on an espionage charge and three for complicity in stealing a new French model machine gun. The original sentences aggregated three years.

CONVICTEDBYU.S., BUT STILL WORKS AS CWA DRIVER

Civil works administration lawyers yesterday were considering the case of Walter W. McKeown, former contractor who was convicted of income tax frauds in a federal court a week ago and sentenced to four months in the county jail. At the trial McKeown was revealed as a CWD truck driver, and yesterday he was still at work driving his own truck for a city department of public works project. The lawyers reported that they had not determined whether McKeown should be allowed to remain on the federal payroll after his conviction but added that they had discovered no regulations which would bar him.

McKeown was convicted of failure to report an income in excess of $103,000 for 1927 and 1928, years when he was employed by the sanitary district. At the trial it was disclosed that he was employed for 24 hours a week driving his 2 ton truck. He gets a wage of $1.75 an hour. Yesterday CWA officials said that McKeown was employed on Feb. 13. He won a stay of execution of his sentence in the federal courts until March 31, when the CWA is abolished, and from indications yesterday he will be able to work until that time.

HOUSE OF LORDS PASSES BILL TO NATIONALIZE OIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 22.—The government in a surprise move tonight announced the introduction in parliament of a bill giving the state complete control over the production of all oil discovered in Great Britain. A half hour later the bill was presented to the house of lords by the earl of Munster and was passed on first reading.

The reason for the speedy action, it is understood, is that an American syndicate recently inquired into the possibility of finding oil in the Midlands. No further oil boring licenses, it was announced, will be issued until the new legislation is passed by parliament. Tonight's action was described as a safeguard against an "oil rush," such as was witnessed in the United States.

According to one report tonight, a potential oil field of untold possibilities has been discovered by government experts on the track of the oil belt which scientists believe stretches from southwest of the river Humber across the Pennine chain to the shores of Cardigan bay. The experts are said to have struck oil near Castleton, in Derby.

Estimates for British Dole Drop $40,000,000 for 1934

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 22.—Improved British trade conditions are reflected in the reduced estimates for unemployment relief for 1934. The total amount estimated today is slightly more than $730,000,000, which is $40,000,000 less than last year's figure.

MANY SEEK AID AS U.S. CONSULATE OPENS IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, March 22.—(AP)—Scores of claimants to present or former American citizenship crowded the new American consulate general here today. The persons applying for aid in determining their exact status presented the consulate with its first major problem, and Vice Consul Elbridge Durbrow, a passport expert with long service in Warsaw and Bucharest, was assigned to handle the cases.

Doors of the consulate were opened officially for the first time today. Consul General George Hanson has not yet arrived from Harbin and Angus I. Ward, senior consul, is in temporary charge of the office.

Upwards of 200 cases of persons who want to return to the United States but have either let their passports lapse or have lost their means of identification of citizenship have been presented in recent days while the consulate was unofficially open. Persons have been applying for hearings at the consulate at the rate of a dozen a day, and scores have been turned away because of the lack of complete office equipment to handle such matters.

Irving Bitz, Aid in Lindy Kidnap Hunt, Sentenced

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Irving Bitz, racketeer convicted last week of jumping bail—the first conviction of the kind ever obtained in the country—was sentenced today to serve from three to six years in Sing Sing. Bitz and Salvatore Spitale were Col. Lindbergh's "underworld negotiators" at the time Lindbergh's baby was kidnaped.

SLAIN WOMAN'S EX-MATE TELLS VARYING STORIES

Du Quoin, Ill., March 22.—(AP)—Conflicting testimony as to when he last saw his divorced wife, Mrs. Leatha Greathouse, 38, was given tonight at a coroner's inquest by Earl Greathouse, 30 year old baker.

Mrs. Greathouse's body was found in a shallow grave near her home here yesterday. A post mortem revealed she had died from numerous stab wounds.

Greathouse testified tonight that he last saw his ex-wife on Jan. 6, when he left for Carbon Hill, Ala., to visit a sister and seek employment.

Under cross-examination by State's Attorney Michael K. Grabowski of Perry county Greathouse said he saw Mrs. Greathouse in an automobile here on Jan. 31,

A TRUE STORY
By A MOTHER
whose druggist friend told her what to do for her family

"I HAVE two healthy boys," writes Mrs. Edith C. Davidson, of 2712 Virgihia Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri. "They have been raised in a way advised by a druggist friend of mine seven years ago. I think they are an example of what regular hours and clean systems can do for youngsters.

"This condition was not always true, however, or we would probably never have learned our tremendously valuable lesson. The older boy had trouble from birth with colds, lack of appetite, and extreme constipation. I certainly was terribly worried about him!

"Then one night a druggist friend told us about a mild corrective—Nujol. That was the start of a health campaign which has since included our whole family and many of our friends, and it certainly has done wonders for us. We just don't have doctor bills!

"We feel that the use of Nujol is a real economy. By carefully following directions we find that such things as colds and minor disorders which undermine health and cause endless little bills are practically eliminated. In their place we have robust health, cheerful faces, and hearty appetites. And that means a lot in a family, I can tell you!

"One very important thing that I have discovered about Nujol is that it doesn't form any habit. People who get to rely on laxatives have to take more and more to get the necessary effect, and certainly this isn't good for anybody.

"As long as we have a pantry shelf the Nujol bottle will be on it!"

Nothing we could add to Mrs. Davidson's letter would make it any more convincing. Follow her example. See what Nujol will do for you—bring your children up on it and make them regular as clockwork. Get it at any drug store, now in two forms, plain Nujol and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

A kindergarten in Her basement

What clean, automatic gas heat has done for Mrs. J. M. West, 213 W. 15th Place, Chicago Heights

Mrs. West's basement kindergarten room is spic and span—thanks to gas heat. "And gas heat keeps the house right at the temperature we want it, night and day," says Mrs. West.

"You can't imagine what a difference it makes," says Mrs. West, "to get rid of all that basement muss—soot, dust and dirty ashes. Now it's just as clean as a pin all through the house."

RELIABILITY SCORES THROUGH 83 YEARS

Gas service in Chicago began on September 4, 1850. Since then use of gas has grown many times faster than the city itself.

Only about one home in five used gas then; now practically every home has it and uses more of it. The little 4-mile system of mains has become a 3,727-mile system. The total gas output that year was less than the one-hour consumption now between five and six o'clock every evening.

Constant effort to make the service better and cheaper has done this—given Chicago and the Chicago area a gas service unexcelled anywhere.

And so dependable that without a thought you count on its unfailing reliability.

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER!

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

LOOK into the basement of a typical gas-heated home—see what happens when soot, dirt, and furnace mess have been eliminated! Like Mrs. West's, thousands of Chicago homes now have clean basement playrooms, workrooms, game rooms—due to gas heat.

Imagine your own basement rid of the coal bin—rid of dirty ash buckets and furnace muss. Perhaps a game room, a play room, where the children are out of the way. Now that gas-heating rates are so low, it is pure folly to delay any longer. Think of it—gas heating rates are now only half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season.

You invest nothing to try

And you can try gas heat without investing one cent! We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our own expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. The charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanship order. But if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act now!

Don't delay! You will never regret accepting this liberal offer on gas heat. Call your local gas company for full information.

Dorothy Trude Is Engaged to William Sills

Wedding Will Take Place on June 20.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERY year we are reminded forcibly of how true are those lines written by Tennyson that "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," for we have at least one engagement to announce almost every day at this time of year and sometimes we have more. The young men didn't all wait for spring, either, to have those "thoughts of love" this year, for a great many engagements have been announced recently and spring did not start officially until Wednesday and hasn't started yet, if one judges by the weather.

This morning we are announcing the engagement of two popular and attractive young south siders, both members of well known families, Miss Dorothy Trude and William Henry Sills. Miss Trude, who attended the University High school and the University of Chicago for two years, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Trude of Hyde Park boulevard, and Mr. Sills is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Sills of Kimbark avenue.

The wedding, to take place on June 20 at St. Paul's church, will culminate a romance started when they were in the sixth grade. Mr. Sills will receive his degree at the University of Chicago shortly before he is married, for he will be graduated on June 12. He and his fiancée and his father and mother are leaving today to spend his spring vacation in Palm Beach.

Miss Dahn Engaged to Howard B. Wolff.

From Minneapolis comes news of an engagement of interest to Chicagoans because the young man lived here until about a year and a half ago and because his mother and sister still live here. It is that of Miss Elinore Elizabeth Dahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dahn of Minneapolis, to Howard Bowes Wolff, son of Mrs. Frederick H. Wolff of Chicago.

Miss Dahn attended the University of Minnesota and Mr. Wolff went to Northwestern university after preparing at the Boys' Latin school and Lawrenceville. He is bringing his fiancée to Chicago the week after Easter for a visit with his mother and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Meyers.

The wedding is planned for June. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers and Mrs. Wolff are giving up their town apartment and moving on May 1 to Lake Forest, where they have taken the Robert G. Meads' house for two years. The Meads, by the way, are very much up in the air over what they are going to do this spring, for the house into which they expected to move before May 1 burned Wednesday night.

Costume Parties of Dancing Classes.

The girls and boys of teen age who have been attending Bournique's dancing class on Friday evenings all winter will be getting into fancy dress tonight to attend the closing party of the season, always a gay and colorful occasion and a very important one in the lives of the young people of society. At 8 o'clock the Pierrots and Pierrettes and knights and Guineveres and all the other characters of history and fiction that will be represented will assemble at 1134 Dearborn parkway and at 10 the music will stop and home the young dancers will go.

The Lake Forest juniors who have been taught by Alvar L. Bournique this winter will have their costume party tomorrow night at the Winter club. The younger children, who meet in the afternoon, had their closing parties earlier in the week.

Due to a misunderstanding on the part of the young woman who handles the press notices for the Junior league, we said yesterday that the league members would have luncheon on April 17 at the Historical society before their tour of the museum. Instead it's to be tea for Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, the chairman of the arts and interstate committee of the league, says "We can't possibly give our guests luncheon for a quarter, but we can give them a mighty nice tea."

Another bit of misinformation listed in this column yesterday was that Miss Miriam Hamilton would be wed to Spencer R. Keare tomorrow. The wedding will not take place until a week from tomorrow. The attractive daughter of Isaac Miller Hamilton and the son of the Charles R. Keares of Chester, Pa., will repeat their vows at 4 o'clock in Mr. Hamilton's apartment at 3500 Sheridan road in the presence of relatives and intimate friends, and a larger reception will follow.

Meanwhile the prospective bride and groom are being entertained at many

Blouse Styles Accent Spirit of New Suits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Energetic blouse designers certainly have been on the job this spring and in close huddles with the suit makers, for never have there been such soul satisfying collections of airy feminine as well as trim tailored models.

Blouses with plenty of interest, sleeves that fit—not the old fashioned flat affairs that had to be taken apart and reassembled to fit properly but enchanting new numbers that will add considerable spring stimulation to any sort of a suit.

Fringe fanciers can indulge in flattering jabots of the material fringed down the front of the blouse. . . . You'll find fringed organdy, fringed silk, fringed linen; anything and everything that can be fringed is here.

Striped swisses and organdies are knockouts. Somehow or other they do manage the bit more swank that mere printed designs cannot achieve. . . . There are some delectable dots, widely spaced on white backgrounds, that are as crisply spring as anything unpacked.

Any of your blouse problems can be worked out with the newest arrivals—sleek linen in white and colors for tweeds and street wear; flattering fragile filmy blouses, with short or long sleeves, dripping with narrow lace and boasting all kinds of exquisite handwork, for dress parade suits; crisp, perky checks, and plaids in gingham, broadcloth, and seersucker to use as alternates for the severely simple linen numbers; all kinds of white beauties, made with lots of imagination and artistry, that can go any place with almost any kind of suit.

Handmade things are every stitch a miracle of brevity—the kind you discover perhaps once in a season. Polo blouses of thin washable materials are made exactly like a polo shirt, with a snug cinched-in belt.

And last, but not the least, come some mouth watering concoctions of incredibly soft, fuzzy Angora wool, to wear with dashing new spring tweeds. These are more than decorative. They are knitted with insets of contrasting color around the neckline and shoulders and are the best looking yarn blouses you can find.

The annual Northwestern university style show was held yesterday in Patten gymnasium on the Evanston campus. Varsity clothes were modeled by fifteen co-eds and a dozen men students before a critical audience of nearly 1,000 other undergraduates and north shore residents. School and sports clothes and evening garb, all for spring wear, were displayed.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's sad but true that nine times out of ten the feminine nail beneath its gleaming coat of polish is no beauty bargain. It's too brittle both for appearance and for comfort.

The reason for this increasing brittleness of our nails isn't too easy to determine. A physical condition might often account for it; in other instances the fault lies somewhere between polishes and removers. This has been proved on several occasions when women whose nails became unbearably ridged and brittle gave up polishes and, automatically, their removers, for a period of a couple of weeks. The unattractive and uncomfortable condition was usually relieved if not entirely eliminated. Some women we know solved the problem somewhat by using polish only for special occasions, removing it as soon as the ball was over.

We've been waiting weeks for a much heralded oily polish remover to be distributed in our Chicago stores. You'll find it almost everywhere today and—take our word for it—it's a great help. It removes polish thoroughly if not as quickly as the other type of remover does, oiling as it removes. And it's this oiling that nails need if they're to be polished all the time with no sacrifice of nail health to beauty.

Not new, but also around the stores, is a special cream for brittle nails that you should look into. It comes in a tiny tin container and has no other purpose than to serve as a lubricant for brittle, oil starved finger nails. It's remarkably effective.

Both the new liquid remover and the cream naturally oil the cuticle as they are used. While cuticle oiling isn't their sole virtue you can't deny that it's an additional help.

School Children Will Collect Books to Aid Public Library Drive

Chicago school children will join the Chicago public library campaign for book donations tomorrow in an effort to push the total of volumes donated toward a 50,000 goal, Carl B. Roden, librarian, announced yesterday. The campaign is scheduled to end tomorrow night, but book donations will be sought after that date.

Mr. Roden estimated the number of books received at well over 10,000 and urged that campaign efforts be redoubled during the final days.

"The school children will make a house to house canvass which will, I believe, bring in thousands of books," Mr. Roden said.

Exercises Help to Remove Ugly Bulge at Waist

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There are any number of women who wouldn't have a silhouette complaint were it not for a bulge right above the waist band in front. A middle aged complaint is this, as a rule, but by no means confined to the middle aged. You see it on women of 30 and less. And it does play havoc with an otherwise good silhouette.

The correct kind of corseting helps to flatten down the diaphragm, but if you desire not to have to rely on corseting, you must do exercises for this inflated part of the anatomy. The profile view is so oldish.

The way one stands will minimize this bulge or exaggerate it. You can try out the truth of this statement for yourself, before a mirror. Stand with chest up and abdomen pulled in, and there is a flattening of the diaphraghm, too. But not enough, as a rule.

A good exercise, one that has worked marvels on an acquaintance in a month's time, is that of lying on the floor, raise the buttocks off floor and return to floor. It gives a pull on the muscles of the diaphragm, and hardens it against an early return of the puffy fat.

Another good exercise is that of lying on the floor face down, with hands up off floor and legs off floor. Rock on the abdomen. This is no easy exercise, I warn you, but it does shoo that fat off the middle better than anything I know.

Carleton Washburne Holds Sex Education Essential in Schools

Carleton Washburne, superintendent of the Winnetka schools, told 500 women attending an institute on sex hygiene in the Stevens hotel yesterday that instruction in sex is an essential part of school teaching. The institute was sponsored by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mr. Washburne said that in his opinion the fifth grade would not be too early in the school curriculum to begin sex education. In Winnetka schools, he said, beginning the subject in the seventh grade has been successful, and coöperation has been received on the part of parents.

Donald Peattie Adds to Fame in Third Novel

"The Bright Lexicon" Deserves Your Attention.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Bright Lexicon," by Donald Culross Peattie. [Putnams.]

Donald Culross Peattie, son of the former literary editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Elia W. Peattie, and the well known editorial writer, Robert Burns Peattie, again brings glory to an illustrious name with his third novel, "The Bright Lexicon," which is published today.

"The Bright Lexicon" is the kind of novel that one really can't talk about fairly before it is read. To say that it is the story of a boy prodigy is enough to send many readers hastily off in the other direction. To hint that there is something symbolic in that boy prodigy of modern man is merely to offer a racing car for the swifter transportation of those hurtling themselves away.

In almost every case such flight would be justified. In the case of "The Bright Lexicon" readers who thus scuttle to the covers of other books, affrighted by the idea of "The Bright Lexicon," will be denying themselves intense and certain pleasure. For, whatever the theme of the novel, it is primarily a richly human and fascinating narrative.

The hero, the Wunderkind, is a boy of four when the book opens at the death of his mother from smallpox and his flight with the Hungarian peasant, Mina, who feels sorrow for his orphaned state. Mina cannot read the papers in her search for work as a scrubwoman, but the boy even at four can.

Mina and Kyril wander over post-war Europe, the boy in his passion for knowledge picking up an infinitude of facts from high and low in the hours while Mina is away scrubbing for their bread and a roof. He learns four languages, becomes a chess wonder [and haven't the newspapers been full of such a lad?]. Tragedy, adventure, the passionate search for more and more knowledge fill his days.

Finally he is restored to his father's people, who are wealthy Russian émigrés on the Riviera. Kyril achieves an international fame while still a boy . . . he is fêted wherever he goes, he rules his family like a young czarevitch. But somehow life is stale to him. What finally becomes of him is Mr. Peattie's to tell you, not mine.

To make such a character real, human, understandable, lovable, amusing, is a task which is no slight one for any writer. I assure you, however, that in Donald Peattie's skilled hands the boy is a real human being, though not an ordinary one, as the whole bizarre group which foster him is real, though uncommon.

One of the characters in "The Bright Lexicon," Ouvarov, a great Russian novelist of the old régime, "suddenly saw that Kyril's story might be seen as man's own. The story in particular of modern man, of western civilization. The white man might make Bantus and Negritos look like children, but they were normal children, playing with their blowpipes and their tomtoms, and their cruelties were happy and innocent. But this other child, this enfant terrible with his arrogant, overgrown brain, and his colossal belief in his own destiny took their toys away from them and said that the world was his. Where was he leading them all, and where was he going himself."

In that one paragraph is hinted a possible allegory in "The Bright Lexicon" but, being an artist, Donald Peattie let it go at that.

Mr. Peattie and his wife, Louise Redfield Peattie, who is also a novelist, have recently returned to the ancestral acres, "The Grove," near Chicago, after spending the last few years in southern France.

Joins Skeet Shooters at Onwentsia

Mrs. Merrill Hubbard is one of Lake Forest's hardy sportswomen who doesn't let cold weather interfere with her outdoor activities. Noted as one of the riders with the Onwentsia hunt she recently has added skeet shooting to her list of accomplishments and she often joins the skeeters at the Onwentsia field on Sunday to shoot at the flying targets.

Milstein Gets an Ovation at Stock Program

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Nathan Milstein's ovation as violin soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra was an unusual one, even for him. He played the Dvorak Concerto and the audience refused to go home. Applause went on for some seven or eight minutes without sign of cessation or even diminishing.

So Mr. Milstein settled matters by coming back and playing an unaccompanied encore and then some of the many who remained inside sent word to the few outside that it was Bach's Chaconne. In all probability the number of violinists who have given encores at the symphony concerts in the last decade could be counted on the fingers of one hand.

But that is the kind of artist that Mr. Milstein is. By his force, his brilliancy, the personality that he puts into his peformances, he is able to make the Dvorak Concerto sound considerably better than it is, and that is no small task.

There were really three soloists on the program. Just before the intermission the orchestra played Richard Strauss' "Don Quixote," a work calling for several extended solos for the cello and a lesser demonstration for the viola, and here Daniel Saidenberg and Clarence Evans, not to speak of the rest of the orchestra, put some extra glamor on the Strauss music.

It was an interesting evening all around, for Conductor Stock gave the first Chicago performance of Dohnanyi's "Ruralia Hungaria," a set of attractive pieces founded on Hungarian folk music, and he revived Schreker's "Prelude to a Drama" after a silence of about a dozen years.

Irma Burns, lyric soprano, has been added as a soloist for the programs of the Chicago Concert band, conducted by Victor Grabel, at Orchestra hall tonight and tomorrow afternoon. She was a member of the Chicago Operetta company at the Civic Opera house last year and has made many appearances in concert and on the radio. She will sing twice in each of the programs.

Conductor Grabel also sends word of a new composition, "Jugo-Slavian," by Frank Vognar, a musician for twelve years the first flutist of the Royal Symphony orchestra of Belgrade, Serbia, and now a resident of Chicago.

Margery Maxwell, soprano; Janet Fairbank, soprano, and Will Blallock, baritone, will present a program tonight in the Gold room of the Congress hotel for the benefit of Beulah Home and Maternity hospital.

DICK TRACY—A Revelation?

KITCHENETTEER ENLIGHTENS US ABOUT METHODS

She Has Found Simple Management.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Whee! No work for me this day! For, instead of mixing up a column for folks today I'm letting one of you estimable ladies do the work! I wish I could tell you who she is, for she'd be a jolly person to know, seems to me. But, since she didn't sign her name, I'll have to introduce her to you simply as "The Kitchenette Cook." This letter which she has written us while it doesn't, of course, completely cover the subject, I think is good, and it's all the more fun since it gives us a glimpse behind the scenes and tips as to what at least one money saving business woman who likes good food is doing about the job of kitchenette cookery. Maybe you won't agree with her on all points, but it would be a dull world if we all felt the same about food. So let's go.

"Dear Miss Meade: I've often thought that the kitchenette clan deserves a 'break' in a column such as you so pleasantly conduct, because, for one reason or another, the clan has increased of late years. And, as one obviously can't 'kitchenette' too elaborately, this writer begs your indulgence for a few remarks on the matter.

"To begin with, breakfast offers the least difficulty to the kitchenette cook. It's important to have all things clean and put away when one starts to work. I like white bread, although I feel I should eat whole wheat, too. So I vary the meal by sometimes having whole wheat cereal cooked in the double boiler. One such preparation lasts for two or three days, being reheated as needed. [Incidentally, whole wheat so cooked makes a grand dinner loaf when added to hamburger.] Otherwise my breakfast consists of orange or banana, bread or toast, coffee, cream, and a fried egg and bacon, or a boiled egg. Cereal alternates with bread.

"Dinner a la kitchenette presents a different problem. One is tired after work and wants something easily and quickly prepared. I put butter in a small iron frying pan and put in two red potatoes washed and diced with their skins on. These fry better than the Idahos. This method saves the valuable minerals under the skin, and gives them a different look from ordinary browned potatoes. Or one could boil a week's supply, skin them, and fry as needed each evening.

"The potatoes are cooked in ten minutes, dished out into a soup plate which I keep hot over the frying pan, and the meat goes into the skillet with a little more fat. While this cooks I prepare a salad dish. I like tomatoes, so I scoop out the pulp of one, mix it with a stick of smoked herring, diced, add pepper and cocktail sauce, and return it to the tomato shell. If more vegetables are wished open a can of peas, beans, spinach, or what have you. As for the meat, I buy beef tenderloin, which isn't as extravagant as it sounds. I buy four or five tenderloins, remembering some hungry friend who may drop in on Sunday, and these last me until Friday, one an evening. If there's a chance of the meat spoiling I sear it a trifle. Fridays, eating fish and not liking the smell, I eat out. Next week I vary the tenderloin with wiener schnitzel. Veal is good when partly cooked, allowed to stand, then prepared with a dip into egg and cracker crumbs before frying. Diced steaks or lamb or mutton chops are inexpensive and good.

"Of course, the main objection to the above is that it contains much fried stuff. This is true, but fresh vegetables and the fruits contrast with this fairly well, and make a well-balanced meal. Week-ends one can fuss more, or go out for dinner.

"Sometimes I invest in mushrooms. Mushrooms and beef tenderloin—yum-yum! I never wash the pan after such frying, but put it aside until breakfast, add butter, and fry an egg in it—a dish with a rare flavor!

"As for coffee, one has too little time at breakfast to fuss much with washing dishes. Excellent coffee may be made in a skillet. A tablespoon to a cup of water. Let it come to a boil and turn low until you pour it into the cup. You can wash the skillet in a jiffy and by this method the coffee grounds stay in the bottom where they belong.

"Packaged pancake and biscuit flours give good results. A package of raisins on the shelf give a welcome change in raisin muffins now and then.

"In the winter I use no ice, but keep foods inside of the window on the sill and keep the window open the merest trifle. The window is not littered, as I have a small bread box for butter, milk, or cream, with the meat in a covered dish. The coldness is enough—sometimes I've kept a bottle of cream sweet for four days, boiling it the fourth to be sure it wouldn't sour.

"It seems to me that cabbage, onions and broccoli do not lend themselves to kitchenette stoves. The scent is fragrant but too lasting. If you like cabbage, slice it raw for slaw, dice the onions raw for salad, and forget about the broccoli. Onion flavor comes in onion salt in the shaker, and is good.

"Really to save money in kitchenette cooking buy a week's supply at a time, and be thorough. This sort of kitchenette living is economical and helps me carry along a family of five relatives who are not working without asking help from outside. We have kept healthy and have not lost weight, and in many ways it's been lots of fun. There is always something for those who have dropped in and who are less fortunate even than we are. HOI POLLOI."

GRANDMOTHER, 74, TAKES FIRST FLYING LESSON

Mrs. Peter Holland, the "flying grandmother," yesterday took her first flying instruction from Pilot Harold Alpert at the Blue Bird Air service, 5214 West 63d street. As the weather was too rough for a flight the pilot gave Mrs. Holland ground instruction.

Mrs. Holland, who is 74 years old and lives at 5214 West 63d street, flew to Germany last summer as a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin. On her return she announced that she intended to learn to fly a plane. She began her lessons yesterday over the protests of her two daughters. She was taken to the airport by Irene Behnke, president and founder of the Woman's National and International Aeronautical associations, Inc.

Escallop of Leftovers

2 cups cooked flaked fish.
2 cups cooked diced potatoes.
1 cup cooked diced celery.
1 green pepper, chopped.
2 cups American cheese.
1½ cups cream sauce.
Salt and pepper.
Fresh tomato.
Green pepper.

Combine fish with vegetables. Add 1½ cups cheese, the cream sauce, and seasonings to taste. Place in a casserole, sprinkle with remaining cheese, and decorate the top with ⅛ sections of tomato and strips of green pepper, radiating to the center. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit].

LET APRICOT JAM REPLENISH THAT BARE CUPBOARD

Two more glasses of apple jelly, a pint of plum butter—and little else, if your March jelly cupboard is like most. Here's a winter jam recipe to help replace depleted stores.

Apricot Jam.

1 pound dried apricots
2 No. 2 cans crushed pinapple
1½ pounds sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Wash the apricots. Soak them overnight in the juice drained from the canned pineapple. In the morning chop the apricots. Combine with pineapple, the juice, sugar, and salt. Heat slowly. Cook about 25 minutes, stirring often. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

MARY MEADE BOOKLET GIVES 21 EGG RECIPES

Now Is the Time for Them.

Let's have eggs! Some one has called them the natural spring tonic. But even more appealing than their "tonic quality," or their excellence as a source of vitamins and minerals, is their good spring flavor. For foods are at their best when they are in season, and springtime is the egg season, which means that the year's finest eggs come on the market at the lowest prices.

Twenty-one delightful new recipes for preparing eggs are in Mary Meade's booklet, "Let's Have Eggs." WARM MILK ONLY BEVERAGE WHICH PRODUCES SLEEP

In a recent study of the sleep habits of 28 healthy children it was found that the drinking of warm milk before retiring induces quiet sleep. The eating of a large amount of food at the evening meal resulted in marked restlessness, a condition which in many cases lasted throughout the night.

The giving of baths either warm or cold on retiring seemed to have no effect either in producing or in interfering with sleep. The children showed a definite tendency to sleep more quietly in cold weather than hot.

Research has shown that the onset of sleep is due to complete muscular relaxation, voluntary, or involuntary. The sleep habits of the 28 children, ranging in age from nine to 14 years, were studied over a period of a year. The sleep laboratory was located miles from a railroad or a public thoroughfare so that noises were reduced to a minimum. Conditions were standardized by providing the children with identical beds, springs, pillows, and bed clothing. The electrically recording hypnograph, attached to the springs of the bed, recorded the slightest movement made by the occupant during the night.

Observations on these children show that no two persons have the same sleep pattern. After a few nights of observation one can be rated as a quiet or a restless sleeper. The normal sleep patterns for this group of children were first established. Then different beverages, water, cold and warm, warm milk, orangeade, a cold drink containing caffeine were given to the children before retiring, one at a time for five successive nights. Of the various beverages fed, milk was the only one which had a significantly quieting effect upon sleep.

BARGAIN VARIETY OF VEGETABLES SHOWN IN SHOPS

Green Stuffs Attractive; Fruits Low Priced.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Week-end food shoppers cannot avoid noticing that the array of fresh vegetables from the southern and western farms is abundant and reasonably priced in Chicago's food stores. The appearance of the vegetables seems to persuade one into serving a meal that is in keeping with the first days of spring.

For instance, a few stores will be found displaying the first shipment of sweet corn—the roasting ears that have come from Florida weeks before the local crop is even planted. Other out-of-season foods that are economically priced include asparagus, green peas, string beans, strawberry rhubarb that is especially cheap and of fine quality, green southern cabbage, broad leafed spinach, head lettuce, carrots, cauliflower and broccoli.

Variety of Fruit Bargains.

The fruit counters also provide some attractive bargains in grape fruit, the seedless varieties being in sufficient abundance now to make them low priced. Florida's valencia and California's naval oranges also are sweet and juicy at this season. Lemons seem to be meeting an appreciative demand for drinks and seafood dishes.

In the meat markets the poultry prices have taken an upward turn of late, the advance amounting to as much as 5 to 7 cents a pound for stewing and roasting chickens in the last month. Ham and bacon prices have gone up slightly in the last fortnight—while lamb and veal cuts appear more attractively priced than a month ago. Beef and fish prices remain largely unchanged.

There is a distinct air of the Easter season in most shops, as is seen in the displays of eggs and dyes for them, bunnies or chicks of candy and whatnot—while fancy pastries and cookies are added to the seasonal food arrangements. Egg prices are still quite low for this season of the year, although prices have advanced a cent or two a dozen in the last week.

Coffee and Tea Low Priced.

Some unusual bargains in coffee and teas are being offered by many grocers and food stores this week-end. There seems to be considerable stimulus of late to the consumption of coffee and cream, with the prices on both about as low as they have been, quality considered, in many months. Some increase in the use of milk also is reported since the delivered retail price was dropped to 9 cents a quart.

The person who goes marketing these days will find it worth while to look at the labels when buying such staple items as canned foods, wrapped breadstuffs, spices, condiments and even cereals, flour and sugar. Each label bears, even though too often in fine print, the exact contents under the state and federal food and drugs laws. In soups, for instance, the contents shown should be noted in detail, as some are condensed while others are ready to heat and serve without adding liquids.

NRA ORDERS PAY ALLOWANCES IN ALL FOOD PRICES

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—The NRA today ordered that retail food prices contain a 6 per cent and wholesale prices a 2 per cent allowance for "actual wages of labor."

It was explained that this does not mean a corresponding increase in prices, but simply allocates the share of costs chargeable to labor.

The action was taken by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, in fixing the allowance for wholesale and retail food prices, which, under the code, must not be below cost.

Since the food code went into effect there had been no regulation of labor costs, though the code prohibits sale below cost including labor.

The markup, Johnson ordered, will be based on the invoice or replacement cost, whichever is lower, after deduction of all legitimate trade discounts, exclusive of cash discounts.

FUDGE FROSTING! HERE IS HOW YOU MAKE IT

What's your favorite kind of frosting? Most people like chocolate fudge frosting, youngsters of high school age in particular, according to the results of a questionnaire circulated in a large cafeteria. Here's an almost fool-proof recipe for fudge frosting: In a deep saucepan put 2 cups sugar, 2 one-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate, 2 tablespoons corn sirup, and 2-3 cup milk. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved and chocolate is melted. Bring to boil and cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water. Remove from burner and add 2 tablespoons butter. Let stand until cool to touch, then add a teaspoon vanilla, and beat until thick enough to spread.

HERE ARE NEW, TASTY RECIPES FOR USING CHEESE

They're Good, Practical and Inexpensive.

More than one housewife has offered to trade places with her husband and let him keep house "if you think it's so simple!"

"And," continues the wife, "after you've had steak every day for two weeks, then what?"

"More steak," grins the well fed male.

But housewives who have planned at least 365 evening meals know the importance of having well balanced meals that vary daily. And there's the rub—what to have that the well fed husband and growing children will eat, find nourishing, and like. Something good, practical, inexpensive, and different.

Why not cheese? There are many exciting new ways to prepare cheese, and endless old ways. Success, as some one aptly put it, depends on little tricks for making ordinary things taste extraordinary.

Here are some tempting recipes that come up to every requirement of the most fastidious housewife—they're good, practical, inexpensive, different. One of the favorites for use in these dishes is the popular packaged cheese which spreads and melts as easily as butter, has perfect cooking qualities, and a delicious flavor.

TUNA FISH AND NOODLES AU GRATIN.

1 package egg noodles
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
1 small can tuna fish
1 small can mushrooms
½ pound American cheese
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Blanch with cold water. Melt butter and add flour. Add the milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until the sauce thickens. Remove from burner and add cheese cut in small pieces. Stir until melted.

Put noodles in buttered baking dish. Add seasoning, flaked tuna fish, and sliced mushrooms. Pour the sauce over all and mix thoroughly. Dot with cheese and bake in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] until the top is golden brown.

CHEESE VEGETABLE RING.

1 cup canned tomato soup
½ pound American cheese
½ cup cold water
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1½ cups hot water
1½ cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped green pepper
1½ dozen stuffed olives, sliced

Heat soup. Remove from range and stir in cheese until melted. Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Add to hot water, soup, and cheese mixture. Allow to cool. Add vegetables and pour into a ring mold. Chill in refrigerator until set. Serve on a bed of shredded lettuce with a bowl of mayonnaise in the center and potato chips around the ring.

CHEESE AND SAUSAGE FRITTERS.

1 cup flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
¼ pound American cheese
1 egg
6 pork sausages

Sift dry ingredients together. Heat half the milk to the boiling point, remove from the burner, and add the cheese, stirring until melted. Mix with remainder of the milk and gradually add to the flour along with the beaten egg. Squeeze sausage from casings and form into patties. Dip the patties into the batter and fry on a very hot, well greased griddle, turning when well browned to brown on the other side. Serve while hot.

Sliced Dates in Pieplant Make Real Rhubarb Pie

Pieplant is what our grandmothers called rhubarb and the reason can be easily guessed. A new wrinkle is to add sliced dates to the rhubard pie filling. Another delicacy is made by adding sliced dates to rhubarb conserve.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Sliced carrots added to potatoes before cooking give a new flavor and a golden color. They fit in so nicely

It Your Guests Like Fish Let Them Taste Baked Shad

BY MABEL BRYANT.

From the latter part of March until May, shad holds the spotlight. This de luxe food fish belongs to the herring family and makes its home along the eastern coast from Newfoundland to Florida. Around this time of the year it leaves its salty home and wanders down to the Delaware and Potomac rivers.

Potomac shad, which is the most select, averages from three to five pounds. Ask any epicurean what his choice of fish is and he will say—"Well, next to black bass, shad."

Shad Season Limited.

As the season for shad is limited it is therefore more expensive than other fish. Those who enjoy it should splurge at least once, and have baked shad for company when you are sure your guests have a taste for fish.

Baking is the preferred manner to cook shad. An oven proof glass platter is the best to use, and the fish should be sent to the table in the same dish. When shad is baked the head and tail are left on.

Select a three to five pound shad. Have it properly cleaned. Wipe inside of the fish with cloth and rub in a little salt. Stuff with the following: One-half loaf of stale bread moistened with hot water or stock. A cup of hot stock used for moistening makes a stuffing "different."

Add half teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of chopped chives or one of minced onion, one teaspoon minced parsley and a little of minced green pepper if desired, and two tablespoons o. melted butter. Mix well and add one well beaten egg.

May Take Hour to Bake.

Lay fish on dish it is to be baked in, dredge with a little flour, season with pepper and salt. Bake in hot oven for ten minutes, then reduce heat and baste with a mixture of butter and hot water every fifteen minutes. It will take from forty minutes to one hour to bake.

Shad roe is in season longer than the shad, but is not in fine condition until about March, and sometimes a little later. Here is a tasty way of cooking the roe.

Rinse a pair of shad roe in cold water, being sure not to break the skin. Butter a glass baking dish, and in it set the roe. Cut half a green pepper in shreds, then cooking it in one tablespoon of butter five minutes, stirring well; add a slice of onion, chopped fine, and one tablespoon of flour. When flour is blended add cup of tomato, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon chopped parsley, and stir until boiling; let simmer five minutes, then pour over the shad; cover and let cook in the oven 15 minutes. Serve at once.

BEE SWARMS PACKAGED AND SOLD BY POUND

No, a package of bees isn't a new name for packaged honey. It is simply a small swarm of bees taken from a hive and placed in a specially built shipping cage for transportation to a buyer. Two, three, or five pounds of bees to go into one package. Since there are about 5,000 bees in one pound, the three-pound package has proved most popular with those who wish to build up a colony of bees.

A total of 156 shippers of package bees can be found in the belt of states from the Carolinas to California. Last year Alabama alone shipped more than 30,000 packages containing about 90,000 pounds of bees to points outside the state. Most of these shipments were sent to northern states.

SEE 10 PCT. RISE IN CANNING PEA ACREAGE IN 1934

Reports from 136 representative pea canners giving the acreage of peas intended for canning or manufacture in 1934 indicate that there is a trend toward an increase of nearly 10 per cent over the acreage planted in 1933.

The 136 firms reporting this intended acreage grew or contracted about one-half of the total acreage of green peas for manufacture in 1933.

URGES HIGHWAY CARRY NAME OF ANN RUTLEDGE

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—The linking of Ann Rutledge's name with the portion of the state's highway system connecting Springfield with the New Salem state park was advocated today by Representative Josephine Per [Rep., Chicago]. She introduced a resolution to that affect in the house. It will be considered next week.

Abraham Lincoln lived in New Salem during the 1830's, where, to quote the resolution, "as soldier, surveyor, postmaster, student, and legislator, he prepared himself for destiny's duties."

The road affected, should the resolution pass both houses, would be all of route 1, that part of route 24 located between 124 and 43-A, all of route 43-A and that part of route 123 located between Petersburg and the New Salem state park, where the old village has been partially restored. Ann Rutledge is buried two miles away in Petersburg.

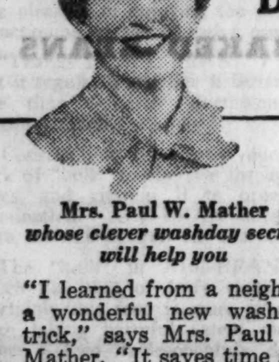
Boston Woman Tells Washday Secret



Mrs. Paul W. Mather
whose clever washday secret will help you
"I learned from a neighbor a wonderful new washday trick," says Mrs. Paul W. Mather. "It saves time and work, gives me a nicer looking wash. Here it is.
"I use my regular laundry soap, my regular washing method, then just add two tablespoons or so of Lux. This gives me much richer suds, speeds up the washing, leaves the clothes so bright and new looking."
Do try this new secret—housewives everywhere praise it. Lux gives such wonderful suds, even 2 tablespoons or so make a world of difference in a washtub!
NOTE: Use only Lux—no other soap—for silks, woolens, rayons. Delicate fabrics should never be exposed to harsh alkali or cake-soap rubbing.

WOMAN URGES OTHERS TO AVOID DIETARY FADS

Asks Caution in Reducing or Gaining Weight.

The best diet for any purpose is never the fad diet, but the standard diet, says Mrs. Ruth Bennett White of the New York State College of Home Economics.

She points out that the standard diet may be modified in quantity for the thin person who wants to gain, for the fat person who wants to lose, or for the sick person who wants to get well. It always furnishes the food elements needed for good health.

Illustrate with Animals.

The vegetarian diet, according to Mrs. White, is the oldest and perhaps the commonest. Those who favor it declare that the human digestive tract is unlike that of meat-eating animals which are said to be nervous, stupid, and short-lived. Vegetarian animals, on the other hand, like the elephant, the cow, and the rhinoceros, are reputed to be long-lived, strong, and placid.

Both vegetables and fruits are important parts of the diet, Mrs. White says. "A skilled person can keep in good health on a vegetarian diet properly balanced with other protein foods such as milk, eggs, nuts, and cheese. But for the ordinary person, unless such a diet is prescribed by his physician for treatment of some disease, the diet is not worth the trouble it takes to plan and obtain it. A daily meat is the easiest way to obtain protein for good health."

Opposes Reducing Diet.

A much publicized diet is responsible for many nervous breakdowns among women who want to reduce, states Mrs. White. This diet consists largely of grapefruit and dry toast with a little fruit and meat to make up about 500 to 800 calories a day instead of the 2,000 to 3,000 which most people ordinarily eat. The diet, she says, which is urged for an eighteen day period, results in a loss of four or five pounds a week, which is too much if health is to be maintained. The body becomes weak, the muscles flabby, and wrinkles appear. In addition, this diet has not enough protein, calcium, phosphorus, iron, and vitamin A.

Urges Another Way.

The right way to diet to lose weight, according to Mrs. White, is to cut down the calories to not more than 1,400 a day. To do this, she recommends elimination of such foods as heavy, rich deserts, and fats with the exception of butter. She urges that the same general balance of the standard diet be kept.

A reducing diet that hints of faddishness should be compared with the standard, which is, daily: one pint of milk for adults, one egg, two servings of vegetables—and of these a leaf vegetable—in addition to potato, two servings of fruit, one citrus or tomato, one serving of lean meat, butter, whole grain cereal.

If the diet departs noticeably from this standard, it is certainly just another fad diet, and not a satisfactory substitute for meals that will help to give the desired weight but still maintain good health, according to Mrs. White.

FAMILY EATS WAY TO DARY FOOD RECORD

Wisconsin Group Hails Advertising Vale.

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., M h 22.—[Special.]—Four hundred e cent greater than the national pe apita consumption of cheese and v 100 per cent more than the per ca t consumption of butter is the re d of R. R. Steenbeck, Wood count rmer and his family.

Each member of the family d 40 pounds of butter and 20 po s of cheese a year according to reo s of a local creamery company wi the national per capita average fo tter consumption is less than 18 nds and the average per capita co mption of cheese is about four a ne-half pounds.

An alarming shortage of dair ods ucts would soon be felt should per capita consumption increase t ny-where near the record of the en-beck family, states Charles L. I of the department of agricultur nd markets group of the Wisconsin dry campaign.

Mr. Steenbeck reports that no rt was made to establish a record for consumption of dairy products, but that cheese and butter were used normally and without wastage.

It is believed by officials that similar figures are undoubtedly available nearly everywhere in Wisconsin, and that accordingly, the low per capita consumption of dairy products can be boosted throughout the nation by campaigns such as that being launched at present in this state.

ILLINOIS STARTS PAVING WAY FOR NEW DAIRY PLAN

Regional Parleys to Open Over U. S. April 2.

Urbana, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Preliminary plans for getting the government's newly launched dairy adjustment program under way in Illinois were being formulated by officials of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, today following the receipt of a telegram by Dean Herbert W. Mumford giving the official details of the proposed plan.

The regional conferences at which the program will be presented to dairymen for discussion, acceptance or modification will be started April 2, and officials of the college were awaiting further word as to the date and place of the conference for the Illinois area.

Illinois' Interest Great.

Illinois' stake in the program is a large one, for this state is the fifth ranking one in total milk production, and dairying brings in more than 25 per cent of all the cash income of Illinois farmers, it was pointed out by officials of the college. During the last four years the average annual cash income from the sale of dairy products off Illinois farms has been almost 71 million dollars, but during the last year or two this income has dropped to as low as 50 million dollars, a condition which the proposed program will be designed to correct.

The aim would be to hold production to about the level of recent months, the telegram to Dean Mumford announced. Coöperating dairymen would be asked to reduce their sales by from 10 to 20 per cent below their quota for 1932 and 1933, but the method by which they would make this reduction would be left to the individual farmers.

U. S. to Pay Benefits.

In addition to the higher prices that might be expected to result from the adjustment production, benefit payments are to be paid to coöperating producers at the rate of about 40 cents for each pound of butter fat, or about $1.50 for each surplus 100 pounds of fluid milk that the cooperator reduces.

The program is to be financed by a processing tax starting at one cent a pound on butter fat and advancing to five cents a pound as supply comes under control. The plan is a $165,000,000 one providing for extension to $300,000,000 in event of congressional adoption of pending legislation. Additional features of the program include the relief distribution of surplus milk to underfed children and the transfer of cows from surplus areas to needy farm families. There is also a provision for disease eradication measures.

APPLE GINGERBREAD COBBLER! IT CAN BE PREPARED IN ADVANCE

Here's a dessert which may be prepared in advance for the evening meal:

APPLE GINGERBREAD COBBLER.

1 egg.
¾ cup sugar.
½ cup sour milk.
¼ cup molasses.
1 cup flour.
¼ teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon soda.
½ teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon nutmeg.
½ teaspoon ginger.
¼ teaspoon cinnamon.
1½ tablespoons butter.
4 apples.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Wash, core, pare, and slice the apples. Mix one-half cup of sugar with the apples and place in a buttered baking dish or in individual baking dishes or muffin pans. Sprinkle with lemon juice and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes while the batter is mixed.

Beat the egg, add the remainder of the sugar, the sour milk and molasses. Mix and sift the dry materials, and stir into the liquid ingredients; add the melted butter, mix well and pour the mixture over the hot apples and replace in the oven. Bake for thirty minutes at 350 degrees Fahrenheit or until the cake shrinks from the edges of pan. Serve with vanilla or lemon sauce.

Household Hints

To fresten stale nuts, soak them in a mixture of milk and water for several hours. Then dry thoroughly in a slow oven.

Two Northwestern Co-eds Pay Fines for Speeding

Two girls, Northwestern university students, arrested Wednesday for driving faster than traffic laws permitted, were fined yesterday by Municipal Judge James M. Corcoran of Evanston. Miss Elizabeth Quinlan, 211 Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette, charged with going 42 miles an hour, was ordered to pay $3. Miss Marjorie McFarland, 1502 Davis street, Evanston, was fined $1. Her alleged speed was 38 miles an hour. The Evanston limit is 35 miles.

Variety, lady, variety! That's what makes your good providing a continuing success. Get away from beef and lamb and veal now and then, and serve a welcome, exciting surprise. See the family perk up, sniff, munch, and pass back for more, when you serve them Heinz Oven-Baked Beans.

For baked-bean-munching is an ancient American pastime and Heinz Baked Beans are the good old-fashioned kind.

Listen!

We buy "choice hand-picked" beans. We cull them closely, under strong lights, so that every bean used may be perfect. Then we soak them many hours in clear cold water.

Then we bake them. Bake them the old Colonial way, thoroughly, in hot, dry ovens. Baking makes them munchy, and mealy. Baking makes them more digestible and so more healthful. Baking enables us to replace the original bean-moisture with rich, savory sauce, which means you get good eating through and through. Baking is, in fact, the only way to make beans a glorious, exciting dish. So we bake them.

Take a few pennies to your Grocer for Heinz Oven-Baked Beans. Take a few minutes to heat them. And give your family a happy change from the eternal meat-routine . . . But, lady, please remember that Chicagoans Take Cruise to Bermuda.

Miss Margaret McLennan did not accompany her family on their trip to Bermuda, for they sailed just a few days after her engagement to John B. Morse was announced, and since he is at home from Yale for his spring vacation what could be more natural than that she should change her plans and decide to remain in Lake Forest instead of going to Bermuda to enjoy the Easter lilies?

Her mother, Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, Miss Katherine McLennan, and Noyes McLennan have gone on the Queen of Bermuda, and among other Chicagoans on the same cruise are Mr. and Mrs. S. Louis Reinhardt, Mrs. Ralph H. Hobart, and Miss Barbara Hobart, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hobart and John Hobart, Mrs. J. S. Winslow and Miss Winslow, and Miss Anne Babcock.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw had hoped to sail for Bermuda on Wednesday, too, but business prevented and they have had to postpone their trip until later in the spring. Mrs. Shaw told us yesterday that her cousin, Mrs. Patrick C. Hill of Fort Worth, was going east in April, but that her present plans did not call for a visit to Chicago at that time.

Interesting Items About Travelers.

Miss Nancy Bastien, the subdebutante daughter of the Alvin E. Bastiens, returned home yesterday for her spring vacation from Dobbs Ferry. Her mother and sister, Miss Barbara Bastien, are in Arizona.

When Nancy returns east Mr. Bastien will accompany her because he is sailing for a European holiday on April 4. He will divide a month between London and Paris and return to New York around May 4, shortly after Mrs. Bastien and Miss Bastien will arrive there on their way home from California, for they are sailing through the Panama canal. Nancy will celebrate a birthday in the early part of May and the family will have a little party together in New York.

The junior Caleb H. Canbys of Barrington will be at home tomorrow after a cruise through the Mediterranean and a visit in Europe. Young Caleb III. accompanied them.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris is at home from a cruise through the Mediterranean that she made with Mr. Harris. She reports wonderful weather and a marvelous time.

Mrs. John L. Cochran has gone to California to visit her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Murray P. Brush. She will be away about three weeks.

The Henry C. Bartholomays are at home from California.

Mrs. Arthur Cutten Will Return Soon.

Mrs. Arthur W. Cutten is expected at home from California by the end of next week.

Mrs. Henry Hooper has had bad luck with her vacation plans this winter, for first she planned to go to Phoenix, but one thing and then another interfered until it was too late in the season. Now she is planning to leave next Tuesday with Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson, but they aren't certain yet which will be their destination, the Richardsons' Rose Cottage at Gaylord, Va., or Bermuda, where the William M. Scudders have a house for six weeks.

The Hoopers are giving up the house at 1434 Astor street that they are occupying on May 1 and moving out to Wheaton for the summer.

The Country Club of Evanston is presenting Roland Oliver's comedy, "Fast Workers," at 8:15 tonight under the direction of Dorothy Pickard Platt, with several members of the club in the cast.

ALL-BRAN RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Brought New Health to Mr. Bartholomew

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I got medicine which gave me only temporary relief.

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dishful two or three times a day.

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs.

"Thanks to ALL-BRAN. I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time." — Lester Bartholomew, Cadillac, Mich.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegtables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily will usually overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Balkan Puzzle.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Names of quilts, in many cases, have been derived from local neighborhoods and from foreign lands. "Balkan Puzzle" is a colorful quilt block, appropriately suggestive of such gay, pleasure loving countries as Rumania and Bulgaria.

ENGAGEMENTS

An engagement that is being announced today is that of Miss Dorothea Sue Sillery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Hodge of 366 Garfield street, Gary, Ind., to Laurence H. Bauer, son of Mrs. Gustav T. Bauer of 1357 Madison Park. Miss Sillery attended Northwestern university, and Mr. Bauer is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, class of '22. The wedding will take place April 3 in Mrs. Bauer's apartment, and Mr. Bauer and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

Col. and Mrs. Harry D. Binks of the Carleton, Oak Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Elizabeth, to David White Hall, son of Mrs. David White Hall of 5490 South Shore drive.

Mrs. Clement McMahon of the Sutherland hotel announces the engagement of her daughter, Jane, to Dr. W. E. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lewis of Pueblo, Colo.

Board Pleased with Eli Bates Benefit Plans

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

If there's a sleepyhead among the thirty-two members of the Eli Bates Settlement house board she will be investing in an alarm clock or leaving an early call for every Tuesday and Friday morning during the next three weeks.

In instructions issued yesterday by Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon, the board chairman, every member must report ticket sales for the settlement's annual benefit, a performance by the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe the evening of April 14 in the Auditorium, by 9 o'clock these days at an office to be opened Monday at 210 South Michigan avenue.

"And this is a rule," emphasized Mrs. Dixon yesterday, looking especially smart in a navy blue ensemble with candy striped trimmings. "If you don't obey, well, I haven't decided what the penalty will be."

The board was meeting for tea in the lofty apartment home of Mrs. Dixon's mother, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, at 209 Lake Shore drive. The party [or business meeting] was a perfect foil for the March lion who roared across the Oak street beach below. Shiny straws, gay prints, crisp white bows, and a great bowl of blue and yellow flowers were the very breath of spring.

A shiny black straw that looked like an inverted soup bowl was in chic contrast to the lettuce green silk dress worn by Mrs. Louis Skidmore. Mrs. James L. Houghteling's hat was a more conservative blue straw with blue and green quills. She wore it with an olive green gown.

To judge by the preliminary box and ticket reports made, it scarcely seems necessary for the board to undertake a strenuous sales campaign. "How can any one resist," Mrs. Strawn suggested, "when the benefit is a great spectacle to help one of the city's oldest and most worth while philanthropies?"

More than half of the 54 Auditorium boxes have already been subscribed for, Mrs. Houghteling and Mrs. T. Philip Swift as co-chairmen of the box sale reported.

Mrs. Robert Thorne, Mrs. Elliott Donnelley, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Kelley, and Mrs. Edward M. Bertha, as heads of the program committee, were just as sure of success as the box committee.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

PROCEDURE OF OPENING BIDDER AFTER THREE NO-TRUMP RESPONSE.

In yesterday's article I discussed the necessity of visualizing the responder's holdings after he gives you the strong response three no trumps over your original bid of one in a suit. I intend to dwell a little more on this subject today.

Should you have opened the bidding with an aggressive type of hand comprised of two five card biddable suits, and your partner responds with three no trumps, you must bid the second suit. Supposing you held the following hand and opened with one spade:

Spades—K Q 10 4 3 Diamonds—3 2
Hearts—A J 7 5 2 Clubs—7

Now there are six primary tricks missing, of which your partner should hold four. It is difficult to place all these cards, but you may be sure that if he does not hold the spade ace he will hold the heart king and queen. Should he hold the spade ace he will certainly have the heart king. The rest of his holdings will be clarified in his subsequent bids. There is little chance of losing more than two tricks with this hand, and if two must be lost the probabilities are that you will stop before you reach a slam.

Applying the Brakes.

Although by bidding four hearts over the three no-trump response you are not only accepting but inviting the slam, both of you retain your rights to stop short of it. This is when the bidding development—in other words, the process of eliminating losers—does not cover the gap.

When you have opened the bidding with an aggressive two suited hand which is weak in primary values, be careful when your partner bids a third suit after his three no-trump response. Rebid your second suit, thereby telling your partner that both of your suits contain at least five cards and that you are now bidding for safety and not for a slam. This positively denies any high honor in either off suit, and infers that tricks can be lost in at least one of the suits you have bid. Now the onus of responsibility is entirely on him, and his next bid must incorporate the final decision. Every slam try need not result in a slam bid.

For instance:

North: ♠ K-Q-10-4-3; ♥ A-J-7-5-2; ♦ 3-2; ♣ 7
West: ♠ A-7-2; ♥ 8-4-2; ♦ 10-8-4; ♣ J-6-5-3
East: ♠ 10-3; ♥ 7-6; ♦ Q-J-6-5-2; ♣ A-8-7-4
South: ♠ J-8-5; ♥ K-Q-10; ♦ A-K-9; ♣ K-Q-10-9

North	East	South	West
1 Sp [1]	Pass	3 N. T. [2]	Pass
4 Ht. [3]	Pass	5 Cl. [4]	Pass
5 Ht. [5]	Pass	Pass [6]	Pass

1. An aggressive type of hand. The higher ranking suit is bid first.

2. Very little is needed to produce a slam with this hand, so the slam try is suggested.

3. Bidding the second suit of the hand. The slam try is now accepted.

4. Just a suggestion to find out if partner has the club ace.

5. Positive denial of the club ace. The purely aggressive character of the hand is now established.

6. This is a natural pass. For you to make a slam your partner would have to hold the spades A Q 10 and the heart A J, and then the king of spades would have to be in the right position so that you could take a winning finesse. This is too much to expect because only these specific cards, which are not definitely located by the bidding, could enable a slam contract to be fulfilled.

[Copyright: By Public Ledger, Inc.]

When possible to do so briefly, Mr. Sims will answer specific inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Chicago Will Manufacture Organ for African City

After testing pipe organs all over the world, the city of Pretoria, capital of the Transvaal union, South Africa, has contracted to purchase a $60,000 pipe organ in Chicago, it was announced yesterday by David Kimball, vice president of the W. W. Kimball company. The huge instrument is to be installed in the new city hall of Pretoria, a town of some 74,000 population. The organ, Mr. Kimball said, will take some two or three months to build.

Wellman, Film Producer, Is Married Fourth Time

Hollywood, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—William Wellman, motion picture producer and former American world war aviator, this afternoon was married in Los Vegas, Nev., to Dorothy Coonan, 20 year old film newcomer from Minneapolis, according to wires received here. Wellman's former wives, all actresses and all divorced, were Helene Chadwick, Margery Chapin, ex-Follies girl, and Marjorie Crawford, aviatrix and movie player.

Braille Players Win Applause of Audience

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Braille Theater Guild, unique among the amateur dramatic organizations of Chicago because of the tremendous physical handicap with which its members are faced—total blindness—staged its annual program of one act plays in the Chicago Woman's club theater last night. The performance, which included musical numbers, was received with enthusiasm by its audience, for these afflicted players, by months of patient rehearsal, are able to overcome in large measure the disability that shadows their lives.

The stage of this theater is too small for such a company and I am confident that with more space at their disposal the movements of the players will be freer and less suggestive of their lack of vision. However, they coped with this extra handicap successfully and proved their right to compete against the sighted amateurs of the town. They are especially effective in scenes of light comedy, which they handle with alertness of tempo in dialog.

Their first play, "The Dear Departed," is a sketch of middle class Lancashire life by the late Stanley Houghton.

"The Last Refuge," a humorous fantasy on the Pierrot theme, written by Claude Derbes, was the second. They handled this sketch gayly and won frequent rounds of laughter.

The last and most serious play was "The Undercurrent," by Fay Ehlert, a study of tenement life with a harsh, puritanical father and a wayward daughter as the central characters. This piece is frequently acted by Chicago amateurs, and with Arthur Eich as its terrifying old man the Braille interpretation is as good as any of the others.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Love-lightning may strike on a street car or other public conveyance.

But what can the poor stricken one do about it?

Sid suffered such a stroke one day, recently. While he was standing waiting for his car, the girl came along. The sweetest girl he ever saw. THE GIRL, he is sure. She was wearing a raccoon coat and carried a book, and had a face he'll never forget. They got in the same car. She got a seat next to a woman with a baby and when she smiled at the infant, well, that just put the finishing touches to Sid's flaming heart.

"In these days of street car and subway mashers, I was afraid to do the thing I had hard work controling myself not to do—speak to her," confides Sid, who also tells that he never has been girl-crazy.

Should he not have spoken to the girl, anyway? Taken a chance on getting a friendly response? That's Sid's worry now. He may never have the luck to see the girl again. And then—what?

Suppose you had approached the girl with a word, and she had turned you down flatly, then where would you be, Sid? That's the trouble with attempting the unconventional. Your intentions may be the noblest, your attraction to the girl real.

But conversations, after all, are made for protection, and they're so thoroughly ingrained in respectable souls that it is a question even, with you, Sid, that if you heard of this girl responding to some other man's advances on a street car, you'd probably register her off as a "light" one, now wouldn't you?

The conventions, after all, are a man is honestly struck. You can turn detective and find out about the one who attracts. It has been done. It takes time and perhaps persistent effort.

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. A doctor set the time of Dodo's death around midnight. Helen sends Tommy to break the news to Dodo's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge.

INSTALMENT XI.

A DISAGREEABLE ERRAND.

"Did you hear any one pass through the court before the doors were shut?" Tommy demanded of the concierge.

"No, monsieur, but some one may have done so. For the last three-quarters of an hour we were in the kitchen at the back. I was mending the leg of a table, hammering and so on. My wife was helping me."

"Thanks. That is all I want to know."

The two stared after him as he walked towards the street to scan the quai for a passing taxicab. While he paused in the entrance the woman made a suggestion to her husband, who answered in the tone of one recalling a forgotten duty. "Ah, that! All this excitement has quite put it out of my head. But as I told you before, I ran my torch all over the court last night, and couldn't find it."

"All the same, it must be there. Come along, we'll hunt now."

Together the pair went to the back of the court and began stooping and poking about in the crevices of the flagged pavement. Tommy eyed them with slight curiosity, and almost at once saw the man pounce upon some small object and hold it up with triumphant amazement.

"There, now!" he cried. "If it had been a snake, I should have been bitten. I must have been blind not to see it, lying in full view like that. Well, well! I don't suppose the poor man will trouble to ask for it now, but if he does remember it, why, here it is."

"Pauvre homme" probably referred to Basil Jethro, who apparently had lost something, but before Tommy could speculate on the subject a roving car lurched in his direction. He hailed it, and in another moment was bowling over the north bridge and into the wide Boulevard Sebastapol, which leads to the Rue Berger.

The effect of the drug still weighed upon him, his head throbbed, and with every fiber of his being he shrank from the task imposed upon his good nature.

What if the man he was about to visit could not be expected to experience any great sorrow over the horrifying occurrence? He was certain to become embroiled in detestable publicity, utterly hateful to one of his type. It was impossible not to sympathize with him, but unfortunately that fact did not make the present undertaking any easier to perform.

With an effort Tommy steered his thoughts towards the philosopher's incongruous marriage to Agatha Quarles. The latter, a prominent hostess during her widowhood, had been an impulsive, emotional woman of no intellectual depth, while Jethro, lately sprung to fame, was invariably represented as the embodiment of pristine reason, remote from human passions—a sort of Mount Everest soaring high above his fellow creatures. After all, though, were not the journalists responsible for that picture of him? They had coined a phrase now quoted on every side: The Man Without a Hobby. Reportorial jargon, about as meaningless as most tags. Jethro was a man, not a machine. Most likely he had been attracted by Lady Agatha's warmth and womanly charm. Helen, who had been in a position to know, declared him to have been the ideal husband, patient and devoted under what must have been trying circumstances.

Trying—but hold on! Hadn't there been some talk at the time of the wife's death, something slightly peculiar? To be sure there was! If he hadn't been slow witted he'd have remembered it last night. Drugs—that was it—an unsubstantiated rumor of suicide, or at any rate an overdose of veronal or some other sleeping mixture. All the time Helen was gassing to him he had known in the back of his mind—but the recollection was vague. The incident happened five years ago, when he had been in Russia. However, it was easier now to understand why Helen was in such a mortal funk lest Jethro should find out about his step-daughter's prank. One member of a family was bad enough, but to have a second one tampering with drugs! No wonder Helen dreaded the meeting with the man who had trusted her to keep the headstrong girl out of harm.

The Rue Berger was a far cry from the Rue de la Paix, while the modest, typically French hostelry before which the taxi halted seemed a decided come down for a person accustomed to the luxurious Mirabeau. Tommy was a little surprised that a man, presumably well off—he must be that, for Lady Agatha had been a rich woman—should have selected an hotel as unpretentious as the Stanislas. The place advertised itself instantly as the port of call for respectable provincials of the middle classes. The rooms on the court were probably quiet, but the same would apply to others in more prepossessing quarters. It crossed his mind for a second that just possibly the philosopher might be wanting to economize.

The cramped lobby had a lift on one side, a desk on the other, with glass doors between showing a glimpse of wicker settees and dessicated palms in tubs. The manager, a sleek, sloe-eyed Frenchman, bustled out from a private lair, eyed the visitor's untimely apparel with inquisitiveness, and on hearing Tommy's wish looked dubiously at the clock.

"It is barely eight, monsieur. M. Jethro particularly asked me not to call him before nine. Is the matter an urgent one?"

"Extremely so. I'm afraid I must insist on being shown to his room."

With scarcely veiled curiosity the manager summoned a small chasseur and ordered him to conduct the gentleman up to room eighteen.

"And here, Joseph—while you're about it, you might as well carry monsieur's suit up with you. It has been pressed and brought back. He may be requiring it."

"Not that one," thought Tommy, noticing that the garments draped over his guide's arm were light gray summer flannels, so ancient that he wondered why their owner had bothered to have them pressed at all, especially at this time of the year. The inner pocket of the coat sagged outward so that he could see the tailor's label—Mayhew, Savile Row, London. He marveled briefly over what seemed to him very exclusive, even extravagant tastes. Jethro might be cutting down expense in some ways, but at all events he ordered holiday flannels from the best tailor in Mayfair, and whatever their age sent them, on the verge of a journey, to be put in condition. The circumstance struck him as paradoxical.

The lift crawled upward, hiccoughed at the second floor, and came to a wavering halt. The chasseur marched along a dark passage, turned a corner, and rapped on a door, while Tommy, close behind, blundered over a pair of boots obstructing the path. These articles, he chanced to observe, were black, clumsy toed, and conspicuously new. Resembling countless similar atrocities seen on the feet of sober, undistinguished Frenchmen, they presented a striking contrast to the ones the Englishman had left outside his door—well out, carefully treed, with breeding in every trim line.

The boy rapped again, and this time a cultivated but drowsy voice murmured, "Entrez!" Through the opened door Tommy saw a common, though not exactly sordid, room, darkened by chenille curtains, and in a brass bed the long mound of a recumbent body covered with a green figured quilt. The voice continued in excellent French, "Put the tray on the table—but surely it is not yet nine o'clock?"

"No, monsieur. A gentleman to see you."

"What, at this hour?"

Tommy motioned the chasseur aside and stepping into the room gently closed the door behind him.

Doris Blake Answers

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend is 21 and I am 17. My people think he is fine, but his mother objects to his going around with any girl. Please advise. BROWN EYES."

The boy is old enough for the companionship of girls. A meeting with his mother might give you the chance to impress her favorably.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met 'A.' He 'rushed' me, calling me every day. Then suddenly his interest waned. I have not seen him since. What should I do? BARBARA."

'Twas too violent to last, Barbara. Don't sit at home waiting for the telephone to ring. Chances are you won't hear from him again.

Fond Relative May Be Child's Worst Enemy

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: Will you please send me your leaflet 'When Your Child Brings Home Bad Words?' Any other leaflets you have that will teach me to train my little boy to be less stubborn or less cranky when he does not care to do as he is told will be greatly appreciated.

"He is only 2 years of age and although I try so hard not to be too severe with him by talking to him instead of slapping or whipping him, he knows he is the center of attraction with his grandparents, aunts, and uncles, and insists on having his own way at all times.

"He is lovable and always trying to help me but he can be so naughty. He sometimes hits me or tries to hit me, screams, and lately holds his breath when he is not getting his own way."

When letters like this come in I always feel like immediately forming a class for grandparents, aunts, and uncles, because mother and son are in for a hard time unless they can get the coöperation of the adoring relatives.

I know just what havoc a delectable 2 year old can work with your heart. You can't help feasting your eyes on his sweetness—you can't help hanging on every move he makes, each day doing something new and engaging. But when all this is evident to the small one, it spoils him. And it's not only bad for him but it makes it almost impossible for his mother to manage him.

I shan't need to take up the behavior of this little boy in detail. We have booklets that really cover all his trying little ways—booklets that I wish those uncles and aunts and grandparents would read as well as the mother.

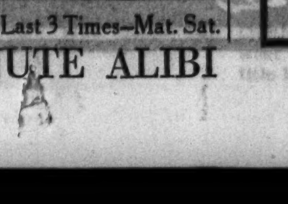
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



Lukas to Star in New Movie of Don Juan

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—While Douglas Fairbanks is preparing to appear in a European film version of Don Juan's romantic adventures, Paul Lukas is launching into an American film about the same historic lover in a Universal story titled "Affairs of a Gentleman." John Barrymore did Don Juan in the silent days and quite memorably.

Here is a list of the ladies who will succumb to Don Lukas' wooing in the film: Leila Hyams, blonde replacing Alice White; Dorothy Burgess, brunette and stormy; Patricia Ellis, youthful and wide eyed; Langorous Lillian Bond; Dorothy Libaire, the recently separated wife of Director Marion Gering, and Sara Haden. Onslow Stevens and Philip Reed play Don Juan Lukas' love rivals and Richard Carle is in the cast for comedy purposes.

Johnny Weissmuller won the Hollywood athletic club golf tourney with an 83. . . . Jean Harlow has a new affectation with evening dress. She wears gardenias on her bracelet. . . . Joan Bennett is back from the hospital with her three weeks old baby, Melinda Markey, and all are healthy and happy in the Markey home. . . . During making of Radio's "Stingaree" with Richard Dix, a rainstorm exterior sequence had to be postponed two days because it rained. In movie showers the rain must strike only the players; it would ruin cameras and costly equipment, so the rain must always be artificial.

When Jimmy Durante started east to keep a personal appearance stage engagement he thought he would please his dad, Bartholomew, lifetime New Yorker, by offering to take him back home, but the senior Durante, sprightly at 82, said he wasn't homesick and preferred to stay in Hollywood. "Send me a picture postcard instead," he told Jimmy.

Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelley constitute Hollywood's only remaining feminine comedy team. They shortly start the seventh of a series of eight fun films for Roach comedy studio. Miss Kelley at present has the featured comedy part with Jean Harlow and Lionel Barrymore in M-G-M's "100 Per Cent Pure."

Film Relief Dinner Dance Will Be Given Tonight

Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly yesterday sent messages to the sponsors of the Film Relief dinner dance expressing hopes that the affair will be successful. The dance is to be held tonight at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club. Entertainers from Chicago's theaters and supper clubs, as well as outstanding orchestras, are offering their services. Proceeds of the affair will go to needy members of Chicago's film industry.

Paris Hats Seek Extremes; Brimmed Models Floppy; Bonnets Microscopic

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris hats go from one extreme to the other this spring. They either have brims that shade the face and plenty of them or they are bonnets and leave the entire face and the front of the hair without covering.

Brimmed hats are displayed at all the style shows. The brims are from three to ten inches wide and are to be worn with daytime clothes. The hat with a rolling brim and a rather deep crown which sets well down on the head is about the most prevalent spring chapeau. Maria Guy makes this hat of rough straw, the kind the sailor of 1900 was made of. The way it looks can be seen at the top. This one is navy blue with a blue and white grosgrain ribbon band.

In the center is Agnes' new bonnet made of gingham checked taffeta silk and having big ties under the chin. There is no crown but two wide crossed bands of the silk partly cover the back of the head.

In the lowest position of our sketch you can see to what depths the hat crowns of spring have fallen. This is made of an old friend among straws—yellow leghorn. The side rolled brim has veltvet leaves appliqued on the right side.

No matter, dear lady, whether you're giving a ball for five hundred or a luncheon for two, there are always faint doubts when it's over. Did they enjoy the party? To make sure they enjoyed it, you want your guests to see you and yours at their best. Best silver. Best dress. Complete this impression by serving the coffee of coffees—Hills Bros. Coffee. Perhaps we can't afford to have the very best in everything. We can in coffee. Hills Bros. Coffee may cost a few cents more than merely good—or ordinary coffees. But Hills Bros. Coffee is actually more economical to use because it has greater abundance of flavor and goes farther than "bargain counter" coffees.

HAWKS LEAD CANADIENS, 3 TO 2, IN PLAYOFFS

JONES SHOOTS 76; PLACES 35TH IN STAR GOLF FIELD

THE GUMPS—NOT SO GOOD

HORTON SMITH CARDS 70 TO TIE FOR LEAD

Bobby's Putter Fails to Function.

The Card

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 22.—[Special.]—Bobby Jones' card today for the first 18 holes of the Masters' Invitational Golf tournament follows:

Par, out	443	545	344—36
Jones, out	443	455	344—36
Par, in	454	343	454—36—72
Jones, in	545	352	556—40—76

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., March 22.—King Bobby Jones, who abdicated his golf throne after the 1930 season, today attempted to mount the dais again and wield his scepter as of yore. King Bobby found a clamorous and troublesome proletariat opposing that effort, shouting for a new deal.

Thus at the end of the first 18 holes of the Masters' invitational tourney at the Augusta National Golf club King Bobby found himself tied for 35th place among the pros of the proletariat with a round of 76. He shot a 36 going out and 40 on the return journey.

Smith Ties for Low.

Low among the field of 72 professional and amateurs who started the 6,700 yard journey were Horton Smith of the Oak Park Country club, Emmet French of Southern Pines, and Jimmy Hines of Timber Point, N. Y., with 70s. One notch higher were Henry Picard of Charleston, S. C.; Johnny Golden of Noroton, Conn.; Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., and the veteran Walter Hagen.

Jones found his putting touch lacking, just as it had been lacking for his last two days of practice. Failure of his replica of his putter, "Calamity Jane," original of which is now in the trophy room of the club at St. Andrews, to function, and lack of finesse in pitching shots accounted for Bobby's total. Off the tees Jones was hitting as far as he ever did.

Just a Little Rusty.

Those of all-around sporting bent were inclined to liken Jones' predicament to what in pugilism is known as being "ring rusty," as was Jim Jeffries against Jack Johnson and as was Jack Dempsey against Gene Tunney in their first engagement. This was no lack of confidence, no lack of effort—but that fractional timing and automatic perfection simply were not on the job.

Jones had 35 putts, which is too many in a field of this class. He sank only one long effort. He had three putt greens on the 14th and 17th holes, and the equivalent of a three putt green on his disastrous final hole, where he took a 6.

Drive Exceeds 300 Yards.

Perhaps that final hole will give readers the best idea of what was happening to Jones, who looked all right, acted all right, but simply was not getting the count. With a strong following wind and down hill roll, Jones' drive was well over 300 yards of the 420 yard distance.

Guarding the green are such traps that a pitch is called for. The flag was in a difficult spot on an undulating surface. Jones' pitch, played strongly for safety, was too far, partly because of the wind. Next he attempted to pitch to the edge of the grass, then roll gently out toward the hole, but the ball did not quite reach the edge. His fourth shot caught the slope and went past the cup four feet. Bobby missed that put and holed his second effort for a 6.

Tough Field to Overtake.

Six strokes behind the leaders is not an insurmountable handicap in a tourney of 72 holes. Should Jones repeat his practice round of 65 or even his 67 over the course which he helped design for the club of which he is president, it would place him again among the leaders. Six strokes, however, are a lot of strokes among players of this caliber. Pros were wagering even money tonight that the former master will not finish in the first twenty, 4 to 1 he will not finish one-two-three.

Paul Runyan, advance favorite among the pros, was paired with Jones in today's play. This young fellow, who learned his golf as a caddy at Hot Springs and has been a consistent winner on the winter circuit, also had trouble with his putter.

Runyan had two three putt greens and a total of 74. On several holes he was just off the green and his short pitches really were approach putts. Runyan called his game six strokes too high on the greens. Like Jones, he weakened on the second nine, adding 39 to a 35, one stroke below Bobby on each nine.

Course in Great Condition.

This National golf links is in wonderful condition for its second year. It is rolling in type, with nothing exactly like it in the Chicago district. It suggests Barrington in places; also the hill course at French Lick without the extreme declivities of several spots at French Lick. It appears to be a course on which it should be possible to record low totals and probably is, according to the low practice

OFF FOR SOME SERIOUS FIGHTING

GOLDEN GLOVES TEAM ON WAY TO NEW YORK BOUTS

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., March 22.—If you were aboard this special New York Central train which is speeding Chicago's Golden Gloves team on toward New York tonight, the first thing you would want to know is, "Who's that fellow over there in the corner of the observation car so intent upon counting noses?"

The answer is:

"It's Johnny Behr of the Illinois Athletic club, coach of Chicago's Golden Glovers."

They're All on Hand.

He acts for all the world like a mother hen hovering over her chicks.

Right now he's a trifle worried for fear he has left one of those chicks on the depot platform here, for the Golden Gloves boys were out for a brisk ten minutes of walking and jogging. It was their first exercise since they boarded the train at the La Salle Street station in Chicago five hours before.

Porters Reherse Cheers.

"What's all that noise and harmony up there in the dining car?"

It's the Dining Car Waiters and Pullman Porters' Royal Rooters society rehersing some cheers and old varsity songs which they will cut loose in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

That's the night when Otis Thomas, our mighty south side heavyweight, Fred Tyus, our shifty welterweight and Aaron Wade, the Joe Gans of our ightweights—all Negro boys—sail into action.

These same Negro boys were given a rousing sendoff at the La Salle Street station by a delegation from the Savoy Athletic club and by Henry Wilson and another party of south siders who gathered there to cheer and wish them Godspeed.

By this time everybody in the party is getting pretty well acquainted.

Everybody knows that if big Otis

St. Philip Beats Columbia in Loyola Tourney, 51-25

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The St. Philip's High school band, which has been furnishing handsome music for the eleventh national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament at Loyola university gymnasium, nearly came a cropper in the midst of a dandy tune yesterday afternoon. The discord in their tooting and drumming was occasioned by their own team, champion of the Chicago Catholic High School league, which at the moment was dangerously near setting a tournament scoring record.

The excitement subsided, however, when the St. Philip's forwards, who had piled up a lead of 51 to 25, to be within five points of a new record against Columbia academy of Dubuque, Ia., missed a half dozen comparatively simple shots in the closing two minutes, and the final score remained 51 to 25.

St. Philip Leads at Half, 32-8.

The Chicago champions' game with the Iowans was a marathon business, with both dashing up and down the length of the floor for shots of every description. St. Philip's demonstrating superior accuracy. At the half the west siders were in front by 32 to 8, an advantage which they increased to 42 to 18 at the end of the third quarter.

They were very nearly outscored in the second half, accumulating 19 points to Columbia's 17. The brothers Howlett featured in the St. Philip assault, Pat scoring seven baskets and Roland five and one free throw. Coleman was high scorer for the losers with five field goals and a free throw.

St. Francis Team Popular.

The crowd adopted the Mission team of St. Francis, S. D., as its favorites almost from the time it appeared on the floor and the boys, a majority of them full blooded Sioux Indians, repaid them with a hair raising 28 to 26 victory over St. Mary's of Niagara Falls, N. Y., in the first of the evening games.

At the quarter, it appeared the New Yorkers would be too much, taking an 11 to 3 lead, but the Indians began a stirring rampage which brought the score to 14 to 14 at the half.

In the third quarter St. Francis went ahead, 19 to 14, but St. Mary's fought back and the score stood 20 to 18 at the end of the period. Saunders tied it for St. Mary's at the opening of the last quarter, Quick Bear sank another, and Winger of the Niagara team tied it again. Doyle put St. Mary's ahead, but Flammond, Packard, Prue, and Quick Bear came through again, to give the Indians a two point edge at the final gun.

THORNTON, LANE AND MARSHALL WIN IN TOURNEY

City Champions Forced Into 3 Overtimes.

Champaign, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Thornton's slashing 42 to 21 victory over Streator tonight climaxed the opening round of the state high school basketball tournament and gave the Chicago district three teams in the quarter-finals tomorrow. Joining Thornton in the next round were Lane Tech, Chicago champion, which won from Springfield in three overtime periods, 13 to 11, and Marshall, a member of the Chicago league, which overwhelmed Champaign, 37 to 17.

A crowd of 6,500 packed the University of Illinois gymnasium and set a record for the state finals. Hundreds were turned away and stood shivering in a snowstorm, still hoping to gain entrance. Several hundred adjourned to the ice rink to listen to the broadcast of the games. Together with the crowds at the two earlier sessions of the tournament today, the total attendance was 12,600.

Lane Draws Thornton.

In addition to the three Chicago district teams, Charleston, Quincy, Moline, Urbana, and Equality survived today's program of eight games. One of the Chicago district teams will be eliminated tomorrow, for Lane and Thornton are paired in the windup contest in the evening.

The greatest surprise perhaps was the failure of Streator to challenge Thornton, 1933 state champion. Urbana's 33 to 30 victory over Peoria Central also was regarded as a surprise.

The champions from Harvey led, 22 to 9, at half time and maintained a decisive advantage the remainder of the game, although Streator early in the second half crept up to a 25 to 18 score. Kenneth Hellman was the main cog in the Thornton offensive, sinking six baskets in the second half for a total of eight goals and a free throw.

Annel Wins for Lane.

Ted Annel of Lane sank a field goal in a third overtime period and broke the deadlock with Springfield. Mark Peterman, Springfield coach, employed his famous delayed offensive throughout and the Solons held a 11 to 8 lead in the middle of the fourth quarter. Then Benzinger hit a free throw and Lakner sank a basket to tie the score.

Annel missed a free throw soon after, and with 30 seconds left to play in the last quarter he fouled Blake, but the Springfield center failed on the attempt. In the first overtime Scheffler missed a free shot on Lakner's personal and then in the next extra period Jones fouled Lakner, but this attempt was also inaccurate.

Marshall Gets Range.

Louis Handelman, with six baskets, led Marshall in a spirited second half attack that left Champaign far behind. After being held to a 12 to 12 score at the half, Marshall pulled away to a 26 to 15 margin by the end of the third quarter.

The efforts of Jack Hodge and Keith Kemper, who together sank four long goals in the first half, kept Champaign in the running until Marshall put on steam.

Quincy's defeat of Centralia, 31 to 23, established the victors as a strong team.

Equality, the smallest community and school represented, went into the quarter finals by winning from Marion, 21 to 20. Cecil Walton's free throw with a minute and a half to play won for Equality.

Charleston scored a one sided victory

Cubs Hit Just Enough to Defeat Pirates, 3-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—The Cubs were not exactly vicious with their bats today, but they were at least good enough to register a victory in the third game of their spring series with the Pirates. This was done by the rather neat margin of 3 to 2, despite a skimpy portion of six hits off Larry French, the Pirate southpaw, and Waite Hoyt, the ancient right hander. Hoyt was on the job when the Cubs came through with a belated splurge that gave them their second triumph of the series.

The scarcity of Cub hits, part of which may be attributed to the fact that Chuck Klein took a day off, was the lone defect in the toil of the Chicagoans. They provided some dizzy fielding, particularly by Woody English at shortstop and Manager Grimm at first. The pitching also was acceptable, Rookie Roy Joiner not allowing a run in five innings and Lon Warneke being invincible except when Floyd Vaughan, the high powered shortstop, hit a homer. There happened to be a Pirate runner on base at the time.

Stainback Singles and Scores.

The Cubs found French so tricky that they could get only two men to base in the first three innings. One of these was Grimm, who singled with two out in the second. The other was Joiner, who walked with one gone in the third and never got beyond first. Then a pair of hits in the fourth produced a run. Steinback led off with a single to left and raced to third on Stephenson's single to right. Babe Herman's healthy fly to Babe Waner let Stainback sneak home.

Joiner's five innings of southpawing were not exactly without excitement even though without runs. It took him a couple of innings to become convinced the Pirates are not especially tough against left handers. He was hit safely twice in the first inning. One of these was a double on which Babe Waner was nipped attempting to stretch it to a triple. In the second Vaughan and Suhr led off with singles, but Joiner got out of this easily. He gave up only one other hit in his three other innings of labor. That was a single by Babe Waner after two were out in the fifth.

Vaughan Blasts Homer.

It wasn't long after Warneke became a principal in the sixth that the Pirates made themselves heard. Paul Waner opened against the Arkansas delegate with a double over Stainback's head in center. English picked up Traynor's grounder and, after the customary run up, P. Waner was trapped between second and third. Then another Arkansas delegate took the floor. Arky Vaughan whacked a homer into the right field bleacher for two runs. It was the Pirate youngster's sixth homer of the training trip.

The Pirates no doubt were delighted over the appearance of Warneke, but the Cubs were almost tickled pink when they saw old man Hoyt show up as French's successor. They did little to Hoyt in the sixth, but in the seventh shook him up to the extent of two runs.

Passes Start Rumpus.

Passes to Camilli and English started the rumpus. Fat Boy Phelps, who is definitly attaching himself to the second string catching job, then singled to left and Camilli scored. Warneke tried to sacrifice, but forced English at third. Galan singled to center, scoring Phelps and putting Warneke on third. Galan went to second on the throwin. No more runs scored because Billy Herman grounded out via second base and Stainback lofted to center.

Prior to the game the annual competition was held for the Joe Brown base running trophy and Evar Swanson of the White Sox accomplished the trick in 14:4, giving him his second straight win and permanent possession of the award. In the first year of competition Stanley Hack of the Cubs was the winner. Swanson led the field last spring.

Next to Swanson today was Tuck Stainback of the Cubs with 14:5. Hack and Vaughan of the Pirates finished in 14:6. Other contestants were Suhr, Jensen, and Young of the Pirates and Galan of the Cubs.

Detroit Beats Toronto, 2-1, in First Game

TORONTO, March 22.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, American division champions, defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 1, in an overtime game tonight as they opened their five game struggle for the National Hockey league championship and a place in the Stanley cup finals.

An unassisted goal by Herb Lewis, left winger of the Red Wings, decided the game after only a minute and 34 seconds of overtime play. It was the first shot of the "sudden death" session which followed the 60 minute deadlock.

The teams will play their second game here Saturday night. Lineups:

Brodar to Face McCarthy for State Handball Title

Jack Brodar of the Illinois Athletic club and Maurice McCarthy, a clubmate, advanced to the final round of the Illinois state handball singles tournament at the Medinah-Michigan Avenue club last night. They will meet for the title tomorrow. Brodar, defending champion, eliminated William McCarthy in the semi-finals last night, 21-9, 21-13, while Maurice McCarthy defeated John Stenson, Midwest Athletic club, runnerup for the title last year, 18-21, 21-6, 21-14.

GOTTSELIG AND CONACHER MAKE CHICAGO GOALS

End Series Sunday at Stadium.

MONTREAL, Que., March 22.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks defeated the Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 2, tonight in the opening game of the Stanley cup playoffs between the second place clubs of the National Hocky league. Since total goals decide the two game series, the Hawks will have a decided advantage when they return to their home ice at Chicago Stadium Sunday evening to defend their one point lead.

The effectiveness of the Hawks' defense was demonstrated in the way they protected their goal for the final 15 minutes after they had come from behind to tie the score in the second and then go ahead on Johnny Gottselig's goal in the third. If Manager Tommy Gorman orders his men to play a cautious game at home, the Canadiens face a formidable task. They have been unable to beat the Hawks in Chicago all season.

Gottselig Does His Part.

Gottselig scored two goals tonight and played a smart game defensively, ragging the puck when his team was shorthanded and back checking effectively all the way.

Chicago was a man short when Gottselig scored early in the first period. The Canadiens ran in their two goals before the period ended, both being scored while the Hawks had five men on the ice.

Lionel Conacher rushed with Doc Romnes half way through the second period and took a pass from Romnes to score from in close, making the count 2 all. In the early minutes of the last period Lola Couture raced down and started a scramble. Don McFayden got the puck and lost it. Gottselig then picked it up and blasted a straight shot to the corner.

After three minutes of play Gottselig caught the Canadiens up the ice as Jenkins cleared over the blue line. While Johnny was closing in, Chabot came out of his cage and slipped and fell. It was easy for Gottselig to send the puck into the empty cage. Thompson was in the penalty box for tripping at the time.

Canadiens Keep Pressing.

The Canadiens kept pressing hard, starting skirmishes many times inside the Chicago defense. Finally Coulter intercepted a pass, but was stopped at the Canadiens' defense. Trudel and Tommy Cook teamed up on a quick rush that ended in a mixup in front of Chabot. The Canadiens goalie made a great save lying flat on the ice. Joliat led the Canadiens up four abreast and in the scramble Gardiner had his wind knocked out.

Immediately after Jenkins had been sentenced for high sticking Larochelle, the Canadiens tied the score. Joliat got the puck off the boards and passed to Larochelle, who relayed it to Morenz. The latter flipped the puck home. Gardiner prevented a sure goal a minute later when he fell on Riley's shot from the goal mouth.

Thompson Again Penalized.

Thompson drew a tripping penalty and, with this advantage, the Canadiens scored again. Mondou started a circling play inside the Hawks' blue line. He passed to Burke, who slipped the disc to Morenz and Howie gave the puck to Larochelle, who scored.

The Canadiens finished the first period a man short with Carson off the ice on a holding penalty. Couture and Gottselig each got good shots on Chabot from close in before the bell rang.

Starting the second period a man short, the Canadiens had to withstand a five man attack. March and Conacher had good chances at Chabot, but the Canadiens' goalie made the saves in sensational fashion.

Conacher Evens Score.

March burned a shot into Chabot's chest. The puck dropped and rolled along the line before falling outside. Conacher then brought the Hawks up even when he jabbed the puck past Chabot on a short pass from Romnes.

Joliat lifted a long shot from center ice that landed on top of the Chicago cage. Gardiner thought it was in he cage and started looking for it in the net. Joliat and Abel were banished to the penalty box for a high sticking duel. Fierce but ineffective rushes marked the remainder of the period.

The Canadiens launched a determined offensive at the start of the third period, peppering Gardiner from close range. The Hawk goalie put up a great performance, robbing Morenz, Joliat, Larochelle, and Burke in turn of almost sure goals.

Suddenly Couture broke away and started a scramble inside the Canadiens' blue line. McFadyen got the rubber and lost it. Then Gottselig picked it up and beat Chabot for the winning goal.

VERRY, GLUTTING IN PINEHURST TOURNEY FINAL

Pinehurst, N. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Deborah Verry of Worcester, Mass., will meet Charlotte Glutting, New Jersey, in the final of the 37th annual North and South women's golf tournament tomorrow.

In the semi-final round this afternoon Miss Verry eliminated Mrs. J. J. Lawlor of New Rochelle, N. Y., 5 and 4, while Miss Glutting defeated Miss Aniela Gorczyca, Fort Worth, Tex., southern champion, 1 up.

GOLDEN GLOVES TEAM ON WAY TO NEW YORK BOUTS

Boxers Arrive Today for Fights Wednesday.

The word has gone about that by a unanimous vote Fred Caserio, middleweight, has been elected the "fashion plate" of the party. He looks like a movie fellow starting out on one of those Hollywood vacations. It is difficult for one to realize that Fred is a tough guy.

Graves on a Diet.

There's genuine sympathy everywhere for Keith Graves, the slashing welterweight golf caddy from Peoria, who didn't get any dinner tonight. Keith lost a decision to the thick beefsteaks, cottage fried potatoes, cream gravy and piping hot buns at the Illinois Athletic club, where our warriors have been training for more than a week. He boarded the train carrying five pounds of excess weight.

Coach Behr gave him a word of encouragement, however, and sent the lad to bed with a promise that he may have a jigger of lemon juice for breakfast with a heaping glass of hot water for a chaser.

Keith may or may not enjoy the trip along the scenic banks of the Hudson tomorrow morning which will keep our battlers occupied for two hours before they steam into New York.

What! No A. A. U. Card?

At Elkhart, where the Golden Gloves Special halted momentarily, a few hours ago, serious complications threatened to delay our arrival on Broadway. Mr. Harry Berz, A. A. U. representative, is aboard, with all his facts and figures in his big black briefcase. Entering Elkhart he discovered that the engineer on our train didn't have an A. A. U. traveling permit.

What to do? Mr. Berz decided to permit the engineer to proceed as far as Buffalo while he looks up the A. A. U. rulings in such cases.

There are 50 pugnacious gents in this party, and the fellows making the most noise are the tiny flyweights. Mr. Patsy Urso, our great big 112 pound gladiator from Grand Rapids, displayed much pride a few minutes ago while a 270 pound Toledo teamster was feeling the rippling muscles in his good right arm.

Sandman Calls Brown.

Johnny Brown, the newsboy flyweight was about to show off his physical perfections to a group of brick masons who were just knocking off work when Coach Behr beckoned him to bed.

Paddy Kane, the coach of the Catholic Youth organization boxers, has just appeared upon the scene and is helping Coach Behr put the stragglers in their berths.

Our boys are going to be fresh and ready for a lot of action when they reach New York tomorrow morning.

FISHER, KAWAL ARE NAMED N. U. BASKET CAPTAINS

Lyle Fisher of Fargo, N. D., center, and Al Kawal of Cicero, guard, were elected co-captains of Northwestern university's basketball team for next year at the annual squad dinner at the North Shore hotel in Evanston last night. Eight varsity letters and 17 freshman numerals were awarded to members of the two squads.

Those receiving letters are:

Those receiving freshman awards are:

Guards—H. C. Bender, Kokomo, Ind.; Guy Mercer, Oak Park, Ill.; Norman Vance, Logansport, Ind.; Chet Gargas, Hammond, Ind.; Ollie Adelman, Milwaukee.

Centers—Jess McAnaly, Greencastle, Ind.; Ralph Osborn, Culver, Ind.; Leo Grossberg, Kansas City, Mo.; Allan Manteuffel, Des Plaines, Ill.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FLORIDA MOVIE COLONY?

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 22.—Hollywood of Florida, not California, is attempting to lure location of a movie colony within its territorial limits. Since film executives are not accessible to The Wake, we must depend for information on the again optimistic real estate operators who are feeling more cheerful than at any time since the collapse of the land boom here in 1926.

According to their reports, Hollywood, less than 20 miles from Miami, has offered to film companies a tract of 850 acres without any charge as indication of how it feels about the matter. These same reports credit the supposedly interested movie interests with taking options on 2,500 additional acres.

Tests have been made which, according to the boosters, have shown ideal working conditions. Tropical scenes are said by them to film better than on the Pacific coast. Another argument is the claim there is one more hour of sunlight available than at the California Hollywood. The Wake has no facts to prove or disprove these claims.

To an outsider it would seem there are excellent facilities if the big production companies wish to spend money for a transfer or for the establishment of new studios. Certainly Florida is closer to executive offices in New York. So we pass along the rumors for whatever truth they may contain.

The Strawberry Man.

He was red and fat; she was brown and thin,
And her hands were rough and tense;
"I want that tray," she said to me,
"And I'm offering thirty cents."
"I'm sorry," I smiled, "but the price is marked
And at fifty cents it's cheap."
"I'm offering thirty cents," she frowned,
"And I want that tray a heap."
She gave me three thin dimes and then
She tried to take the tray.
But I shook my head, refusing the coins,
So she turned and walked away.
A moment later the red faced man
Came tiptoeing stealthily back.
"I'll take the tray. Be quick!" he said,
"'Cause mother is on my track.
I'm a strawberry man from Baton Rouge.
My savings ain't noways small,
But we had lean years at first, and mother,
She can't forget, that's all." Maizie.

Beloit has been Wisconsin state prep champion for the last two years and will be striving for a third crown late this month at Madison. The Purple has won 53 of its last 56 games. It has held or shared seven Big Eight titles in nine years. Freeport was the only Illinois quintet played this season, beaten twice, 21 to 17 and 36 to 13. Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THE Purdue football squad has a new slogan—"Let's make it fifty." . . . The Boilermakers have scored one or more touchdowns in their last forty-eight games, a modern record for major elevens. . . . Their second game next fall will be with Notre Dame, a team they defeated, 19 to 0, last season. . . . Two years ago Bill Terry, now manager of the Giants, and Pat Malone, Cub pitcher, got to bragging about their respective ability. . . . Pat bet $10 on himself to win twenty games and Terry $10 on himself to bat .350 or better. . . . Malone won fifteen games and unofficial averages showed Terry batting .350, whereupon Terry wrote to Pat demanding payment of the bet. . . . Malone doubted Terry's figures and wrote National league headquarters. . . . Word came back that Terry's official average was .349.

Jack Dempsey was a principal in all five boxing bouts which have drawn more than $1,000,000 crowds. . . . His bout in Chicago with Gene Tunney topped the list with $2,658,660. . . . The Tunney match in Philadelphia drew $1,895,733, the Carpentier match in Jersey City $1,789,238, the Firpo match in New York $1,188,603 and the Sharkey match in New York $1,083,530. . . . Fred Radke, auditor for Arlington Park, is a brother of Herman Radke, who was the world's leading jocky in the early days of the century. . . . In 1907 Radke rode twenty-four winners in one week, a mark no other jocky has equaled. . . . A clause in paragraph 3 of the Illinois racing law seems to put all turf events, including trotting and country fair meetings, under commission control. . . . It provides that "any meeting within the state of Illinois whereat horse racing shall be permitted" must be sanctioned by the commission. . . .

Tony Mazziotti, quarter back on Notre Dame's football team last fall, has been shifted to right half back by Coach Layden to try his blocking build in that position. . . . Don Elser, 225 pound full back, may be used in the line, it is rumored, although he is working out at his old place in spring practice. . . . Jimmy Jordan of Brooklyn holds the unique distinction of having socked a home run on his first official time at bat as a big leaguer. . . . Indoor polo has proved so popular in Chicago that professional promoters are showing interest in organizing a pro league next year. . . . Riggs Stephenson is the Cubs' best checker player. He made the mistake of challenging some fishing boat captains along the water front at Catalina this spring, and he had his ears pinned back in a hurry. . . .

Adolph Wiater, professional heavyweight boxer, is an advanced violinist. . . . After graduating from Golden Gloves a year ago he became a pickle contractor, dealing with Polish farmers of northern Wisconsin for their crops. . . . He speaks Polish fluently. . . . George Earnshaw has declared war on all his former Athletic mates, except those with the Sox, regardless of their present habitat. . . . He plans to warn Cochrane, Foxx, et al., not to crowd the plate when he is working. . . . William Forcier, Eau Claire, one of the most active boxing referees in Wisconsin, is the youngest member of the Wisconsin American Legion. . . . He was an aviator in the world war at the age of 18. . . . Western State Normal of Kalamazoo, Mich., will play nine baseball games with Western conference teams, two each with Michigan, Northwestern, Iowa, and Wisconsin, and one with Chicago. . .

Leroy Mills, the Mount Vernon, N. Y., lawyer who taught Frank Carideo how to kick a football out of bounds inside the 5 yard line, will be on the staff of Northwestern's summer coaching school. . . . Fritz Crisler of Princeton, Lou Little of Columbia, and Dick Hanley also are on the professorial list. . . . Sam Pian, one of Barney Ross' managers, says Max Baer was stung by "play boy" criticism, and he has been working out for two or three weeks at his manager's ranch near San Francisco. . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Charles Comiskey was improving rapidly from an operation for gallstones. . . . Rumors had Knute Rockne, athletic director and football coach at Notre Dame, going to Iowa to take the position vacated by Howard Jones. . . . The Sox and Cubs won exhibition games. . . . Elgin High school won the state basketball title. . . . Hyde Park's team won the National Interscholastic indoor track and field meet at Patten gymnasium. . . .

Plan Ross-McLarnin Title Fight for May

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—Managers of Barney Ross, world's lightweight champion, said today Madison Square Garden is negotiating for a welterweight championship bout between Ross and Jimmy McLarnin, 147 pound titleholder, in New York May 23. Art Winch of the Ross camp said only an agreement on terms was holding up the signing.

SOX GET UP SOME PEPPER TO KEEP FROM FREEZING

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Pasadena, Cal., March 22.—The chilliest day the White Sox have experienced in their Pasadena spring training camp in two years today was welcomed by Manager Lew Fonseca as a stimulus to his drive to awaken all members of his outfit. The drive during the last two days has been bringing encouraging results, and it is not at all improbable that the Sox will have an alert cast on the field when they go against the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday afternoon at Wrigley field, Los Angeles.

During the first two hours of practice the sun was absent for the first time in any drill this year. Then, shortly after 12 o'clock, the sun began to shine, causing Fonseca to fear that there might be another relapse. All of the lads kept on the qui vive, however, and lethargy, at least, seemed on the wing.

Delays Naming Pitchers.

No announcement has been made as to the pitchers in the Saturday and Sunday games with the Pittsburghers. Selection this far ahead would be uncertain, for games are coming up with the Cubs next Tuesday and Wednesday, and the Sox skipper doubtless will be intent upon his team's staging a comeback after the unfortunate experiences with the Cubs last Saturday and Sunday.

A rookie shipment is scheduled for Monday, and it is not unlikely that Fonseca will take the opportunity to look at a few of the brethren before making up the next toodle-oo list. In this event, Paul Gregory, Phil Gallivan, Otto Nitcholas and John Pomorski will be called on to pitch some to the Pirates.

Plenty of Work Ahead.

The Sox will work out in a routine manner again tomorrow here in Pasadena, but thereafter will be busy with games each day except March 29 and 30.

400 COMPETE IN PREP CARNIVAL AT OAK PARK

The fourth annual Oak Park High school relay carnival will be held at the Oak Park fieldhouse today. Preliminaries will start at 2 o'clock, with the first final event scheduled at 7:30 o'clock. More than 400 athletes, representing 32 high schools in the state, are entered.

You can't start off successfully on the daily round of shooing the wolf from the door when you feel that the world is against you. Alack! Alas! Usually that lay-me-down feeling comes from a grand smash at breakfast. Avoid 'em by instructing Hortense to buy Hills Bros. Coffee, henceforth and forevermore. That stops arguments about coffee. Hills Bros. Coffee is so rich and mild—so completely delicious—that the whole breakfast seems to brighten up with good nature. Hills Bros. Coffee is more economical, too, because there's more concentrated flavor and goodness in every pound than in "bargain counter" coffees. You ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name—and be sure to look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

EAST-WEST POLO TO BE PLAYED ON LONG ISLAND

U. S. Team to Compete in British Meets.

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Plans for the first American polo invasion of England since 1921 and for resumption of the east-west matches inaugurated so successfully in Chicago last summer were announced today by the United States Polo association.

A 30 goal team headed by Seymour Knox and including Elmer Boeseke Jr., one of America's three 10 goal stars; Billy Post II. and Harold E. Talbott Jr. was named to compete in three English tournaments, including the open.

Plan Matches at Meadow Brook.

The east-west matches, the players for which will not be selected until late in the summer, will be held at the Meadow Brook club, cradle of American polo, on Long Island Sept. 8, 11, and if a third game is necessary, the 15th.

No international series will be played this year, the American four confining its activities to the three leading English high goal fixtures at Ranelagh, Roehampton, and the British open at Hurlingham late in June.

Burke Leads West.

Carleton F. Burke again has been named leader of the west team, while F. Skiddy Von Stade will replace Hitchcock as the eastern manager. Available for the west team are the players who helped win the inaugural series, two games to one, Cecil Smith, Eric Pedley, H. W. [Rube] Williams, Aidan Roark, Lindsey Howard, J. B. Gilmore, Tom Mather, and Boeseke are eligible.

Eligible for the eastern squad are the three other invaders of England, Tommy Hitchcock, the two Guests, Winston and Raymond; Michael Phipps, Earle A. S. Hopping, and a halz dozen other highly ranked young players.

C. Y. O. BASKET TEAMS BEATEN IN NEW YORK GAMES

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—The Chicago Catholic Youth's organization basketball teams were beaten in both of their intercity games with the St. Nicholas of Tolentine quintets tonight. Mary Queen of Heaven, which met the Tolentine seniors, lost, 24 to 19, while Corpus Christi was beaten by Tolentine juniors, 23 to 20.

Harry McNally, Manhattan college star, led the Tolentine seniors to victory by scoring 14 of his team's 24 points. Bobby Reinacher, Fordham university star, led the juniors against Corpus Christi with 13 points. Lineup:

rounds. Wind and nervous tension on part of the players, however, resulted in only nine among seventy-two of the greatest performers in the country scoring par 72 or better.

Johny Dawson, Glen Oak amateur, who registered 74, was enthusiastic, saying the course called for all the shots in a player's répertoire. Not particularly long, as championship courses go, placing is called for.

Mac Smith, 74, said that while nearly all holes were of the two shot variety, careful placing of the drive was necessary because of the terrain. Consensus was that second shots were excellent tests.

Crowd for Hagan.

While the largest gallery followed Jones and Runyan, Walter Hagen and Billy Burke, who went out shortly after the former pair finished, were accompanied by a sizable crowd. The Haig, always a colorful figure, furnished his gallery plenty of thrills along the route. He shot a 71 and Burke a 72. In contrast to Jones and Runyan, it was their second nine which brought down their totals, Burke with 34 and Walter with 35.

True to his reputation, Hagen gave clubhouse spectators a great exhibition as he came in on the first nine. From far down the fairway Hagen approached to within 8 feet of the flag, Burke to within 12 feet. Hagen's putt stopped dead at the hole about 1 inch to the side and Burke duplicated the shot, so it was par 4s instead of birdie 3s.

Think Jones Out of It.

Around the locker rooms following final recapitulation, a majority of the pros thought Jones was out of it with thirty-four players one or more strokes up on him in the first day's play and five more tied in the 76 notch. O. B. Keeler, Atlanta newspaper writer who has followed Jones in every important match since Bobby sprang up as a youthful phenomenon, agreed with that viewpoint only if Bobby's present poor putting streak continues.

"The score itself is nothing to worry about," he continued, "but Bobby's putting is. His long game held up. His short game did not. His pitches in several instances were not the kind for which he was noted."

Pairings for tomorrow will be the same as today so far as players are concerned. Starting times will be different, Jones and Runyan playing in the afternoon and Hagen and Burke in the morning.

U. S. COLLEGE MAT MEET ON AT MICHIGAN TODAY

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 22.—[Special.]—The National collegiate wrestling championship tournament will open here tomorrow afternoon with more than 100 athletes representing thirty schools in all sections of the United States except the far west. The finals will be held Saturday night.

St. Philip Five Advances in Loyola Meet

Chien, Wis., of whom there appeared to be more than a few in the audience, saw their team outrun Cretin High of St. Paul, 27 to 24.

Not to be outdone by their two predecessors in the evening's games, Marmion academy of Aurora, Ill., and St. Mary's of Huntington, Ind., put on a battle royal which finally saw the Illinois boys win by a score of 23 to 17.

The first round will be completed this morning with St. Rita of Chicago meeting Cathedral of Springfield at 9 o'clock and Leo of Chicago facing Menasha, Wis. The second round will open at 11 o'clock, bringing together Cathedral of Indianapolis, the defending champion, and Catholic High of Joliet, runner up in the Chicago Catholic High School league. The consolation round for first round losers also will open this morning at the St. Ignatius Grammar school gymnasium.

The afternoon fans were regaled with one of the tightest games of the meet when St. Joseph's High of Oil City, Pa., nosed out St. Mary's of Iowa City, Ia., 18 to 17.

California Team Advances.

The St. Mary's Rams of Stockton, Cal., first Golden State players ever to compete in the tournament, demonstrated quite convincingly that they did not come to these parts merely for a bus ride by trouncing Notre Dame academy of Mitchell, S. D., 33 to 10.

The first game of the afternoon program, involving Corpus Christi High of Galesburg, Ill., and St. Joseph's High of Huntington, W. Va., produced one of the most thrilling arguments of the tournament, although Corpus Christi won handily enough, 33 to 20. It was unfortunate that the West Virginians were forced to draw the Illinois state champions in their debut, for they displayed a clever passing attack throughout the game, particularly in the neighborhood of their own basket. The Galesburg team outreached them, however.

St. Patrick Wins.

The east, south, and Chicago scored victories in the three morning games. After Pittsburgh Central Catholic of Pittsburgh, Pa., had set a 1934 tournament record of 48 points, against 10 for Catholic High of Little Rock, Ark., a band of sophomores from St. Patrick's academy of Chicago, winner of the national title in 1932, bombarded the baskets to the tune of a 52 to 14 victory over St. Joseph's High of Dewitt, Ia. The first 1 point decision of the tournament occurred in the closing game of the morning, when Catholic High of Baton Rouge, La., defeated Our Lady of Victory High of Lackawanna, N. Y., 21 to 20.

STYLE AUTHORITY

For Forty Years our Style Policy has been to reproduce the best designs produced by the famous Bootmakers of the World, because we believe that the best-dressed men in America are interested in knowing what the best-dressed men in the World are wearing.

That's why during the last forty years we have actually purchased from the finest Custom Bootmakers in London, Paris and U.S.A. more of their expensive Hand-made Original Models than any Shoe Manufacturer in America.

And today we are presenting on our Fortieth Anniversary authentic designs for Street, Dress and Sport, which we predict will be the Style Leaders in the Easter Parade for 1934.

GOLDEN MILLER 11 TO 1 CHOICE IN GRAND NATIONAL

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 22.—(AP)—Forty-eight special and scores of regular trains from every point in the British Isles, and every other conceivable mode of transportation today began pouring a huge crowd into this city for the 96th running of the Grand National steeplechase over the Aintree jumps tomorrow.

The field was reduced to five American-owned and 27 of Great Britain and Europe's leading jumpers today by the scratching of Francolino, but it was not likely that Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller, the 11 to 1 choice, will lead more than 24 of them to the post at 3 p. m. [9 a. m. Chicago time].

Expect Heavy Going.

With the starters will ride the hopes of backers the world over. The holders of tickets in the Irish sweepstakes on the horse that is first to reach the wire at the end of the four and one-half miles will receive almost $150,000 each.

The weather man promised sunshine with intermittent showers following a day of steady rain but there is not much hope that the turf will be fast.

John Hay Whitney's Thomond II., although listed below Golden Miller, J. B. Snow's Delaneige, also American owned, and W. Parsonage's Forbra, 1932 winner, in the betting, has won his last three races and carries strong sentiment around the track. He will have as a running mate, Lone Eagle II., an outsider.

Delaneige Has Support.

Delaneige, badly beaten in his latest encounter with Golden Miller, also is well fancied. He finished fourth last year while Golden Miller fell early in the going.

Ivor Anthony, who trained Kellsboro Jack to win the 1933 running, hopes to make it two straight with F. Ambrose Clark's Sorley Boy, a stablemate of last year's winner, and the only other American horse given a chance in the smallest field in recent years.

A.B.C. Votes on '35 Tourney Site Tonight

Peoria, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the American Bowling congress will be held here tomorrow. The annual convention is attracting A. B. C. officials, delegates from all sections of the country, and approximately 300 bowlers from fifty cities. Bowling will be suspended in the armory as legislative matters are discussed, officers elected, and the site chosen for next year's tournament.

Thirty-seven Syracuse teams, headed by Mayor Rolland B. Marvin, arrived this noon, and with bands blaring and flags flying paraded through the main streets of Peoria. Syracuse is making a strong bid for the 1935 tournament, but is being opposed by Buffalo and Grand Rapids. Pre-convention dope favors Syracuse.

Mineralites Roll Tonight.

Forty-eight teams from leading tenpin centers of the country will monopolize the drives tomorrow night. A dozen Chicago lineups are on the card, including the Mineralites, leaders of the Randolph league. Bud Wright, Harry Steers, who has not missed a league series in twenty-three years; Joe Fliger, Frank Kartheiser, and Billy Rusch Jr. form the lineup of the Mineralite squad.

There were three changes among the leaders during today's shallow schedule. Riley [Newt] Gamboe of Bloomington, Ill., climbed to second place in the singles with 692 and soared to third in the all-events by totaling 1,918. Celeste Spriet and Art Anderson of St. Charles, Ill., moved into fourth place in the doubles with 1,248.

Milwaukeeans in Action.

Five Milwaukee teams—the Milwaukee Bowling Association Specials, E. M. B. A. Auto Service, E. M. A. A. Line Material, Husting Printers, and Wadham Oils, the latter team captained by Ernie Bach, president of the Milwaukee Bowling association, are listed on tomorrow's card.

The leaders:

FRANK SIGILIO, MIKE O'DOWD TO BATTLE TONIGHT

Jim Eliopoulos to Meet Bobby O'Dowd.

Frank Sigilio, Chicago lightweight, and Midget Mike O'Dowd of Columbus, O., will meet in the six round main bout tonight at Cicero Stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Sigilio, who has scored 14 triumphs in as many professional appearances, will be meeting his first nationally known opponent.

Walter Jerz and Jack Moran, west side middleweights, will be the contending warriors in another contest at six rounds. Jerz, who has won eight of ten pro battles, is facing his strongest foe. Hugh Allen, junior lightweight, is ill so a suitable substitute is to collide with Jimmy Peters of Wisconsin for four rounds. Mickey Misko meets Einar Hedquist and Carl Scalise opposes Lou Taylor in other encounters at four rounds.

Jack Kranz vs. Bob Stone [4], heavyweights.
Georgie Trapp vs. Joe Serletic [4], 150.
Jim Richards vs. Al Schiarato [4], 133.
Tom Habel vs. Hank Bueker [4], 147.
Charles Peterson vs. John Mason [wrestling].

Five contests will support the eight round main event between Johnny Phagan and Solly Dukelsky at Marigold Gardens. Those already arranged follow:

Adolph Wiater and Willie Davies [5], heavyweights.
Frank Mirabal and Freddy Gravelle [4], 125.
Bob Crowley and Hank Bueker [4], 145.

Jackie London, north side lightweight, has signed for his first appearance in three years against an opponent to be selected. A wrestling bout completes the program.

The proposed return battle between King Levinsky and Walter Neusel, heavyweights, at the Chicago Stadium April 6 was approaching the signing stage yesterday when Neusel reduced his demands as follows:

He reduced his guarantee demand from $6,000 to $4,000 and a percentage privilege from 30 per cent to 27½.

The Stadium Operating company has announced that it will pay no more than 50 per cent for the match and no guarantee.

An amateur boxing show will be presented tonight at Immaculate Conception gymnasium, 1415 North Park avenue. Eight matches will be contested between boys representing Immaculate Conception parish and St. Alphonsus. . . .

Kennel Club's Show Entries Exceed 1933

BY BOB BECKER.

Sporting dog entries in the Chicago Kennel club show to be held March 30, 31, and April 1 in the First Regiment armory already have exceeded the total for the 1933 show, according to the latest checkup by Kennel club officials.

Thus far there are 43 cocker spaniel entries, compared to 30 last year; English setters, 25, compared with 17 in 1933; Irish setters, 24, against 21 last year, and 19 springers, as compared to the same number entered in 1933.

All Major Kennels Represented.

All of the major kennels of the Chicagoland area will be represented at the show, including Thomas H. Howell of Barrington, Ill., whose magnificent wolfhounds and Labrador retrievers are well known; Harold M. Florsheim of Highland Park, Ill., whose airedales won high honors in the New York Westminster show; Alex. Stewart, who shows wire haired terriers; Mrs. Katherine M. Lowenbach of Chicago, also a wire haired terrier fancier who has several young dogs on the circuit; Paul H. Loeber of Lake Forest, owner of several champion wire haired terriers, and Maurice V. Reynolds of Lake Villa, Doberman pinscher fancier.

Forty Breeds Will Be Shown.

Approximately forty breeds of dogs, ranging from toys to Irish wolfhounds and St. Bernards, will be shown at this thirty-third annual show of the Chicago Kennel club. Close to $7,500 in cash, trophies, and other awards will be made to the winning canines and their owners. The chief honor is, of course, the John C. C. Eastman trophy, valued at $1,000, for the best dog in the show. Last year a Russian wolfhound owned by Mrs. W. Harold Cluxton of Chicago won the trophy.

Mahoney Named Mutuels Chief at Tropical Park

Miami, Fla., March 22.—[Special.]—Mortimer M. Mahoney of Baltimore was appointed director of the mutuel department at Tropical park today. His appointment followed charges of irregularities in the pari-mutuels under the direction of James Walsh. A hearing on the charges will be held by the Florida Racing commission Monday.

Mahoney has directed mutuel departments at Hialeah park, Bowie, Hagerstown, Epsom Downs, Marlboro, and Timonium. He also aided in installing a new totalisator at the Arlington park track near Chicago.

CONVEY EQUITY IN SKYSCRAPER TO BONDHOLDERS

La Salle-Wacker Unit to Be Reorganized.

BY AL CHASE.

Another step in the reorganization plan for the forty-two story La Salle-Wacker building was taken yesterday when the equity was conveyed by the La Salle-Wacker Building corporation, Philip F. W. Peck, president, and John Goodridge, secretary and treasurer, to the newly formed La Salle-Wacker corporation, which is controled by the bondholders.

A further step will be taken this morning at 11 o'clock in the county building, when the property is to be disposed of at a foreclosure sale. Halsey, Stuart & Co., the reorganization manager of the property and acting as a representative of the bondholders, will be a bidder for the property at the master's sale.

Will Carry Out Reorganization.

The reorganization plan announced on Jan. 15, 1933, and made operative on July 24, 1933, is to be carried out, according to Clifford Edmister of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, attorneys. This provides that each $1,000 series A bond will be exchanged for a $500 first [closed] mortgage bond, due Aug. 1, 1957, and $600 in gold debentures due Aug. 1, 1962. Neither issue at the outset will bear interest at a fixed rate, but will receive a return consistent with the earnings of the property, it was stated.

"It is expected, however, that increasing amounts can be paid on the first mortgage bonds during the next few years, and that thereafter the full 5 per cent can be paid on these bonds, together with graduated sums on the debentures," said Charles F. Clarke of Halsey, Stuart & Co., chairman of the bondholders' protective committee.

Plan for Debentures.

"Interest will be payable on the debentures to the extent of 75 per cent of net earnings after interest charges have been paid on the first mortgage bonds, but at a rate of not more than 5 per cent of the principal amount of the debentures. Twenty-five per cent of such net earnings, or the balance after 5 per cent has been paid on the debentures, will be applied at least annually to the purchase or redemption and cancelation of the debentures."

The original issue of $6,500,000 first mortgage bonds was underwritten by Halsey, Stuart & Co. and the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., March 22.—Continued slow demand for wool in Boston and the easier trend of prices is in direct contrast with the ideas of growers in the west, wool men said today. Considerable wool, especially in fine grades, can be bought in Boston at lower rates than comparative wools command in the west, it was said.

NATION'S STOCK EXCHANGES UNITE AGAINST CONTROL

Offer Amendment to Ease Drastic Regulation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—For the first time since the initiation of stock exchange regulatory legislation in this congress, the exchanges of the principal cities of the country presented a unified front in opposition to the pending Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange control bill today.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, testifying before the house committee on interstate commerce, offered amendments to the marginal and other controversial provisions in the bill and in doing so pointed out that they were drafted and offered following conferences with representatives of the stock exchanges in many leading cities.

Whitney Says Bill Is Destructive.

Mr. Whitney declared that, in the view of the exchanges, the bill as redrafted is, as was the original draft, an unworkable proposition. If enacted in its present form the effect of the legislation, Mr. Whitney declared, will, in the studied view of the exchanges, have a "destructive effect not only upon stock exchanges, but also upon the value of securities and the business of the country."

While Mr. Whitney was making the final appeal of the exchanges before the house committee, Secretary of the Treasury Morganthau, taking note of the testimony given yesterday before the committee, declared that the treasury department would like to see congress enact regulatory legislation at this session and if a bill is passed, he said, he wanted one "with teeth in it."

Won't Discuss Smith's Testimony."

Mr. Morganthau would not discuss the testimony given yesterday before the committee by Tom K. Smith, his adviser on banks and banking problems. Mr. Smith told the committee that the treasury had not passed on the marginal provisions of the bill, nor had it considered the regulatory clauses in so far as they apply to stock exchanges. It was these statements by Mr. Smith which prompted the committee to open the hearings to the opponents of the redrafted measure.

The stock exchanges which opposed as a unit the enactment of the bill in its present form were those of New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, New Orleans, Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Buffalo, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Washington, Hartford, Columbus, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and Salt Lake City. St. Paul and Minneapolis have a single exchange.

In addition the proposed amendments are understood to be approved by the New York Curb exchange and curb organizations in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Believes Margin Excessive.

"I have already said," Mr. Whitney continued, "that I consider the margin requirements of the original Fletcher-Rayburn bill excessive. While the margin requirements of the pending bill are more liberal, due to prevailing market prices, they would, in the event of a rise in security values, reach the same excessive level as was fixed in the original Fletcher-Rayburn bill.

"In brief, the margin requirements of this bill and the original bill are both defective in that they base credit solely upon a percentage of market value or upon the lowest market price reached within arbitrary period of time."

Mr. Whitney argued that the loan value of a security must be determined by a consideration not only of earnings and market value, but of the size and activities of particular issues, distribution of the stock among investors, the extent to which the stock is held in loans or margin accounts, the volatility of the security, and the general condition of the market and of the issuer of the security.

MIDWEST ECONOMIC CONFERENCE TO OPEN SESSIONS HERE TODAY

The midwest economic conference is to be opened this morning in Wieboldt hall on the McKinlock campus of Northwestern university, with economists, students of financing and marketing and professors in the field of commerce attending. The conference, which will consist of round table discussions, will close tomorrow.

Discussions this morning will be opened with talks on "The Future International Economic Policy of the United States." Prof. John Ise of the University of Kansas will be chairman. Round table subjects listed for the afternoon are "The Meaning and Scope of Economic Science," with Prof. F. S. Deibler of Northwestern university, chairman, and "Government Regulation of the Investment Market," with J. E. Kirshman, University of Nebraska, chairman.

Dean J. E. Le Rossignol of the school of commerce at the University of Nebraska will be master of ceremonies at the dinner meeting this evening. Converse, University of Illinois, chairman, are the round tables planned for tonight.

Saturday discussions include "Crop Limitation Under the AAA," with Prof. B. H. Hibbard of the University of Wisconsin, chairman; "Some Economic Implications of the Shorter Work Week," Prof. J. A. Estey, Purdue university, chairman; "The Transportation Problem," Prof. D. Philip Locklin, University of Illinois, chairman, and "Federal Taxation Today and Tomorrow," Prof. E. S. Todd, Miami university, chairman.

COTTON PRICES MOVE WITHIN NARROW RANGE

Nervousness over the political situation is restricting new business in cotton and prices, while averaging lower, held within a limited range yesterday. Trading was somewhat larger than the previous day with spurts of liquidation from scattered interests.

At the close futures in Chicago were 2 to 5 points net lower, with other markets off 1 to 9 points, the latter in New York. Spots in New York were unchanged at 12.15 cents. New Orleans and Houston were unchanged at 12.05 cents. Galveston lost 5 points, closing at 12.05 cents. Liverpool closed 8 points off. Prices follow:

EASTMAN URGES ROADS TO FORM TRAFIC AGENCIES

Asks Two Units to Handle Smaller Shipments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Creation of two railroad owned merchandise agencies to handle all less than carload trafic that moves by rail is proposed in a report made public today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation. The recommendation was submitted to the coördinator by J. R. Turney, director of the section of transportation service of the coördinator's staf, and passed on by the coördinator to the railroad regional coördinating committees for action.

Asserting that rail carriers had lost the bulk of the available merchandise trafic they formerly handled and that highway freight carriers were operating at a small but inadequate profit above costs, Director Turney said remedies should be designed to reduce waste and prevent uneconomic handling of traffic by integrating services, modernizing operations and tarifs, and coördinating transportation facilities.

Urges Door Delivery.

Four recommendations were made by Director Turney. In addition to recommending consolidation of handling of less than carload rail traffic by two competing agencies, to be owned by the railroads, and to take the place of services by railroad companies, express and forwarding organizations, he proposed that merchandise be collected and delivered at the patrons' door and transported in shock proof equipment at overall speeds in excess of 20 miles an hour.

Simplify classification of trafic, liberalize packing requirements, and adapt the express system of charges to all merchandise trafic by substituting for present scales a scale based on cost plus a fair profit, Mr. Turney said in his third recommendation.

"Coördinate rail and highway, by contract, joint rates, lease or ownership," he said in his fourth recommendation," so that merchandise will be concentrated at and distributed from a limited number of key concentration stations by highway and moved between such stations by rail in car lots."

What Small Lots Earn.

Less than carload railroad and express trafic, Director Turney found on the basis of 1932 business, failed to earn a full proportion of total operating expenses and taxes by approximately $80,000,000, but earned approximately 107 million dollars in excess of out of pocket costs of providing the service.

Economies in rail merchandise transportation, which appear possible through integration of trafic, organizations, facilities and service and modernization of service, tarifs and operative methods aggregate over 100 million dollars annually, according to the report.

As now conducted, the investigators found, highway transportation of merchandise is relatively more economical than rail transportation for all distances but realization of the potential improvements in rail service and methods would make rail transportation generally the more economical for distances over 150 miles. Highway transportation for distances under 75 miles would continue to be more economical, the report said.

Sees Step in Solving Problems.

"The remedy outlined," said Coördinator Eastman in commenting on the recommendations, "is presented with no thought that it is necessarily the final word on the subject, but in the belief that it will be helpful in arriving at the ultimate solution."

Merchandise trafic, declared the coordinator, could not be successfully handled on an individual railroad basis, and the principle of pooling must be introduced.

"Merchandise trafic cannot be handled as it should be handled by the railroads alone, or by the trucks alone," Mr. Eastman said. "Both methods of transport must be employed and linked together in proper coördination."

Consultation of railroad employés in dealing with the situation was urged by the coördinator, who said the changes proposed would involve some displacement of labor for a time," but they will open the door to a gain in trafic for the future, which will add to employment."

U. S. HAS STRONG GRIP ON BIGGEST BANKS OF NATION

Partly Owns Half of Fifty Leaders.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The federal government today partially owns and controls nearly half of the fifty largest banks in the country and is expected to become an important stockholder in several more. Only one of the ten largest banking institutions in the nation boasts complete financial independence of the government, having neither sold stock nor borrowed money from it.

These facts were disclosed by a survey made yesterday of the bank stock holdings of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which in the short space of a year has become the largest holder of bank shares in the world.

Eight of Big Ten Add Capital.

Substantial capital has been furnished to eight of the ten largest banks. Of the fifty biggest banks in the country, ranked according to deposits reported at the end of 1933, twenty-one have sold substantial blocks of preferred stock or capital notes to the RFC. In two of these institutions the government has furnished a majority of their present capital. In nine banks the RFC holds a 25 to 50 per cent interest, and in ten others has supplied 9 per cent to 25 per cent of the capital.

Twenty-three of the fifty ranking banks have not yet sold either stock or notes to the government agency. Several of them are expected to do so, however. The adjoining table ranks forty-four leading banking institutions which can be classified according to their financial independence of the government at present.

RFC Obtains Control.

No distinction is made in this list between preferred stock and capital notes. The voting rights of the preferred stock varies with different banks. The capital notes do not carry voting rights but the RFC stipulates other measures of management control.

The Bank of America, San Francisco, is the largest bank in the country which has not sold stock or notes to the RFC. It is omitted from the list, however, because in the past it has borrowed from the RFC and is now reported to be considering the sale of preferred stock. Its ranking in the foregoing list is not determinable now. Two other west coast banks, the San Francisco bank and the American Trust company of San Francisco, are also left out because they have made arrangements to sell preferred stock to the RFC. Pending completion of their capital adjustments their rank cannot be given.

Wisconsin Bank Selling Stock.

The First Wisconsin National bank is omitted for the same reason. Negotiations for sale of stock to the RFC are now in progress. Figures on the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company, Providence, R. I., are not available because the business is being segregated into separate banks. No sale of preferred stock is contemplated.

The City National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, technically has no RFC money. Its predecessor, the Central Republic bank, however, obtained a $90,000,000 loan which made possible the organization of the new bank. For this reason it is not ranked among the banks which are financially independent of the government.

TWO VETERANS OF BUTLER BROS. MADE DIRECTORS

Two new directors were elected to the board of Butler Brothers yesterday at the annual meeting of shareholders. They are T. C. Cooper, general manager of the company's New York division, and B. W. Cunningham, general manager of the St. Louis division. They fill vacancies caused by the death of Lester L. Falk and the retirement of H. J. Littledale. Other directors were reëlected. The new board in turn reëlected all officers.

Both new directors are veterans of the organization. Mr. Cooper worked up to his present position from a minor job. He has been with the company most of his life. Mr. Cunningham joined the company in 1913 after his graduation from Northwestern university.

BANK CLEARINGS GAIN FOR WEEK, EXCEED YEAR AGO

New York, March 22.—(AP)—The past week's bank clearings for the country ran considerably ahead of the previous week and the same week last year. The total, according to Dun & Bradstreet, was $5,156,839,000, an increase of $299,586,000 over the week ended March 14 and 8.7 per cent ahead of the corresponding week last year. New York City clearings were 6.9 per cent above the preceding week, while the total for all centers outside of New York was 13.2 per cent higher.

Financial Independence of Big Banks

The following table lists the principal banks of the country in the order of their financial independence of the government. Where no stock or notes have been sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation the ranking is according to size based on deposits reported at the close of 1933. Six of the nation's 50 largest banks are omitted because they cannot be classified at present as explained in an adjoining column. Total capital and the amount and percentage supplied by the RFC is listed:

Seats Drop on U. S. Control of Exchanges

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Any one doubting that federal control of the security and commodity markets will dry up trading has only to look at the per cent drop in the value of seats on the exchanges.

A membership on the Chicago Board of Trade was sold yesterday at $7,200, off $1,700 from the last previous sale. This was the trading public's answer to the inauguration of the new commodity exchange code placing certain limitations on trading.

But the commodity exchange code at least was drawn up with the advice and consent of the exchanges themselves. The stock exchanges are facing rougher treatment. If congress passes the Fletcher-Rayburn bill in anything like its present form stock exchange firms are certain that they will suffer the loss of more business than will the board of trade firms. Reflecting this sentiment, a New York Stock exchange seat on Wednesday sold for $105,000, a flop of $85,000 since the last previous transaction.

If the prediction implied by these figures is correct the effect will be felt not only by members of the exchanges but by the entire financial community.

Banks, for example, will have hundreds of millions of dollars more of idle money that they don't know what to do with, because the demand for loans on securities and commodities will fall off with the decline in transactions.

This, of course, would force the banks to buy more government bonds, thereby giving the treasury new financial pastures in which to browse.

Thus, whether it is so intended or not, the governmental regulation of exchanges wil provide another lever for the diversion of private funds into public expenditures. The bond market has already ceased to take private capital because of the new federal securities act under which corporations are afraid to offer new issues.

Government credit has been getting better and better because of the drying up of other outlets for private funds.

The news that Frederick H. Prince has returned from another European sojourn revives interest in the recapitalization plan of Armour & Co.

When Mr. Prince, the 75 year old Boston capitalist, bought enough stock to have himself elected chairman of Armour & Co.'s executive committee, it was a foregone conclusion that no reorganization plan that lacked his approval had a chance.

There are, however, other stockholders than Mr. Prince who must be satisfied, for under the Illinois corporation law it is easy to scale down capital, but hard to compromise unpaid accumulated preferred dividends. The coöperation of the preferred stockholders is essential.

For that reason it is expected that the next proposition by the Armour management will contain a more attractive offer for the preferred stockholders.

One thing, however, is certain. There must be a recapitalization of the company, for its management has already placed itself on record as saying that assets have depreciated to a point where there's much water in the capital stock and under the Illinois law a company admittedly in that position can not legally pay dividends until the deficiency is corrected.

Publication from Washington of the salaries of officers of leading corporations and banks has led to much embarrassment in official families.

Intramural jealousies have been aroused in a number of cases because some officials have discovered colleagues getting more money for similar work. One bank is reported to be studying the salary lists of banks in other cities with the idea of picking up a few men whose capabilities have long been recognized, but whose remuneration had been unknown.

Production of Soft Coal 8,375,000 Tons in Week

$7 HOG IS HERE BUT ONLY $4.75 GOES TO FARMER

"Wallace's promise to bring the price of hogs up to $7 has been realized," a farmer said to another in the stockyards yesterday. "For the farmer, $4.75 for producing the hog; for the government, $2.25 in tax with which to defray the expense of fulfilling the promise. There is more than one way of skinning a cat." However, the top price on hogs fell to $4.50 yesterday—plus the $2.25 tax.

* *

"Buying hogs for the government is like being between the devil and the deep blue sea," a live stock buyer complains. "To yield to the buyers' natural instinct to bear down on the market at every opportunity is to incur the displeasure of the bull faction, which wants higher prices for the farmer. To step right out and pay brings the other side down on us for not buying relief pork as economically as possible."

* *

A stag hog weighing 940 pounds, almost as heavy as a saddle horse, sold in the stockyards for $2.25 per hundred pounds. Incidentally, the processing tax also was $2.25, or a total of $21.15.

An unusually large increase in juvenile unemployment in Great Britain at the beginning of 1934 is attributed by a London financial house to the abnormally large birth rate that followed the war in 1919.

* *

A London financial house, in criticizing a recent movement in Great Britain for some governmental control over banking makes a plea for individualism, citing the record of British banks operating under private control during recent crises which saw serious banking disorders throughout the world.

"To fetter the free exercise of professional skill by rules and regulations is bad enough," this house declares; "to replace men whose own existence depends upon such skill by burocrats would be infinitly worse. No elected official can have either courage or elasticity of mind which is enjoyed by a private functionary. The banker who today lends money is responsible to and works for the proprietors of the bank. He is beyond the challenge of demagogs or of departments or of parliamentarians."

Some life insurance companies know how to take advanage of a situation. Under Texas laws a life insurance company can deposit its securities with the insurance department, making the state the custodian of the bulk of the assets behind the policies. The policies issued, in such an event, are "registered." One company advertised that "a registered life insurance policy in a Texas company, to this extent, is as strong as the state itself," neglecting to say that the state assumes no responsibility as to the payment of the insurance contract.

TEXAS CORP. TO BUILD BIG DOCK AT EAST CHICAGO

Hammond, Ind., March 22.—(AP)—The Texas corporation, oil refiners, today purchased five acres of land on the Indiana Harbor canal at Canal street in East Chicago and will begin at once building 500 feet of docks.

Gasoline will be shipped by water to great lakes ports, and officials pointed out that rail freight on a barrel shipped from Chicago to Duluth is 90 cents and water freight 11 cents.

GOVERNMENT MUST CUT COST, SAYS F. H. PRINCE

Armour Chief Assails Drastic Market Curb.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—Frederick H. Prince, Boston banker and chairman of the executive committee of Armour & Co., warned today that government expenditures must be curbed, credit be restored on a sound basis of real business improvement and that speculation must not be too rigidly controled. Mr. Prince, one of the wealthiest men in the United States, returned from a two months' rest abroad.

"I thoroughly believe with Mr. Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, and with Samuel Untermyer that we could wisely follow England in giving publicity to the statements of all corporations borrowing money," he said, "but we should not curtail what speculation is necessary to progress. Every great advance in this country has been made by people willing to speculate, to take the risk. It would be a crime to stop the confidence which is returning to people."

Say Money Means Confidence.

Mr. Prince's reply to questions on money theorizing was that "there is only one money, and that is money in which people have confidence."

Discussing the battle for prosperity, Mr. Prince declared that "we have a most excellent President, who is doing his best to pull us out of the difficulties which were brought about by the great post-war inflation. Whether or not he is being wisely advised, only time may tell."

"That," said Mr. Prince, "is the end of chapter one. Now for chapter two. Government expenditures cannot keep on. There must be economy and restoration of confidence in the credit of each other. Only in the development of business and industry can there be real improvement, and we must find it in our own country. It is a false idea that we can export to other countries products which they themselves can produce cheaper, because of cheaper labor."

Differs with Reserve Chief.

Mr. Prince expressed surprise to learn that the governor of the Federal Reserve bank had found strong evidences of confidence in the fact that government short term securities were easily disposed of.

"A false conclusion," he said. "Idle capital today is seeking a place where it can get some return. With the destruction of railroad credits, and all private credits, the only thing people can do is to buy government bonds. But the government, sooner or later, must issue bonds at a rate of interest that the American people will take. Now heads of institutions must buy state or city bonds because they have to buy something."

He said he hoped that no "unwise legislation" tending to discourage private enterprise would be passed by congress, adding that if it were it would mean that the men who passed it would have no actual experience in industry, and credit. He said that if general industrial credit were restored he could look forward to a period of prosperity which might be greater than any before.

Will Attend Armour Meeting.

Mr. Prince left this afternoon for Chicago to attend a directors' meeting of Armour & Co., tomorrow. He said the packing company is awaiting only an agreement with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in order to effect a financial reorganization.

"A financial plan will be easy as soon as we know what agreement we can reach with Mr. Wallace," he said. "The packing industry is anxious to reduce the cost of distribution and to provide an insurance fund against depreciation of investments, which run beyond the hundreds of millions. If it is forced to carry these large investments it is also forced to buy its supplies cheaply."

GREENE TO VOTE HIS ATLAS TACK STOCK APRIL 9

Arthur Greene, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Securities corporation and head of the Guardian Securities corporation, a private Chicago investment trust which purchased a large block of Atlas Tack stock, yesterday cleared up the mystery in connection with the postponement of the annual meeting of the Atlas Tack corporation until April 9 because of the lack of a quorum.

New York dispatches said that Mr. Greene had failed to vote his stock which was purchased from Philip H. Philbin Jr. Mr. Greene said that he had not purchased the Atlas stock until after March 5, the record date for stockholders wishing to vote at the stockholders' meeting. Because of this he could only vote if he obtained proxies from the persons recorded as owners on the record date.

Mr. Greene said he had not had time to obtain the proxies which he expects to be able to do by the time the adjourned meeting is called. He and an associate are slated to become directors of Atlas Tack.

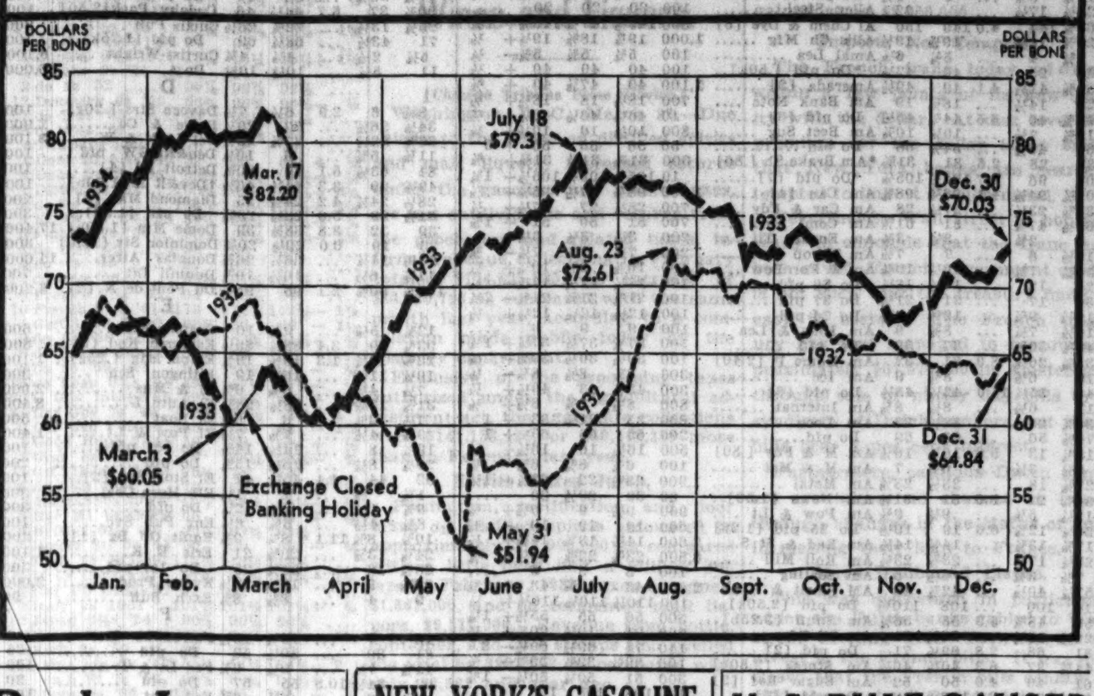
Average Daily Closing Prices of 40 Leading Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange



Banks Ignore Federal Plea to Lend More

The exhortation of administration leaders that banks loosen up on commercial loans fell on deaf ears again last week, judging from the reports of the Chicago and New York Reserve member banks, which were issued last night with the regular statement of the reserve system.

Commercial loans here showed little change and in New York were off some $36,000,000. At the same time, however, the New York banks put an additional $13,000,000 in government securities and $55,000,000 in other types of securities. The increase of the New York banks in "other" securities gives some ground for the belief that the banks are being drawn to the bond market by the attractive yields.

Lacking commercial borrowers, the banks with an abundance of idle money must depend on their security investments and commercial paper to make any money. For months they have bought government bonds at low yields. Commercial paper is scarce and there seems to be evidence now that the banks are buying other types of bonds. This has been offered as partial explanation of the recent uptrend in bond prices.

Collateral loans fell sharply in New York last week, dropping some $46,000,000, most of which was accounted for by a decline of $29,000,000 in loans to brokers.

The combined report of the reserve system revealed a decline of $11,000,000 in all types of money in circulation and a shrinkage of $9,000,000 in the system's holdings of bills and securities.

Reserve currency outstanding dropped $20,000,000 but this was partially offset by an increase in treasury and national bank currency. The shrinkage in reserve currency included another $16,000,000 of "asset" money withdrawn from circulation

NEW YORK'S GASOLINE WAR SPREADS; MORE COMPANIES CUT PRICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—The gasoline price war in the metropolitan area broadened today when H. C. Bohack & Co. cut the price at their service stations to 11¼ cents a gallon, or 4 cents below the posted price.

Socony Vacuum had already cut prices and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will post lower prices tomorrow. Other independent and major oil distributors in the district are expected to step into line.

The major companies say that some independents have obtained gasoline at less than the harbor base rate and, to secure gallonage, have cut the retail price almost to the limit. Independent companies say that they have been forced to cut the price, because of unfair practices of the major distributors, who, they say, have constantly violated the oil code provisions by issuing what are known as courtesy booklets to consumers.

U. S. RULE CAUSED BANK COLLAPSE, SAYS WILSON AID

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—The government's "absolute control" of bank policies in the last several years was asserted today by A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general, to have been the cause of the 1933 banking collapse.

The Wilson cabinet member, who said he was strongly in favor of the McLeod bill authorizing governmental payment to depositors in closed national banks, told the house banking committee the "control" exercised by the government over bank policies placed the responsibility squarely upon it to provide relief.

Palmer proposed that the government buy the remaining assets of closed banks "regardless of value," liquidate them over a long period, but pay the depositors in full at once. He said if congress had appropriated funds to pay depositors instead of for public works, "a large part of the road to recovery would be behind us now.

"Under the operation of our banking laws, what started out to be only a supervision and examination got to be an absolute control. That control is what put the banks in the situation which culminated in the banking collapse."

Illinois Central February Income Exceeds $1,000,000

Net operating income of the Illinois Central system for February was estimated yesterday at more than $1,000,000, compared with $473,494, in the same month a year ago.

DOLLAR, FRANC TOUCH NEW PAR FOR FIRST TIME

Bankers Doubt Gold Standard Loses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—The dollar and the franc today sold at their new parity, 6.63 cents per franc, for the first time since the revaluation of the United States currency. The attainment of parity followed a prolonged advance in French exchange which had lifted it from about 7 per cent discount shortly after the establishment of the new gold parity here. Other gold bloc currencies have shared in the movement against the dollar, but none of them has reached its new parity as yet.

Having touched 6.63 cents today, the franc backed away to close at 6.60½ cents, unchanged on the day. The Dutch guilder, however, which had risen to 67.75 cents, closed at 65.57 cents, off more than 1⅜ cents. The Swiss franc closed 3 points lower at 32.40 cents.

Sterling Down ⅛ Cent.

Other sections of the foreign exchange market were quiet with quotations of sterling down an eighth of a cent on the day at $5.11⅛ and members of the sterling group generally slightly lower. The Canadian dollar closed steady at 99.96⅞ cents.

Further gold imports of $3,616,500 were reported by the federal reserve bank, making total imports since Feb. 1 $617,304,000 and the net gain in monetary gold stocks in the period due to imports and changes in gold earmarking $584,482,600. Of the imports reported today $7,008,600 came from England, $1,461,700 from India, $139,200 from Holland, and $7,000, which was additional for Wednesday, from Cuba.

DOUBT GOLD BASIS FALLS

New York, March 22.—(AP)—International banking quarters, which thought they had been hearing the swan song of the old fashioned gold standard from time to time in recent weeks, paused today to consider whether they might not have been mistaken.

The fact that the Bank of France, frequently described as the last refuge of the old time monetary standard, has gained gold for the second successive week, coupled with the best level of the French franc in terms of the dollar since the dollar was valued on Jan. 31, for the moment gives a somewhat different complexion to the situation.

After losing approximately $220,000,-

STOCK TRADERS MORE HOPEFUL; PRICES MOVE UP

Believe Strike Will Not Be Permitted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—Traders took a more hopeful view of the "Washington picture" today and switched once more to the buying side of the stock market. Prices were marked up 1 to 2 points in nearly all departments. Trading continued at a leisurely pace, however, with the turnover falling below a million shares.

A growing acceptance of the idea that the "government will not permit a strike at this time" in any of the major industries was primarily responsible for the change in speculative sentiment, according to brokerage houses. Developments in the hearing on the revised bill to regulate security exchanges indicated that the measure might be altered further to relax its stringent requirements, and finally there was news of a move at the nation's capital for a modification of the truth in the securities act which has been handicapping big time financing.

Some Traders Confident.

None of these desired market aids was considered to be assured, but the late upturn in the market showed that there was a considerable element among the speculative fraternity willing to speculate on a favorable outcome of the more pressing problems of the collection. The disposition generally was to await patiently definite developments in the motor situation now that President Roosevelt has had an opportunity to hear both sides of the story.

Railroad shares recovered 1 to 2 points at the best, partly on the belief that with Coördinator Eastman as referee in the wage controversy due emphasis would be placed on the need of the railroads of low operating expenses for some time if a series of receiverships is to be avoided.

U. S. Smelting Up 5 Points.

In the metals, U. S. Smelting distinguished itself with a jump of nearly 5 points in the wake of the announcement that the company had declared $1 extra dividend coincident with publication of its operating results for last year and the first two months of 1934. American Smelting moved up a couple of points behind the leader. Cerro de Pasco bettered its standing. Some of the other shares did better, among them Dome, Alaska Juneau, McIntyre and Howe Sound.

Chrysler, General Motors, Nash and Mack Truck gained about a point each. Most of the standard industrials worked into moderately higher ground.

NATIONAL DAIRY PRODUCTS PROFIT TOTALS $7,051,872

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—The National Dairy Products corporation earned a net profit of $7,051,872 in 1933 after interest, depreciation and taxes, according to the company's tenth annual report, issued today. That was equal to $1.01 a share on the common stock after allowing for preferred dividends. It compared with a net of $12,537,380, or $1.88 a common share, in 1932.

The profit item for 1933 is not justly comparable with that of 1932 because of a change in bookkeeping whereby a discount amounting to $453,883 resulting from the purchase of 5¼ per cent debentures of the company during the year has not been included in the 1933 income account, but has been credited directly to surplus, whereas in 1932 a corresponding discount of $300,038 was included in income.

SILVER FUTURES

The Goldsborough bill carrying an amendment providing for silver remonetization was reported out of the house banking and currency subcommittee favorably yesterday, but the announcement failed to have any effect on silver futures, which closed 25 to 40c lower for the day. Foreign bar silver was unchanged to 45¼c. Sales of futures aggregated 152 lots or 3,700,000 ounces. March closed at 45.50c, May, 45.60c; July, 45.95c; September 46.40c; October, 46.65c; and December, 47.15c.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—Bond prices were steady in quiet trading on the stock exchange today. United States government bonds moved irregularly lower, off 9-32ds to up 5-32ds point, in transactions of $3,642,500 compared with the total of $12,290,000 for the listed market as a whole.

There was some unsettlement in the government issues on the report that long term financing might be expected by the treasury in meeting the April 15 maturity of some 1 billion dollars of called Liberty 4th 4¼s.

Industrial Bonds Irregular.

In the domestic corporation group, railroad and utility bonds showed better strength than did industrial issues. A number of rail issues rallied a point or two, while a comparable list sold off to that extent. Speculative rail bonds generally led in activity.

German bonds were again under pressure, showing the principal weaknesses in the foreign group. The German government 7s receded a point, and the 5½s were down ⅞ of a point. A number of German corporation and municipal loans dropped a point or more on the day. French government bonds were unchanged to down 1⅞ points.

Foreign Issues Variable.

Fluctuations in Scandinavian bonds were chiefly limited to small fractions. Dutch East Indies loans proved a strong spot, rising fractionally to more than 4 points. Latin American loans closed irregularly higher.

Both foreign and domestic bonds on the Curb exchange drifted irregularly lower in trading slightly more active than on the previous day.

In the over-the-counter market, New York city bonds softened on the statement by Controler Cunningham that the city might market new long term bonds when the economy bill is passed in Albany. The group closed down fractionally to 1¼ points.

NEW ISSUE.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. are offering $315,000 Lincoln, Neb., water extension bonds, $31,500 of which mature each year April 1, 1945 to 1954, and all of which are optional on and after April 1, 1944.

Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate full information on Raybestos-Manhattan.—D. C.

Answer: Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., was formed in 1929 as a consolidation of three companies. It produces an extensive line of rubber and asbestos products. About half of its business is done with the automobile trade, most of this portion coming from replacement business.

Starting with an unimpressive first quarter in 1933, the company reported substantial profits for the second and third quarters. Year-end charges prevented profitable operations in the final quarter.

For the full year net income was $685,000 [preliminary], or $1.07 per share. This compared well with the loss of $457,000 for 1932. Net income in 1931, before $481,000 adjustment of inventories and foreign exchange, was $554,000, or 85 cents per share, against $1,157,000, or $1.75 per share, for 1930. Net in 1929 was $3,206,000.

Net sales in the first nine months of 1933 were $8,196,000, against $6,345,000 for the corresponding 1932 period.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets were $7,385,000, about 12 times current liabilities of $609,000. There were no bank debts or long term borrowings. Capitalization consists solely of 642,900 shares of no par stock.

P. M. Farrell, president, general manager and director of the company, received a total compensation of $39,600 in 1933, $45,180 in 1932, and $56,250 in 1931.

Reflecting the improvement in business, common dividend payments on March 15, 1934, were raised from 15 cents to 25 cents a quarter. The stock is somewhat speculative.

Kansas City Terminal.

Investors' Guide: I find your daily half column interesting and helpful, so on my own account am asking for your opinion of the standing of Kansas City Terminal 4s, due 1960.—Mrs. E. H. A.

Answer: This issue is guaranteed, both as to payments of interest and principal, by twelve roads, among which are the Santa Fé, Burlington, Kansas City Southern, Union Pacific, and Chicago Great Western.

The strength of the guaranty and the ample security behind the bonds in the form of property entitle them to a sound rating.

No Gold Payment.

Investors' Guide: Is interest on Norwegian bonds payable in gold coin, if so desired, or in any legal tender in American money?—S. F. W.

Answer: Interest on Kingdom of Norway American issues of bonds is being paid in United States lawful money and has been since abandonment of the gold standard by this country in April, 1933.

TAX COLLECTIONS DURING FEBRUARY DOUBLE YEAR AGO

Due Partly to Levies on Wines and Liquors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Due hiefly to the levies on distilled spirits and malt liquors, increased returns under the gasoline and estate taxes, he tax on dividends and returns from the processing and related taxes, internal revenue collections in February totaled $174,635,835, an increase of $83,320,726 as compared with the same month last year, according to a compilation made public today by the treasury department.

Exclusive of the processing taxes authorized under the agricultural adjustment act, the aggregate collections were $141,133,426, or $50,418,318 more than in February last year.

Spirits Taxes Jump.

Production, rectification and floor taxes on distilled spirits amounted to approximately $11,900,000 as compared with a little over half a million dollars in February, 1933; taxes on wines, $1,561,000, and on fermented malt liquors, $9,316,000. Revenue from bottle, container, and case stamps also swelled the total by $807,092, as compared with only $2,562 one year ago.

Income taxes were about $3,000,000 below February, 1933, but this year there was an additional tax of $10,853,398 on dividends, and estate tax collections jumped to $11,060,139 as compared with $1,847,188 a year ago.

SANTA FE HEAD REPORTS STEADY GAINS IN TRAFIC

There has been a substantial increase in the trafic of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway, Samuel T. Bledsoe, president, stated yesterday. The trafic gain, Mr. Bledsoe explained, reflects continuous improvement in confidence which has been noticeable for some time in the territory which the system serves.

Mr. Bledsoe asserted that trafic has improved at practically all points on the line. Movements of grain are now exceeding shipments made at this time last year, contributing to the trafic upturn.

Among the improvements which the Santa Fé is instaling this year, Mr. Bledsoe said, is the laying of 194.62 miles of new rails and the air conditioning of passenger equipment. The new track to be laid consists of 183.26 miles of 112 pound rails and 11.36 miles of 131 pound rails.

DOLLAR, FRANC TOUCH NEW PAR FOR FIRST TIME

World Bankers Doubt Gold Basis Loses.

000 in gold between Jan. 18 and March 1, the Bank of France has since gained some $8,000,000.

Imports Not Tempting.

The French franc today closed within a few points of its new parity with the dollar. At that level the premium for the dollar is so small that New York banks are scarcely tempted to import French metal.

Nevertheless Wall street is not yet ready to conclude that the franc has been saved. French government credit is not such that the treasury finds it easy to borrow. The French treasury has just managed to borrow approximately $67,570,000 in Amsterdam through sale of ninety day bills to a syndicate of Dutch bankers, but these bills bear 4 per cent interest.

Furthermore, cautious Dutch bankers are taking no chances on losses through changes in the status of gold in making their loan to France.

Have Ironbound Clause.

This was discovered in particulars which the Dutch banks cabled to Wall street inviting New York banks to invest in the French bills. It was disclosed that the French bills contain a gold clause about as iron bound as it could be written.

It has been the custom in gold securities to specify merely that payment may be demanded in gold coin of specific weight and fineness. This was the clause contained in United States government and many private obligations when the United States went off the gold standard which provoked such a storm of controversy. The clause has been voided so far as United States government bonds are concerned.

But the Dutch bankers, headed by Mendelssohn & Co. of Amsterdam, have concluded a contract with the French which specifies among other things:

"The French government engage themselves to effect at the holder's option repayment of capital at the counters of the bankers and to pay interest at the counters of Mendelssohn & Co. of Amsterdam, either in Dutch gilders or in gold on the basis of one guilder equal to 0.604798 grams of fine gold.

Delivery Provisions.

"In case at the time of repayment of the bills any laws, decrees, or other legislative or administrative measures do not permit the delivery of gold in Amsterdam at the bankers' counters the French government engage themselves to deliver at the bankers' choice the gold at one or several other places, either within or outside of Holland, the additional costs of such delivery, compared with the costs of transport from Paris to Amsterdam, to be borne by the bankers.

"In case for any reason the delivery of gold stipulated above should not be effected the bankers may have the right to demand such amount of guilders or other currencies of their choice sufficient to buy in the markets for gold which are open at the time of maturity the quantity of gold to which the bills are entitled. . . ."

NATIONAL CITY OFFICIAL ADMITS OFFICERS' LOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—A suit by minority stockholders of the National City bank against the former management of the bank for an accounting of $70,000,000 alleged to have been lost by the acts of the officers and directors, went to trial today before Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Dore. James H. Perkins, chairman of the board was the first witness and told of loans to officers and employés of the bank and admitted that customers could not have obtained loans on the same collateral.

The suits were filed following the testimony of Charles E. Mitchell former head of the bank, and other officers before the senate committee on banking and currency, and are based in the main on testimony brought out at the hearings. More than thirty attorneys appeared for the many parties to the action.

Counsel for the plaintif told of the creation of a fund of $2,000,000, in November, 1929, later increased to $2,400,000, to help retrieve the personal fortunes of certain officers and employés. Little attention was paid to the ability of the borrowers to repay the loans, the attorney said, and such loans would have been refused to customers. Only 1 per cent of the loans has been repaid, he said.

PRESIDENT SEEKS DIRECT LOANS BY RFC, SAYS JONES

Would Supplement Bank Credit Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—President Roosevelt favors giving to the Reconstruction Finance corporation authority to make direct loans to industry in exceptional cases when other lending agencies, including the proposed intermediate credit banks, fail to meet the demand and when loans can be properly secured, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, said in a letter transmitted today to Senator Fletcher, chairman of the senate banking and currency committee.

Jones stated also that the President would like to have the method of financing exports and imports simplified to the extent of giving to the RFC the right to own the common, as well as the preferred stock in the export-import banks, thus making it unnecessary to draw on public works funds.

Redrafts Two Plans.

Sections of the omnibus bill recently submitted by the RFC covered these two feautres and aroused considerable controversy. Jones said he was submitting redrafts which represented the administration ideas, and was ready to discuss them with the committee.

The letter was forwarded to the senate committee today, following a meeting of the committee yesterday at which there cropped up opposition to some of the features of the administration's proposal to establish twelve intermediate credit banks for industry under close supervision of the federal reserve system.

As a result of the negotiations today it is understood that the committee will consider the granting of authority of the RFC to supplement work of the intermediate credit banks in determining the final form which the latter measure shall take. Proposals for additional authority for the RFC in connection with the financing of the import-export banks will be made the subject of a separate bill.

Banks to Act First.

Jones said that while the two agencies would be doing much the same type of work in aiding industry, it would be the policy of the RFC first to refer applicants to the intermediate credit banks before acting on loan applications itself. He pointed out that the RFC setup would be a temporary one, covering only the remainder of the year, unless congress extended its powers beyond that time.

Under the plan of lending to industry through community mortgage corporations, Jones said relatively little had been accomplished, total loans being $7,184,000 to fifty-five different borrowers.

U. S. SMELTING PAYS EXTRA AS EARNINGS RISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—Directors of the United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company again favored common stockholders today with an extra dividend coincident with the announcement that net income for last year had risen to $6.68 a share on the 528,765 common shares outstanding.

An extra disbursement of $1 a share was voted on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents a share on that issue and 87½ cents on the preferred, all payable April 14 to holders of record April 2. Three months ago a bonus of $3.50 a share was declared, and six months ago 50 cents was ordered on the junior stock.

Steady improvement in the metals market in the latter half of 1933, especially in silver, of which the company is an important producer, enhanced net income to $5,169,875 after all charges, compared with $1,995,232, or 62 cents a share on the common, for the previous twelve months.

Net profit for the first two months of 1934 amounted to $896,238 after charges, equal to $1.18 a share compared with profit of $278,245, or 1 cent a share, in the first two months of 1933.

Palmer Asks Dissolution of Alton Mutual Society

Suit to dissolve the Alton Mutual Society of Alton, Ill., a small life insurance association organized in 1927, was brought yesterday in the Circuit court at Edwardsville by Ernest Palmer, state insurance director. The petition alleges that the association's liabilities exceed its assets by $11,200. The liabilities include $15,160 in policy claims. The association's difficulty was attributed to the death of 18 policyholders since Jan. 1.

Building Management Firm Files Bankruptcy Petition

Hackel & Backus, a south side building management concern, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District court yesterday, listing liabilities of $901,000 and nominal assets of $400. Of the liabilities approximately $800,000 is secured by real estate collateral, it was said.

WHEAT RALLIES ON HINT OF CUT IN SALES TAXES

Recovers Early Loss and Closes Firm.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Approval by the senate finance committee of the proposal to reduce taxes on grain futures transactions encouraged traders here yesterday and wheat prices closed firm after an early dip.

The tax now is 5 cents per $100, and the bill proposes to reduce this levy to 1 cent. Under the present impost the tax on a sale of 5,000 bushels of wheat aggregates about $2.20, while under the proposed change it would be only 44 cents.

While it was admitted the proposed cut may meet strong opposition, the senate action today resulted in a much more active market.

Wheat Rallies After Break.

Wheat broke ⅞ cent in the early trading, but rallied well to close unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, corn was ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, rye was ⅜ to ¾ cent higher. Barley finished ½ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

So completely are the grain markets overshadowed by monetary and industrial conditions that not a single unqualified opinion as to the immediate action of prices was expressed in twelve commission house market letters issued after the close yesterday. The general belief was the markets would prove to be trading affairs pending further developments, and a restoration of confidence was regarded as highly necessary.

Winnipeg closed ⅛ to ¼ cent higher and Liverpool ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher.

Crop Damage Reports Studied.

More attention was given by the wheat trade to the increasing complaints of actual deterioration in the winter wheat crop as the result of the severe dust storms recently and to the continued talk of lack of subsoil moisture in the spring wheat area.

According to the county agent in Beaver county, Oklahoma, the prospect for a 4,000,000 bushel wheat yield in that section had been ruined. The Kansas weekly weather-crop report showed damage over a large area in the western third of that state.

No export demand was in evidence for domestic cash corn, according to local handlers, but they expected business soon in view of the forecast of unfavorable weather in Argentina.

LIVE STOCK BILL HEARING MAKES LITTLE HEADWAY

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—The senate agricultural committee hearing on the Capper bill to limit direct buying of live stock wound up today about where it started more than a week ago.

Packers advanced their stock arguments that direct buying has grown up to bless producers with better prices, more outlets and readier facilities through the influence of radio market reports, better roads and more trucks.

Proponents of the bill characterized direct marketing as a menace to public markets which they described as price establishing and price protecting institutions.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES HIGHER; POTATOES DECLINE

Moderate new buying carried butter and egg futures higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter closed with gains of ⅛@½c and eggs ¼@⅝c. April potatoes dropped 10c.

Butter statistics were mixed. The movement out of storage was light, although heavier than last year, and Chicago reported a slight net increase in holdings. The centralizers reported production 6 per cent less than last year and about the same as the previous week. Short covering developed on the news and helped prices higher.

Egg figures continued rather bullish. The movement of eggs into the four markets was less than half the year ago movement and receipts were under last year. Hedging checked the advance. Sales: Butter, 44 cars; eggs, 32 cars; potatoes, 6 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 1 car; potatoes, 4 cars. Prices follow:

FEDERAL BUYING FAILS TO STOP DECLINE IN HOGS

Federal buying orders for hogs which were thrown on the market partly to counterbalance the effects of the processing tax on prices, are proving insufficient to offset the bearish influence of the tax of $2.25 per hundred pounds.

The market for hogs sagged again yesterday, losses ranging from 5 to 15 cents, with the general average off 10 cents, at $4.20. This price is the lowest since February 6 and is 55 cents below the high point of the year just prior to the last increase of 75 cents in the tax. Packers buying for the government obtained 11 per cent of yesterday's total hog receipts, or 2,450 head of good to choice quality light butchers, costing $4.35 and $4.40, with a scattering up to $4.45.

Eastern Buyer Outbids U. S.

One load of exceptionally fancy 198 pound averages sold to an eastern order buyer at $4.50, which was 5 cents above the price bid by federal buyers. Larger packing interests became more aggressive on late rounds in the kinds selling at $4.35 and under after a 10 to 15 cents lower price basis had been established.

Most of the smaller houses have been working on a greatly reduced scale since the March 15 increase in the tax, and they bought sparingly of "house" hogs again yesterday. Quality of hogs continues poor. Many large consignments were composed of "mediums" averaging 150 to 180 pounds, which are selling at $3.25 to $3.75, and also 190 to 225 pound second grade hogs that bring $3.85 to $4.15. Several thousand of these kinds were left over at the close of yesterday's market.

Decline in Lambs Checked.

Declines were checked in the lamb market on reduced receipts, while cattle retained the advances scored on Wednesday. Short-fed steers comprised the bulk of the smaller cattle run yesterday. Consequently the tonnage of beef in the receipts was smaller than the tally indicated. Receipts at 5,000, compared with 7,733 a week ago, and was the smallest Thursday run since Dec. 21. Chicago receipts for the first four days of the week show a decrease of more than 20 per cent compared with a week ago.

Good action featured the better grades of steers and yearlings, with prices slightly above the average of the preceding day. Several full carloads of steers averaging 1,190 to 1,238 pounds brought $7.50, the top price. The bulk of steers of beef merit cashed at $5.35 to $7.10. Extremely heavy steers continued to creep up toward the top of the price list.

Improved demand for lambs coupled with the sharp drop in supplies brought buyers out early in search of good to choice stock at fully steady prices. Arrivals at 12,000 compared with 18,928 last Thursday, and with 20,164 a year ago. The bulk of the good to choice wooled lambs sold at $9 to $9.10, while shippers brought up to $9.20.

CASH INTERESTS BUY LARD ON EARLY BREAK

Lard prices declined early yesterday with the weakness in grains, but met good support by cash and speculative interests which brought about a rally. At the close lard futures were 5 to 10 cents lower on new contracts and 2½ cents off on old May.

Cash lard was 2½ to 5 cents lower on a basis of $6.17½ for regular and loose and unchanged for leaf at $6.25. Cash lots of bellies were taken at $8, the same as for several days. Prices:

MORE COMMODITIES SELL LOWER, DUE TO RECOVERY PROGRAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—Recent advances in wholesale commodity prices showed further checks this week, according to the report of Dun & Bradstreet, whose list recorded only fifteen items advancing and forty declining. The greater weakness was attributed to uncertainties over the new inflationary legislation at Washington; also trading activities in cash markets were held largely to immediate needs.

"In the foodstuffs division advances totaled only six, while declines numbered eighteen, as compared with thirteen each in the preceding week," says the report. "Demand in the spot coffee market has been tapering off after the recent heavy buying movements, during which the trade satisfied requirements for at least a month ahead.

"Fresh butter prices declined further in the beginning of the week, induced by speculative liquidation, but improved demand later strengthened the market and final quotations for fresh creamery extras were firm at the previous week's level."

ILLINOIS CENTRAL OPENS NEW FAST FREIGHT SERVICE

The Illinois Central system yesterday announced that it is opening a new fast freight service today between Chicago and the south and southeast. The new train will permit a saving of twenty-four hours or more in some shipments between the Chicago area and the southern points. The train, which will leave here at 11 a. m., will handle cars out of the metropolitan area of Chicago as well as cars from connecting lines arriving too late to be carried on the regular 1:35 a. m. train.

A 41 hour schedule will be maintained between Chicago and New Orleans, making the fastest freight train in the service except the system's banana trains carrying perishables. The new train will serve intermediate points between Chicago and New Orleans, Birmingham, Atlanta, Savannah, Tampa, Miami, etc.

Stone & Webster Directors Re-elected; Stock Decreased

Stockholders of Stone & Webster yesterday reëlected the retiring board of directors and authorized a decrease in the company's shares from 3,000,000 to 2,110,000. This decrease, which applies only to unissued shares, does not affect the outstanding stock.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were in better demand and ¼@½c higher, with receipts 19,255 cases. Butter was ¼@⅜c lower, with receipts 7,901 tubs. Potatoes easier, with receipts 112 cars and 366 cars were on team track. With exception of an advance of 1c on Plymouth rock broilers live poultry prices were unchanged. Receipts, 2 cars and 20 trucks.

A
Story for Girls Like You

ONE DAY LAST FALL A GIRL just like you read our ad, mailed the coupon, and from our reply learned of the wonderful opportunities offered Marinello beauticians in the beauty profession.

Immediately she enrolled in our school and found the work so interesting and delightful, in the large sunny class rooms equipped just like regular beauty shops, that the time quickly passed and before she realized it graduation time had arrived. How thrilled she was when she received her certificate. Now she is earning a GOOD SALARY as a successful Marinello operator and before the end of the year may have a shop all her own! You can do the same.

Now! Marinello offers you the lowest tuition rates in our history. Payments conveniently arranged. Complete instruments, textbooks, and all cosmetics will be furnished without charge if you enroll for day or evening classes now forming.

Visit Our School.

Phone or mail this coupon today for free illustrated Booklet T and set of eight photographs showing Marinello classes at work.

HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE POLICY

HAS SAVED Chicago Borrowers HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

For over 50 years we have given our customers a square deal. We were the first to reduce our charges below the legal maximum and we intend to continue lending money to worthy people at the lowest possible rate and to give them fair, courteous, businesslike treatment.

The charge for a Household Loan of $300 is 2½% per month on the unpaid balance throughout the life of the loan. Rate on loans less than $300 is 2½% a month on that part of a loan over $100. On that part of a loan less than $100 3½% a month. Charges figured only for actual number of days each dollar is kept. Full amount in cash.

All Details Are Transacted in Individual Consultation Rooms.

No questions are asked of your employer, merchants, neighbors, relatives, friends or of any one else. Quick, courteous service. Only husband and wife sign. Up to 20 months to pay. Come in, phone or write.
